Carrie Wins Again!

Carrie Vestal, a 5th grade student at Genesee Elementary school, won area school competition in the Elks National Hoop Shoot held in Moscow December 19, with 19 out of 25 throws. She advanced to Potlatch for the district contest on January 16, which took in North Idaho. Here she made 15 out of 25 throws. From there she will advance to the state finals to be held at Twin Falls on February 6th.

This competition was for age group 10 and 11.

The 77-year-old man had worked 80 hours a week all of his life and had never taken a vacation. His children were grown and his wife had died. He decided it was time to enjoy life. He had a face lift, got an expensive toupee, acquired 10 new suits, and the highest priced foreign car he could find.

He then dressed in an $800 suit, meticulously adjusted a $50 tie, carefully arranged his toupee, and climbed into the new car. With a sigh of happiness he pulled away from the curb, drove three blocks, and was killed in an accident.

On arrival he stalked over to St. Peter and said, "What's going on here? All my life I worked hard and finally, when I had everything in place to enjoy myself, I was killed. Why? Why, did you let it happen?"

St. Peter ducked his head in embarrassment, and replied, "To tell you the truth, Charlie, I didn't recognize you."

DON'T LET TIGHT MONEY LEAVE YOU IN THE COLD.

A house that leaks energy can leave you in the cold. Both physically and financially. By improving insulation and sealing up energy leaks, however, you can start saving from 10% to 45% on your heating bills this winter. But coming up with the money to make improvements can be tough these days. That's where our Weatherization Loan Program comes in.

If you've been heating your home with electricity since August, 1978, we'll loan you the money you need to weatherize your house and stop those energy leaks. You pay no interest on this money. No monthly installment payments. And you don't have to pay it back for up to 10 years.

Why interest-free loans? Because the better insulated your home is, the less electricity it takes to heat it. By helping you conserve electricity today we can help hold down the demand for new and more expensive sources of electricity tomorrow.

We'll give you a free home energy survey to show you how and where you can save money and energy, regardless of how you heat your home. And tell you if you qualify for an interest-free Weatherization Loan.

Just send us the coupon. Without obligation, of course.

The sooner you do it, the sooner we can start helping you save money on heating bills!

Cedar Mill At Santa To Close
Santa, Idaho — Representatives of Potlatch Corp. this week announced that the company will close its cedar products mill here indefinitely at the end of business January 8. About 20 employees will be affected.

Northern Manufacturing Units Manager William E. Tufts said poor market conditions and a lack of space for additional inventory caused the shut-down. The mill will be re-started when market conditions allow, Tufts said, and those conditions will be reviewed regularly by company officials.

Tufts said the Santa employees were told of the decision to close the plant early last week.

About 700 Potlatch employees in north Idaho are currently out of

Guide to Historical and Genealogical Records Published

The Latah County Historical Society has recently published "A Guide to Historical and Genealogical Records in Latah County, Idaho". The Guide lists public records available for researchers' use in 300 institutions including schools, town halls, businesses, churches, clubs and so forth.

Every town in the county was surveyed in a two-year project completed by the Society with partial funding from the Association for the Humanities in Idaho. This was the first records survey undertaken in Idaho since the 1930s and the first ever in Latah County. The Guide contains information on the location of a wide diversity of records. For example, many churches in the county have extensive holdings of birth, death, marriage and baptismal records which could be extremely helpful to genealogists. Locations of plat maps are noted, as are business ledgers, town council meetings, class photographs and so forth, all of which are essential sources of information for local historians. The following is a sample of one of the 300 listings in the Guide:

Name: Potlatch Corporation
Address: Box 397, Potlatch
Telephone: 875-1221
Hours Open to Public: Call in advance for appointment.

Types of Records: Insurance records (1906-); blue prints (1906-); cash journals and ledgers (1906-); photographs (1906-); charge/credit (1906-1950s); financial statements (1920s-); sales volumes (1930s-1965); shipping (1930s-1965); The Family Tree, house publication (1930s-1945); personnel records (1935-)

Comments: Some personnel records are closed to researchers.

The 75-page Guide is completely indexed and contains an extensive Latah County bibliography. It is available for $5.00 at the Society, 110 S. Adams, Moscow, and at Bookpeople of Moscow. Mail-order copies can be requested from the Society.

An additional $1.00 should be enclosed to cover postage.

People wishing more information on the records survey or on the Guide should call the Society at 882-10041.

BOBCAT EXPORT TAGS REQUIRED THIS YEAR

A Department of Fish and Game regulation in effect for the first time this year specifies that bobcat and lynx pelts must have an export tag attached, according to enforcement operations officer Don Nicholson.

The pelts must be tagged if they are sold, purchased or retained in possession, Nicholson said. The regulation also requires that the lower jaw or entire skull must be submitted when the pelt is tagged.

Deadline for tagging pelts is February 8, Nicholson said. Anyone in possession of an untagged pelt after February 8 is in violation of the regulation, he emphasized.

Hunters and trappers can have the export tags attached by a conservation officer or at a department office. The tag free is 7.50, plus a 50-cent fee for each sale.

MOSCOW-LATAH COUNTY LIBRARY NEWS

Storytimes have begun again on Wednesdays at the Moscow-Latah County Library, 110 S. Jefferson, following a break for the holiday season. Three year olds will meet from 10:30-11:00 a. m. with storyteller Debbie Wakley. The storytime for four and five year olds has been changed from 2:00 p. m. to 1:30 p. m. for the convenience of parents. Peggy Applonie is the storyteller for this session. Both storytimes feature stories, fingerplays, puppets and special activities. For more information, call 882-3925.

The family storytime on Thursday, January 21, from 7:00-7:30 p. m. will be devoted to a special program about doll-making. Mari Yoneyama, a Youth for Understanding foreign exchange student from Japan who attended Moscow high school and Annette Pickering, a UI freshman, will show how to design and make Japanese dolls. The program will be aimed at children but should be of interest to all ages. The program is free and open to the public.

Ms. Yoneyama is spending the year with the Harold Guenther family of Moscow. Her mother is a doll designer in Japan.

Sheep Population Shows Continued Gain in 1982

Moscow—Sheep numbers in the United States increased in both 1980 and 1981—and another increase is expected in 1982.

In a year-end economic report, agricultural college faculty members of the University of Idaho, Washington State University and Oregon State University said sheep numbers in 1982 may exceed 13 million head. This would be the largest inventory of sheep since 1976.

"Price prospects for slaughter lambs in early 1982 are in the $55 to $60 range. Prices in the second quarter could increase into the low $60s. If increased production of other meats hits the market at the same time, however, these prices could be lower," the economic forecasters said.

Little strength is apparent in domestic or foreign wool markets, they said.

Prices paid to U. S. producers for wool through the first half of 1982 are likely to be slightly below the prices paid for similar wools in 1981. Fine wools are expected to show less price decline than medium and coarse wools," the economic report said.

Three Chickens In Everw Pot

Editorial by W. F. "Bill" Whitton
Idaho Farm Bureau Federation,
Pocatello, Idaho

It used to be that chickens were allowed to run free in the barnyard, which made for nice pictures of rural America... the little blond haired boy with a dozen cluckers swirling 'round his feet. But this picture inevitably had its problems. The birds were often exposed to disease, predators, and generally had a hard time making it to the table intact and healthy.

However, today's modern chicken farms have all but solved those problems by keeping the layers in cages which also serve to increase production and keep prices down at the checkout stand.

This better broiler care is showing through in our eating habits as well. According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, in 1930 the typical chicken was a tough, overaged bird. She didn't go to pot until she stopped laying eggs. That was a time when people ate an average of only 16 pounds of chicken a piece per year.

Over the next 50 years, though, with a new emphasis on research and health, scientists bred a new kind of bird just for the dinner table—tender and plump. Agronomists developed higher yielding hybrid corn which meant more feed for the poultry flocks—and nutritionists plotted perfectly balanced feeds with all the essential vitamins.

Today all this work has made it possible for one farmer to produce as many as 250,000 broilers a year, and the modern poultry producers can raise this better bird to eating size in six to seven weeks compared with the three to four months it took 50 years ago.

The result of this progress—we're eating four times as much chicken as our grandparents, though farmers are producing ten times as much with their modern, more humane methods. What we don't consume here some 800 million pounds per year, is exported. What it all boils down to is better food, lower costs, and a little good news for a change.

Robert Guillaume to Host PBS Special on Taxes

Taxpayers will learn everything they need to know about filing federal federal tax returns when public television stations broadcast YOUR TAX RETURN: THE BOTTOM LINE ON IMPROVING YOUR FORM. Robert Guillaume of the hit television show, "Benson," will host the three-hour special, which airs Sunday, February 7 at 2 p. m. IRS representatives will give detailed instructions on selecting and filing such forms as the 1040 A, 1040, Schedule A (for itemizing deductions) and Schedule B (for reporting income from interest and dividends). Expenses related to child care services and energy saving adjustments along with Earned Income Credit, a direct credit for qualifying families earning under $10,000. The special will also cover the numerous credits and deductions that older Americans can take, such as the one-time exclusion of profits from the sale of their residences, extra exemptions for those over 65 and special assistance available thru the IRS will be discussed. Tax specialists will also cover the importance of accuracy and of keeping accuracy and of keeping records.
