INFLUENZA HERE'S TO YOUR HEALTH!

Influenza, or "Flu," is an acute disease of the upper respiratory tract (the head, throat, and lungs). Influenza is highly contagious. Once it begins to spread, up to half the people in the community can catch it. Localized outbreaks (epidemics) and worldwide outbreaks (pandemics) of influenza usually occur during winter months. Major outbreaks occurred in 1918, 1957, and 1968. Influenza is potentially very serious and can be life-threatening to adults over age 65 and to people with chronic ailments such as heart, lung, or kidney disease, diabetes or a depressed immune system. Influenza causes more deaths and sickness throughout the world each year than any other infectious disease.

How do you catch influenza? By coming into direct or indirect contact with the flu virus. Direct contact occurs when people with influenza cough or sneeze. The virus is propelled into the air where it can be inhaled by others. Indirect contact occurs when the virus is transmitted from towels, telephones or other object that have been contaminated by persons with the disease. An infected person can spread the disease for about one week following the appearance of first symptoms. Children are more susceptible than adults since they often have lower immunity, closer contact with others and poorer hygiene habits.

Symptoms of influenza begin one to four days after exposure to the virus. Severity of symptoms depends on the virus and the individual. Some people may have very mild symptoms or no symptoms at all. Early symptoms of influenza such as fever, chills, headache, aching muscles, tiredness and loss of appetite, usually last about 3 days. By the fourth day, the early symptoms are usually replaced by a dry cough congested nose and sore throat. These symptoms, usually subside within a week, but the person may feel tired for seven to ten days or longer. A physician should be contacted if symptoms are unusually severe or persistent.

Poultry, Egg Producer Prospects Improve in '82

Moscow—After enduring economic setback in 1981, poultry and egg producers are looking forward to a more profitable year in 1982. Overproduction was a major problem in 1981, according to the agricultural outlook report issued jointly by the University of Idaho, WSU, and Oregon State University. The report said producers of eggs and broilers have reduced their flocks bringing production into better balance with market demand. Turkey numbers will decline sharply in the second half of 1982, the report predicted.

UI's "Buzz" Hall Begins New Job at U. of Georgia

Dr. Richard F. "Buzz" Hall, UI College of Agriculture veterinarian at the UI Veterinary Research Center at Caldwell, will begin a new position at the University of Georgia in January.

Hall's position at the University of Idaho was eliminated in the 1981 funding cutbacks. He will be epidemiologist at the Veterinary Diagnostics Laboratory of the U. of Georgia's College of Veterinary Medicine at Tifton.

Hall had been with the University of Idaho College of Agriculture for almost 15 years, the first three at Moscow and the remainder at Caldwell. A native of Boise and Eagle, he was a practicing veterinarian in Weiser for nine years after receiving his doctor of veterinary medicine degree at Washington State University in 1958. In 1980, he earned a master's degree in preventive veterinary medicine through the University of California at Davis.

In Georgia, Hall will be responsible for instituting a computer system for daily animal disease surveillance at the university's Tifton and Athens laboratories. As animal health problems become apparent, he will investigate them in the field in cooperation with other agencies, producers and private veterinarians.

At the University of Idaho, Hall was involved in extensive research on weak calf syndrome, liver flukes, and reproductive and neonatal diseases in cattle and sheep. As UI Cooperative Extension veterinarian, he developed producer-oriented programs in animal health.

"I'm looking forward to the future," said Hall. Georgia has a lot more to offer in terms of public support for their university system. They have a good attitude and want to instigate disease control programs—and they have the funds to do it with."

Cumberland wasn't a free pass.

But it was America's first generation gap. Between 1775 and 1880, generation after generation of American settlers plodded through the Cumberland Gap.

A natural pass through the Appalachians that became the gateway to the West.

It was tough going. The cost was great. In money. And lives. But they paid the price. Because they were building a country. Their country. You can help build America today by buying U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

That way, a little is set aside from each paycheck to buy Bonds. Automatically.

It makes saving easy. And that's something you can't pass up.

Under U.S. Bonds pay 8% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4 1/2% the first year). Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deducted until redemption.

By Nellie Dean Steigers

Mildred Heath reported that her lady helper, Ellen, was still in serious condition in the intensive care unit at the Spokane hospital where she has been confined with a heart condition since leaving our area just before Christmas. We wish her a speedier recovery than she has fared thus far. A nice friendly helpful lady while in our midst. Ruth Ann, Mildred's granddaughter from Nezperce, has remained at Hubbard Gulch recently.

On Saturday Mildred accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Earl Partridge to the wedding reception held for granddaughter Patti and new husband, Mike Curtis, at the Winchester home of her mother Inez Inghram.

New Year's dinner guests in the Glen Stevens home were Pastor John Skillman and family of Cottonwood Creek. During the afternoon Diane and Robby Harmes came for sleigh-riding fun!

The Stevens enjoyed Sunday dinner at the Cherrylane home of Steve and Karen Kirkham.

The Lloyd Stevens children, Hollis and Brady, enjoyed New Year's Day afternoon with cousins from Moscow at the home ranch! Outdoors—and TV indoors!

Holiday Travels—
On Tuesday morning, Dec. 22, a car, filled with 6 passengers — the Ken Steigers and his parents, Ernest and Nellie, departed for Kammer, Wash. for a week at the home of the Loren Ratliff family. Attending the Seattle Super Sonics basketball game and the King Dome and seeing them win—trips to the Marina and zoo for the younger ones—a few hours at the public library to satisfy Nellie; a final Sunday evening gathering of the Henry Steigers clan at the home of Herb Steigers at Burien, Wash., and a snowy trip home over the pass on Monday, but safe arrival home that late afternoon, completed that episode in their lives!

The Ken Steigers, young and still full of zip—have enjoyed various snow outings. New Year's Eve, overnite and New Year's Day at the Webster home at Welpepe, with a roast turkey dinner in the woods was fine fun. Mr. and Mrs. John Talbott of Moscow joined the group on New Year's Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Partridge, following a visit with Mildred Heath on Thursday, spent two hours with the Ernest Steigers. Later, brother Alvin Steigers and wife Mabel came to visit. The Carl Steigers family of Seattle, who spent Christmas with his parents, Alvin and Mabel and at Troy, returned to their Washington home in time to attend the Steigers gathering in Burien. Both of their sons were home for the holidays, Chad from college at Pullman and Kurt from his Navy schooling at Annapolis, Maryland, both looking fine and fit!

Mrs. Sharon Hatch and small sons Milo and Carney from Lewiston spent Saturday afternoon at the home of her cousin, Linda Steigers. The boys had a good 'snow romp' with Brant.

Merle Cooper of Lewiston enjoyed New Year's dinner with her mother, Helena Brown, at Pine Creek. Great-grandson Michael Prince, phoned her from Kennewick. Don Brown was a brief Sunday guest this past week.

A large New Year's Eve and New Year's Day gathering was celebrated at the Roy Heimgartner home this year. "Too numerous to list" was the remark of hostess Ardythe.

From Ruth and Wayne Heimgartner's home came notes that New Year's Eve supper and overnite guests included Bill and Laverne Harri and Lily McCall of Clarkston. Later, for overnite, there came Janet and Dean Rynearson, Heidi and Nicole.

From the Leslie Heimgartner home was a farther list of their overnite New Year's guests from Roy and Ardythe Heimgartner's huge party! These included daughter and husband of Betty and John Surbaugh—Kay and Howard Bodl of Kodiak, Alaska; and granddaughters Cheryl Slenker of Spokane and Sonia Phil-

Travel Committee Holds Boise Meeting

Idaho's Travel Committee (ITC) will hold its next regular meeting in Boise on the 12 and 13th of January. The meeting is scheduled to begin at 8:30 a. m. in the Liberty Room of the Red Lion Riverside Motel, on the 12th.

Steve Bly Treasureland's representative to the ITC stated, "this is particularly an important meeting to the travel industry in our state." "We will be awarding grant monies to selected regional tourism committees, chambers of commerce and other non-profit organizations involved in tourism." He further said, "these funds will be used to create and implement programs to stimulate and expand the travel and tourism economy of Idaho."

lips of Wisconsin (pardon me, girls, if I've confused your places of residence). Anyhow, the New Year's party at Roy and Ardythe's was Extra Super, this year!

On Monday, Jan. 4th, News gathering, laughing remarks on the snow still falling and of having sufficient food stored on hand, in case of becoming "snow bound", as in the "good old Days", was in order!

Bill Steigers and friend of Lewiston were very brief "stoppers" at the home of his parents on Saturday following a coyote hunt in Pine Creek canyon. Bill delivered a lovely package of gifts from Korea, from his son Michael and bride, entrusted to his care. "Thank You," from Grandma. "Both gifts are lovely".

comes from dollars generated by the 2 percent tax on the sale of hotel/motel and campground accommodations. This tax was passed by the 46th Session of the Idaho Legislature as House Bill 111.

Bly also added, "other topics to be covered in the January meeting include the development of a full-blown summer tourist campaign, a new accommodations guide and additional ITC policy development." It is vital that we receive input from the travel industry that we represent, and meetings such as this offer travel businesses the opportunity to express their views," he said.

BEAUTIFUL steamer

OR how FULTON kept HIS head above WATER.

Robert Fulton laughed all the way to the banks. Of the Hudson River that is.
It was August 17, 1807, and Fulton's steamboat "Clermont" made its maiden voyage from New York City to Albany.
The skeptics lined the river's edge to witness the sinking of "Fulton's Folly." Instead, Fulton kept his steamboat and his head above water. And helped shape the future of America.
Today, you can help shape America's future. And keep your own ship afloat at the same time. By buying U.S. Savings Bonds.
They're an investment you can bank on. Because no one ever lost money with Savings Bonds.
So sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds and your future will be smooth sailing.

By Jo Benscoter

Dr. Jim and Lesley Kopp and their children John and Michelle arrived at the Dick Benscoter home on Wednesday after spending Christmas in Cove, Oregon with Jim's grandfather and other members of the Kopp family. They spent New Year's Day in the Benscoter home with other overnight guests, Susan and Dave Belts of Spokane. The Belts went back to Spokane on Saturday and the Kopp family left for their Oakland, Calif., home on Sunday morning, which was a stormy, snowy day for such a long trip.

The David Johnson family of Lewiston enjoyed New Year's Day dinner with Lawrence, Nell and Ray Heimgartner.

The Heimgartners were New Year's Day supper guests of Janice, Dick and Marliou Groseclose in Juliaetta while the Johnsons visited with Aunt Mildred Johnson in Kendrick.

Sunday morning callers in the Heimgartner home were Andy Cox and David Neal.

Charles, Pat and Jeff Havens were Saturday visitors in the George Havens home.

New Year's eve guests of the Warney May family included Darel and Julie Hazeltine, Ernie and Rena Andrews, Mike Courtright and a friend Laura Burr of Lewiston.

Bob and Judy Callison and their children, Audra and John, attended the Ice Capades in Spokane on Saturday evening. They remained in Spokane overnight and returned home Sunday. The show was beautiful but traveling conditions not too good.

On Monday Diane Dupea and her sons Tim and Chris visited the Walt Walt Benscoters and assisted with some left over chores. On Thursday evening grandson Nick Armitage called on Walt and Babe.

Wilma Greene had New Years Day dinner with her parents. Other callers were Vicky Benscoter and Lesley Kopp and children on Saturday and Bob and Diane Dupea on Sunday.

Carol Lynn Rogers and sons Anthony and Christopher brought grandmother Rose Akins to the Lloyd Farringtons for Christmas Day. Also on that same day Deb and Rick Farrington arrived from Spokane where they had been visiting Deb's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lycan. The Rogers stayed only to enjoy the day, but Rick and Deb remained until Sunday when they returned to their home in Boulder, Colo. Grandmother Rosie visited until Sunday, when Evelyn and Phil Kirby came and took her back to her Clarkston home. Seems like Amy and Lloyd had a busy week—it's so nice to have one's children come home!

Vicky Benscoter and Lesley Kopp and her children John and Michelle called on Jo Benscoter Saturday. Otherwise Jo would be really "snowed in" if it were not for the kindness of neighbors, the Warney Mays, Mark Heimgartner and Dick Benscoter.

The snow is beautiful and the drifts artistic, but one is oblivious to this if its against your storm doors so they won't open even enough for you to squeeze out to shovel a little path.

Andy, Minnie and Tom Cox returned home on Tuesday from Boise where they had visited the past week at the Jim Reid home. They all had a happy Christmas time with Andy Sue and Jim and their three little girls, Jennifer, Mary and Melanie. For a thrilling Christmas, share it with children.

Growers Expected to Plant Too Many Potatoes In 1982

Moscow: Prices for the 1982 potato crop are expected to decline below 1981 levels, agricultural economists of the UI, WSU and Oregon State University predicted in a year-end report.

Overproduction is likely because "growers are getting the false signal that they can increase acreage and still get good prices," the economists said.

Most growers in the Pacific NW earned profits in 1981 even though prices for the 1981 russet potato crop will average 15 to 20 percent lower than 1980 crop prices, the report said.

"Low yields are the reason for favorable 1981 crop prices. Pacific Northwest potato growers planted 12 percent more acreage in 1981. Because average yields for the region decreased nearly 6 percent, 1981 production is only about 5.5 percent higher than production in 1980," authors of the report pointed out.

"After two good price years, potato growers will increase acreage again in 1982. With good growing conditions, prices for the 1982 crop will probably fall below the cost of production," the economic forecasters said.
