Methodist Parish To Re-Dedicate Churches Sunday, May 17 A service of re-dedication will be held in both the Cavendish and the Kendrick United Methodist Churches this Sunday, May 17. During the past six years numerous accomplishments have been noted by both congregations. In Cavendish, the church basement In Cavendish, the church pasement, has been carpeted and a new sint, hot water heater and kitchen call, nets installed. A well was dug and hooked up to the water system about tion to the Vocational Agriculture building, replacement of the district was and a new sign was a year ago, and a new sign was built and installed in front of the van, and supplementing other district funds for purchase of equipment for the office practice classes, equipment storage cabinets in some of the classrooms, and carpet in the two rooms church by a member of the congregation. Also to be dedicated on Sunday will be the new organ which was purchased about three years ago.

The Kendrick Church has just completed an extensive remodeling project. The basement has been completely refurbished and the outside the building has been secured against the ravages of the mud slides of the last fifty years. A new drain system has been installed around the church and a new entrance and retaining wall built at the front of the building.

Dick Boyd, the Methodist District Superintendent from Walla Walla, will be with both congregations to the service of re-dedication. Fri

The American Legion Poppies are made by veterans in V. A. hospitals, and sold each year by Auxiliaries and their helpers. Funds realized from the sale of the tiny red paper flow-ers are used to help needy veterans, disabled men and women and their families. In 1979, veterans earned over $344,000 by making popples. The Legion Auxiliary has been in complete charge of the Poppy program since 1924 and millions of dollars re-alized from the sale of popples has been used in rehabilitation and child welfare projects since that time.

Letter to the Editor-

Route 1, Box 24 Genesee, Idaho May 11, 1981 To The Patrons of the Genesee School District: We believe it is apparent to everyone that the Genesee School is per-torning very well under the new administration.

This past winter, meetings and surveys were undertaken to establish the goals that the community had for its school. Among the most important of these were expansion of the Vo-Ag shop to accommodate the large number of students enrolled, and remodeling of the school building to improve energy efficiency, lighting, safety, and at the same time to make better use of existing space.

We urge support for the two school levies that will make this cost effective and sensible plan possible.

Sincerely, David and Dorothy Wahl

Notes from the Meal Site

The birthdays of five people were noted at the April 29th meeting at the Kendrick Meal Site, Among those honored was Lois Thayer of Lewis-ton, Mrs. Thayer, a pioneer of this region was honored for having celebrated her 90th birthday. She was presented a banner proclaiming her Senior of the Month. Mrs. Thayer was accompanied by her brother, Rufus Fairfield. An adjoining table was filled by relatives including a sister, nieces, a great niece and a great grand niece. A lovely cake baked by Linda Horning of Deary, was also presented.

Following a fried chicken dinner, complete with cake and ice cream, a group of old-time fiddlers from the prairie entertained. The music was beautiful and one member of the musical group was a former Idaho State champion.

Many guests were present and a total of 98 signed the guest book. Sue Craig, reporter.

"Campers receive a full week of conservation training to help them better understand the use and management of our natural resources, said Paul L. Sunderland, Kootenai County agricultural agent for the University of Idaho Extension Serwice in Coeur d'Alene.

"The outdoor setting puts us closer to our natural resources as well as providing a chance to have fun and participate in different activities such as a tournament of the out-doors," said Sunderland who is camp chairman.

The camp emphasizes the study of soil, water, rangeland, forests, wildlife, recreation and conservation planning. Instructors are public agency professionals and specialists from universities and private industries in Idaho and Washington.

Although a camp fee of $78 is charged, few campers pay it. Many camperships are available from spon soring organizations in northern Idaho and eastern Washington.

Applications forms are available from Idaho and Washington county extension agents and vocational agriculture teachers, Soil Conservation Services district offices and USFS ranger stations in both states. They must be returned to local SCS dis-

A Message to the Class of '81 . . .

As the members of the Senior Class of Kendrick High School, 1981, prepare for their commencement ceremonies on Sunday, May 17, we want each and everyone of them to know they take with them the most sincere best wishes of each of us for a long, happy and prosperous life. We have watched most of the class members grow from infants into young adulthood and we are proud of your achievements as you strived to become responsible, young men and women.

May the Blessings of God be with you and guide you all through the coming years, and may you find happiness and rewarding satisfaction in the greatest measure.

Real dairy products carry this seal.

This seal is your assurance of a REAL dairy food. It's our way of helping you quickly and easily single out REAL dairy products from "lookalike" imitations.

The dairy foods that carry the

"REAL" Seal do so proudly. Only genuine dairy products that meet federal standards can be certified by the American Dairy Association to display the Seal.

So, look for the "REAL" Seal on our dairy products. You'll know when you buy these foods they're REAL dairy products — without a doubt!

PRP cannot change technical job can be done best if schools and parents work together. Parents can lay the foundation for their younganter to have a successful school experience.

Here are nine tips:

* Help young children learn and use simple words. It's amazing how much vocabulary a 3-year-old can develop if given support. Identify familiar for children with their names. The sooner young children can communicate simple words and concepts, the sooner they can move to more difficult learning.

Turn on television programs that teach. There are many that help young children learn to count, the alphabet, and even simple words.

Listen to young children. This requires patience, but it also encourages youngsters to develop speaking

Rend to children. Rending is so important to education, and parents can emphasize that importance by reading regularly to young children it will also help them recognize letters and words.

Take the family on trips that have educational value. Going to the zoo or to a museum can reinforce lessons. taught at achool. And it's fun for the family.

* Praise children for their success in school. Parents' feelings are im-portant to their children. Students should understand that parents think it's as important to score well on a spelling test as it is to keep their room clean.

Bet aside 20 minutes each weekend when everyone in your home reads. Students will understand that reading is important if parents demonstrate that by their example. And keep plenty of reading materials around your home.

• Establish a quiet place for study in your home. Polisters tell us that Americana have watched 18,000 hra. of television by the time they reach 1H years of age. This compares to 15,000 hours in school. In front of the television is not the best place to do homowork. Give your youngster's minds a chance to absorb his or her lessons.

Let your youngster know that you believe education is important. Parents can do this by taking an interest in what their students are doing in school, by asking questions about what happens in the class and about school projects. They can also do this by attending school events such as back-to-school nights and open houses. Joining school support groups, such as music boosters or PlAS, indicate the value you place on education.

The greater the cooperation between school and home, the better the learning experience for students. Working together we can provide the best possible education for students.

Mrs. Yvonne Hunter spent three days early last week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wayne Heimgartner, returning to Lewiston on Thursday, May 7. On Sunday, Helen Slemp and son Bill of Lewiston, with daughter Carol Metcalf and two boys of Clarkston, bringing mother Hunter with them, were dinner guests of the Wayne Heimgartners. During the afternoon they were joined by Har-old, Carlene and baby Haley from Lewiston.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregg and Sherry Munther from Missoula, Mont., were Sunday dinner guests in the Steve Pettit home at Cherrylane. I believe they now own the former home of Art and Ansey Johnston, in Agatha. Property changes hands at a great rate in these later, modern years. We oldsters tend to settle in more sedately!

Mother's Day for Cletis and Bea Hoisington was spent in the Lewiston home of daughter Vivian and husband Bob Blair. Son Neale and wife Unis were later evening callers on the Point.

"Mother's Day" for Gert (and Eldon) Heimgartner was spent in Lewiston and 'eating out' with son Gerald and family. Gertrude and Erma visited Mother Mystie on Saturday.

Erma Stevens spent her honored day with daughter Mrs. Ernie Fliger and family. They all enjoyed eating out at the Moscow King's Table. Thus Crystal and Erma were both freed of labor.

Mrs. Effie Powell, and Sharon Skillman and sons were Sunday dinner guests in the Glen Stevens home.
