Temperatures climbed back into the high thirties and forties this past week, returning the "Banana Belt" reputation to the Kendrick and Juliaetta area. The moderating weather also began to melt the snow pack on the ground which quickly raised the level of the Potlatch River. The combination of rising water and warmer temperature broke up the ice that had formed on the Potlatch during the extreme cold of two weeks ago. A major portion of the ice on the river broke up under the force of the water last Thursday afternoon and photographer Ken Hunter took this picture of the high water and huge slabs of ice moving past the Sperry Grade bridge in West Kendrick. Only on Sunday night of this week did the mercury drop back down to well below freezing with the mercury reading between 26 and 27 above Monday evening.

Potlatch Telephone Co. Explains Deregulation and Its Effect on Customers

We have been ordered by the FCC and the Idaho Public Utilities Commission to divest, or remove from the company, all telephone equipment and inside wiring as of January 1, 1984. This deregulation can affect telephone customers in several areas: (1) subscriber's telephone equipment, (2) inside wiring, (3) long distance billing and service and (4) local rates.

Inside wiring now belongs to the customer, and the customer will have the option of paying a monthly maintenance charge or maintaining their own inside wiring. The maintenance charge of the Potlatch Telephone Co. is 60¢ per month, per block or jack. It is anticipated that because of this wiring and equipment change a special type of protector and connecting point will have to be installed at each customer's premises in order to determine the responsibility of maintenance when trouble arises. Potlatch Telephone will continue to do inside wiring for those who request it.

You may own your own telephones and equipment now, however, customers on other than single party service must have equipment which is compatible with party lines and central office equipment. Customers are now paying 60¢ per month for rental of a basic telephone. Those on a private residence line pay $3.00 for the access line, 60¢ for the telephone instrument and 65¢ for maintenance of inside wiring for a total of $4.25 per month.

You may continue to rent present in-place equipment and have inside wire maintenance for a 2-year period. Ownership of basic in-place telephone will be transferred to the customer at the end of this 2-year period.

After January 1, 1986 customers will be responsible for maintenance of their instruments. Between now and January 1, 1986 the telephone company will provide simple maintenance service. Customers may be required to bring their equipment in to the office for service, however.

All other in-place telephone equipment, such as key systems, bells, dialers and other special equipment may be purchased at a negotiated price. More information on this will be forthcoming.

New customers will now be required to purchase their equipment or lease basic equipment from the telephone company on a non-regulated basis.

New customers will now be required to purchase their equipment or lease basic equipment from the telephone company on a non-regulated basis.

Your long distance billing will be different in that your bill will have separate pages for calls which have been handled by AT&T and those which have been handled by Pacific Northwest Bell. Those are the two carriers in this area at the present time. We do not anticipate a noticeable change in long distance service.

You have probably been hearing about access charges. There are bills before Congress right now relating to excess charges. This is a charge to access the long distance network at a cost of a flat monthly increase of $2 per residence and $4 per business line, and over the next five years this access charge would increase gradually. Unless Congress takes steps to change the ruling, these access charges will go into effect April 1, 1984.

We realize that these changes will cause confusion for everyone and hope we can all work together as problems arise.

One of the side effects of deregulation will be an increase in local rates. How much and how soon has yet to be determined.

Deregulation appears to favor large business and metropolitan areas. The impact will be greater on small telephone companies in rural areas.

Meet Our Senior—
Last, but certainly not least, in the Class of '84:

Ryan Spangler

Who's this? Ryan Tracy Spangler who is the son of Jack and Irene Spangler. Ryan's future plans include going to the University of Idaho and majoring in communications specifically radio and television broadcasting. Ryan's activities include basketball, G Club, Drama Club, B. R. A. (Buildog Rooling Association) and Luther League. Ryan was also selected to go to Boys' State. In his spare time he enjoys working on his car, practicing basketball, and lifting weights. When asked his three favorite things, he replied, "My '65 Mustang, basketball, and GIRLS!" Ryan's favorite classes at G. H. S. this year are Computer Science and English. When asked, "How does it feel to be a Senior?" Ryan replied, "I have mixed feelings because everyone feels great when they have recognition and people look up to them, but there is also a lot of pressure related to what your plans are after high school." Why did he change his name? We asked him that and he replied, "I never did like Tracy, I wanted to have it changed before I went to college and met new people."

C. W. Post Spotlight—
Our very own principal/coach Ozzie Kanikieberg was nominated by the State of Idaho High School Athletic Association for the National High School Boys' Basketball Coach of the Year 1984 award. The award program is sponsored by the National High School Athletic Coaches Association.

Only 128 District Coaches of the Year will be selected by the District Awards Committees out of nearly four hundred nominations in 16 sport areas including Athletic Directors. Mr. Kanikieberg said that he should be notified sometime in March if he wins the nomination from District No. 7. If he does win this part of the competition, then he, along with the other district winners, will attend the 1984 National Awards Banquet-Convention in Lexington, Kentucky, sometime in June.

The names of the state nominees for National Awards will be published in the January issue of the "National Coach" magazine. Then, all 128 District Coaches of the Year will be pictured in the Spring issue of the

Chocolate Chip Cookie Contests at Moscow Library

The Moscow Public Library will be celebrating Chocolate Chip Cookie Day on Wednesday, February 1. As part of the festivities, some special events are planned.

A contest will be held in which the exact number of things checked out of the Moscow Library on February 1 must be guessed. The number is to include books, magazines, records, and other items. All entries must be at the library by noon February 1.

A second contest will exercise the imagination as entrants give examples of "The Chocolate Chip cookie in literature and history." A prize will be awarded for the most creative example of how chocolate chip cookies might have been honored in phrase and fable. Librarian Gloria Gehrman gave us an example. "A chocolate chip cookies, a chocolate chip cookies, my kingdom for a chocolate chip cookie," sometimes attributed to Richard III. All entries must be submitted by January 21. The official judge for this contest will be Bill Hall of the Lewiston Morning Tribune.

Entry blanks for both contests may be picked up at the Moscow Library 110 South Jefferson, Moscow.

"National Coach" magazine.

We asked Coach how he felt about the nomination and he answered, "I consider it an honor to be chosen to represent the State of Idaho in this national competition."

C. W. Post salutes Coach Ozzie Kanikieberg and considers G. H. S. very fortunate to have him as our administrator and our boys' basketball coach.

Strong Steelhead Run Continues In Idaho

The 1983-84 upstream steelhead run continues to top last year and the outlook for a spring season is "good", according to anadromous fishery coordinator Herb Pollard, Department of Fish and Game.

As of mid-November, the count at Lower Granite Dam was 80,105—about 20 percent ahead of 1982 at the same time. The total 1982-83 run of 72,000 was the best in 12 years.

A spring season could open in early January, but the decision rests with Fish and Game commissioners, who will first study department recommendations now in the drafting stage.

Pollard said the 1983-84 run, along with wild steelhead, includes hatchery fish from releases of 4.7 million smolt in 1981 and 4.6 million a year later.

"A high proportion of the run is made up of fish which have spent only one year in the ocean," he added. "This confirms excellent survival in the 1982 downstream run and indicates the potential for a large return of two-ocean fish next year."

Fall season fishing has been good to excellent in areas supported by hatchery programs—the lower Clearwater River, the Snake River below Hells Canyon Dam and the main Salmon between the mouths of the Middle Fork Salmon and the Pahsimeroi, Pollard said.

The upper Salmon has had a very heavy pressure and high catch rates with 1983 totals between the Middle Fork and Pahsimeroi about 50 percent ahead of last year. The Snake immediately downstream from Hells Canyon has been excellent all season he reported. Overall fishing pressure and harvest on the Clearwater, however, was running 10-15 percent behind the 1982 season, Pollard said. Stretches of the lower Salmon and Snake have produced "good to poor" success as different groups of hatchery fish have passed through, he said.

Animal Topics

H. R. McKelvey, DVM

EXPOSURE TO SEVERELY COLD CAN CAUSE MANY PROBLEMS WITH LIVESTOCK

Exposure to severely cold temperatures can cause many problems with livestock. Animals which are accustomed to winter conditions can withstand an amazing amount of sub-freezing weather, yet even these animals may get injuries from the cold under certain circumstances.

The key to preventing cold injuries in outside animals is to keep the animal dry, sheltered from wind, and to provide plenty of good quality feed. This applies not only to livestock but also to small animals such as cats, dogs and pet rabbits. Part of feeding includes providing amounts of fresh, clean water; a task that becomes increasingly difficult as the mercury plummets.

The body parts most susceptible to cold injury are the extremities—feet, ears, tail, and teats. When temperatures get extremely cold the small blood vessels in the extremities constrict to allow more blood to flow to central parts of the body. This is one of the ways an animal's body maintains a so-called "core" temperature. An animal will maintain a core temperature at the expense of superficial body parts. If circulation is decreased or halted in an extremity then it becomes more prone to cold injury. This can often happen with a sick animal that is reluctant to stand or move around during cold weather. By lying too long on a leg, for instance, this animal can cause the leg to freeze.

Newborn animals require special attention during times of cold. This is especially true for baby pigs. Piglets need to be kept warm and draft-free their first few days of life even during mild weather. During prolonged periods of cold weather cattle and sheep do not digest their food as efficiently as they do during warm weather. To compensate for this decreased digestibility and to provide more calories, live stock needs to eat heat productive more feed during cold periods.

Potlatch Anticipates Permanent Closure Of Kamiah Mill

Lewiston—Potlatch Corp. today announced the anticipated permanent closure of its sawmill and planing facilities at Kamiah, Idaho. The move will affect about 100 active employees, plus about 40 currently on indefinite layoff.

The announcement came from James R. Morris, vice president of the company's Western Wood Products Division.

"Over the past three years," Morris said, "depressed economic conditions made numerous temporary curtailments necessary at Kamiah." During 1983, he said, the mill operated only one shift per day. Prior to 1982 the plant had operated on a two-day shift per day schedule employing about 200 workers. On a two-shift basis, the mill has a rated annual capacity of some 45 million board feet, he said.

Morris said existing log and lumber inventories will be processed at Kamiah until they are depleted, or until minimum inventory levels force staggered closures of departments. He said a combination of factors made the anticipated closure necessary. Among them, he cited the expectation of continued market fluctuations and uncertainties in public availability. "These factors are forcing us to review all our mill operations in north Idaho," Morris added, "and have made this decision necessary."

Area Mountain Snow Pack Measures 28.8 Inches

On Tuesday, January 3, 1984, snow surveyors Dave Huggins and Rick Staty took the first snow measurements of the 1984 season. The surveyors were assisted by Jess Maratt of the U. S. Forest Service work unit at Clarkia.

These measurements were taken at Sherwin Point which is located at an elevation of 3,200 on a divide between Bovill and Clarkia in the northeast corner of Latah County.

The surveyors found a saturated snow pack of 28.8 inches with a water content of 6.8 inches; density of the snowpack was found to be 24%. Precipitation since November 1, 1983 totaled 13.25 inches with more rain falling. Measurements have been taken on this site since 1952. The greatest amount of snow on this date was in 1982 with 50 inches. The least amount was reported in 1980 when no snow had fallen. The snow this year compared with one year ago, was found to be wetter with 7.8 inches more snow this year.

Latah Historical Society Meeting Jan. 14 in Moscow

The annual meeting of the Latah County Historical Society is set for Saturday, Jan. 14, at the American Legion Cabin, Third and Howard Streets in Moscow. The meeting will begin with a potluck at noon followed by a business meeting at 1:30 for election of new board members, voting on bylaws changes and presentation of the Volunteer of the Year Award. After the business meeting Lella Old, Professor Emerita of the School of Home Economics at the University of Idaho will give a presentation on "Fabrics in Historic Costumes," with some samples from the historic costume collection at the University of Idaho. All members are encouraged to attend and guests are welcome. This will be an opportunity to meet the Board and staff and express your ideas about the future of the Society.

Nellie Dean Steigers

The annual Fiddlers gathering, held at the Elks building in Lewiston was enjoyed by a large audience on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 7. A varied program was presented. As always, the numbers performed by the small people were especially enjoyed!

Alvin and Mabel Steigers, accompanied by brother Ernest and wife Nellie, felt it a day well spent! Many old time friends were greeted.

A call at the Lewiston Care Center and visit there with Lena Zumhofe, looking young and pretty; Myrtle Heimgartner, wreathed in smiles, and Nellie Buckles, her happy self, was enjoyed before lunch by the Steigers four! Later, after a fine meal that evening at the North Lewiston "George Place", the group traveled safely home, assuring each other it was indeed a day well spent.

Mildred Heath at Home Again—

A cheerful 'phone-chat' with Mildred Heath on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 8, was good to hear! Her recent hospital stay did nothing to restore her lost appetite, she said. Helper Freda was back. Son Gordon, and friend Dorothy Partridge, had visited since home. "Ole Dog" happy!

Stony Point Friendship Club—

A good "all-day meeting" was held on Thursday, January 5, at the Lenore home of Lois Johnston. A not too large quilt was worked on for neighbor Mary Lou Cook, who was able to attend during her lunch hour from Post Office duty. It will be finished at the January 19th meeting to be held at the Cherrylane home of Janet Kerby. Alice Maguire was our other guest. Alice will have reached her 85th birthday on Jan. 17! She is daintily pretty, as always! The weather was favorable. Alice, at the age of 18, joined the Agatha-Lenore Willing Workers Club and has faithfully attended and entertained that club thru all the (can it be 67 years?) since it was newly organized. Lois Johnston had held its Christmas party at her home this year.

To Clarkston—

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Heimgartner were Sunday, January 8th dinner guests in the Clarkston home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Custer.

Home From Hospital—

On Sunday, Leslie and Delores Heimgartner visited in the Clearwater home of her son David. Members of the Lyons family gathered with others, all rejoicing over David's recovery from recent surgery at Grangeville.

A short social call at the near-by Berry home, at Cherrylane, was made by the E. Steigers on Sunday morning. On their return trip across the garden, guests from Lewiston, son Bill and wife Mary Steigers had arrived and enjoyed Sunday lunch and TV football games. Son Ken was was a nearby drop-in caller. The long, curled horns of Bill's recently deceased "billy goat" is his most recent 'trophy.' A sad loss to the goat family and owners!

A cheery letter, and enjoyable 'piano' tape, played by an elderly lady from Phoenix, Ariz., was received by his grandparents from Jim Steigers recently. It can be enjoyed over and over. "Tin Pan Alley" music.

A jar of "pickle people" sent by a granddaughter from Bothell, Wash., brings frequent chuckles!

Members of the Don Hoisington family on Sunday were afternoon and supper guests of the Skip Koepf family of the Kendrick area.

"Cletis Hoisington seems to be doing nicely", Elaine answered, when inquired as to his well-being, at home by himself.

Our young folks have returned to their varied work and study after Christmas and New Year's holiday vacation with their families.

Elaine Kerby to her place, taken by mother Janet; brother Don, to his; and Bekalyn Steigers, and others—all scattered to the winds! We miss them all, but know they have their own lives to live.

The weather has moderated — (knock - knock). On the river regions, even mud has settled! But winter could return, with a vengeance.

Many contacted who feel "news-less".

Barbara Heimgartner reported on Sunday dinner guests who were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Boyer and family of Lapwai.

Patti Steven's mother, Edna Green doing OK.

Thanks to each and all who are so cooperative! It is appreciated! Janet Ranta says all family "OK" and busy, after many bouts with Flu, etc., earlier.

News from the Meal Site—

December 30th was our birthday dinner.

The attendance was small due to the cold, stormy weather. Only 4 birthdays were observed—Ida Fleschman, Muriel Schoeffler, Theresa Thompson and Harold Horn.

The total was 300 years. Due to the cold and slick roads J. Bencoter, Olive Fabion and Wyotta Simmon who all had January birthdays were unable to attend, but ordered their meals on home delivery.

They joined many others at the Johnson Manor and had a party of their own. I understand there were 17 dinners delivered to the Johnson Manor that day.

They enjoyed the delicious ham, birthday cake and ice cream plus other goodies but missed out on the entertainment by Ray Heimgartner playing his guitar and singing a comedy selection he had written—"Christmas at Our House." We all agreed Christmas must be real lively around his home. Thank you Ray.

On January 4 we had a contest to see who could guess how many meals were served in 1983. Irene Christenson won with 5,880 meals just 20 short of the total 5,900.

It was an amazing total. Lots of good food plus fun and fellowship for all.

Bid Fairfield was low but we won't talk about that.

Strong Steelhead Run Continues In Idaho

The 1983-84 upstream steelhead run continues to top last year and the outlook for a spring season is "good," according to anonymous fishery coordinator Herb Pollard, Department of Fish and Game.

As of mid-November, the count at Lower Granite Dam was 80,105—about 20 percent ahead of 1982 at the same time. The total 1982-83 run of 72,000 was the best in 12 years.

A spring season could open in early January, but the decision rests with Fish and Game commissioners, who will first study department recommendations now in the drafting stage.

Pollard said the 1983-84 run, along with wild steelhead, includes hatchery fish from releases of 4.7 million smolt in 1981 and 4.6 million a year later.

"A high proportion of the run is made up of fish which have spent only one year in the ocean," he added. "This confirms excellent survival in the 1982 downstream run and indicates the potential for a large return of two-ocean fish next year."

Fall season fishing has been good in excellent areas supported by hatchery programs—the lower Clearwater River, the Snake River below Hells Canyon Dam and the main Salmon between the mouths of the Middle Fork Salmon and the Pahsimeroi, Pollard said.

The upper Salmon has had a very heavy pressure and high catch rates with 1983 totals between the Middle Fork and Pahsimeroi about 50 percent ahead of last year. The Snake immediately downstream for Hells Canyon has been excellent all season he reported. Overall fishing pressure and harvest on the Clearwater, however, was running 10-15 percent behind the 1982 season, Pollard said. Stretches of the lower Salmon and Snake have produced "good to poor" success as different groups of hatchery fish have passed through, he said.

Animal Topics

H. R. McKelvey, DVMI

EXPOSURE TO SEVERELY COLD CAN CAUSE MANY PROBLEMS WITH LIVESTOCK

Exposure to severely cold temperatures can cause many problems with livestock. Animals which are accustomed to winter conditions can withstand an amazing amount of sub-freezing weather, yet even these animals may get injuries from the cold under certain circumstances.

The key to preventing cold injuries in outside animals is to keep the animal dry, sheltered from wind, and to provide plenty of good quality feed. This applies not only to livestock but also to small animals such as cats, dogs and pet rabbits. Part of feeding includes providing amounts of fresh, clean water; a task that becomes increasingly difficult as the mercury plummets.

The body parts most susceptible to cold injury are the extremities—feet, ears, tail, and teats. When temperatures get extremely cold the small blood vessels in the extremities constrict to allow more blood to flow to central parts of the body. This is one of the ways an animal's body maintains a so called "core temperature." An animal will maintain a core temperature at the expense of superficial body parts. If circulation is decreased or halted in an extremity then it becomes more prone to cold injury. This can often happen with a sick animal that is reluctant to stand or move around during cold weather. By lying too long on a leg, for instance, this animal can cause the leg to freeze.

Newborn animals require special attention during times of cold. This is especially true for baby pigs. Piglets need to be kept warm and draft-free their first few days of life even during mild weather.

During prolonged periods of cold weather cattle and sheep do not digest their food as efficiently as they do during warm weather. To compensate for this decreased digestibility and to provide more calories, live stock needs to eat heat productive more feed during cold periods.

Potlatch Anticipates Permanent Closure Of Kamiah Mill

Lewiston—Potlatch Corp. today announced the anticipated permanent closure of its sawmill and planing facilities at Kamiah, Idaho. The move will affect about 100 active employees, plus about 40 currently on indefinite layoff.

The announcement came from James R. Morris, vice president of the company's Western Wood Products Division.

"Over the past three years," Morris said, "depressed economic conditions made numerous temporary curtailments necessary at Kamiah." During 1983, he said, the mill operated only one shift per day. Prior to 1982 the plant had operated on a two-day shift per day schedule employing about 200 workers. On a two-shift basis, the mill has a rated annual capacity of some 45 million board feet, he said.

Morris said existing log and lumber inventories will be processed at Kamiah until they are depleted, or until minimum inventory levels force staggered closures of departments.

He said a combination of factors made the anticipated closure necessary. Among them, he cited the expectation of continued market fluctuations and uncertainties in public availability. "These factors are forcing us to review all our mill operations in north Idaho," Morris added, "and have made this decision necessary."

Area Mountain Snow Pack Measures 28.8 Inches

On Tuesday, January 3, 1984, snow surveyors Dave Huggins and Rick Stauty took the first snow measurements of the 1984 season. The surveyors were assisted by Jess Maratt of the U. S. Forest Service work unit at Clarkia.

These measurements were taken at Sherwin Point which is located at an elevation of 3,200 on a divide between Bovill and Clarkia in the northeast corner of Latah County.

The surveyors found a saturated snow pack of 28.8 inches with a water content of 6.8 inches; density of the snowpack was found to be 24%. Precipitation since November 1, 1983 totaled 13.25 inches with more rain falling. Measurements have been taken on this site since 1952. The greatest amount of snow on this date was in 1982 with 50 inches. The least amount was reported in 1980 when no snow had fallen. The snow this year compared with one year ago was found to be wetter with 7.8 inches more snow this year.

Latah Historical Society Meeting Jan. 14 in Moscow

The annual meeting of the Latah County Historical Society is set for Saturday, Jan. 14, at the American Legion Cabin, Third and Howard Streets in Moscow. The meeting will begin with a potluck at noon followed by a business meeting at 1:30 for election of new board members, voting on bylaws changes and presentation of the Volunteer of the Year Award. After the business meeting Leila Old, Professor Emeritus of the School of Home Economics at the University of Idaho will give a presentation on "Fabrics in Historic Costumes," with some samples from the historic costume collection at the University of Idaho. All members are encouraged to attend and guests are welcome. This will be an opportunity to meet the Board and staff and express your ideas about the future of the Society.

Stony Point

Nellie Dean Steigers

The annual Fiddlers gathering, held at the Elks building in Lewiston was enjoyed by a large audience on Saturday afternoon, Jan. 7. A varied program was presented. As always, the numbers performed by the small people were especially enjoyed!

Alvin and Mabel Steigers, accompanied by brother Ernest and wife Nellie, felt it a day well spent! Many old time friends were greeted.

A call at the Lewiston Care Center and visit there with Lena Zumhofs, looking young and pretty; Mystie Heimgartner, wreathed in smiles, and Nellie Buckles, her happy self, was enjoyed before lunch by the Steigers four! Later, after a fine meal that evening at the North Lewiston "George Place", the group traveled safely home, assuring each other it was indeed a day well spent.

Mildred Heath at Home Again—

A cheerful 'phone-chat' with Mildred Heath on Sunday afternoon, Jan. 8, was good to hear! Her recent hospital stay did nothing to restore her lost appetite, she said. Helper Freda was back. Son Gordon, and friend Dorothy Partridge, had visited since home. "Ole Dog" happy!

Stonypoint Friendship Club—

A good "all-day meeting" was held on Thursday, January 5, at the Lenore home of Lois Johnston. A not too large quilt was worked on for neighbor Mary Lou Cook, who was able to attend during her lunch hour from Post Office duty. It will be finished at the January 19th meeting to be held at the Cherrylane home of Janet Kerby. Alice Maguire was our other guest. Alice will have reached her 85th birthday on Jan. 17! She is daintily pretty, as always! The weather was favorable. Alice, at the age of 18, joined the Agatha-Lenore Willing Workers Club and has faithfully attended and entertained that club thru all the (can it be 67 years?) since it was newly organized. Lois Johnston had held its Christmas party at her home this year.

To Clarkston—

Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Heimgartner were Sunday, January 8th dinner guests in the Clarkston home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Custer.

Home From Hospital—

On Sunday, Leslie and Delores Heimgartner visited in the Clearwater home of her son David. Members of the Lyons family gathered with others, all rejoicing over David's recovery from recent surgery at Grangeville.

A short social call at the near-by Berry home, at Cherrylane, was made by the E. Steigers on Sunday morning. On their return trip across the garden, guests from Lewiston, son Bill and wife Mary Steigers had arrived and enjoyed Sunday lunch and TV football games. Son Ken was a nearby drop-in caller. The long, curled horns of Bill's recently deceased "billy goat" is his most recent 'trophy.' A sad loss to the goat family and owners!

A cheery letter, and enjoyable 'piano' tape, played by an elderly lady from Phoenix, Ariz., was received by his grandparents from Jim Steigers recently. It can be enjoyed over and over. "Tin Pan Alley" music.

A jar of "pickle people" sent by a granddaughter from Bothell, Wash., brings frequent chuckles!

Members of the Don Hoisington family on Sunday were afternoon and supper guests of the Skip Koepf family of the Kendrick area.

'Cletis Hoisington seems to be doing nicely', Elaine answered, when inquired as to his well-being, at home by himself.

Our young folks have returned to their varied work and study after Christmas and New Year's holiday vacation with their families.

Elaine Kerby to her place, taken by mother Janet; brother Don, to his; and Bekalyn Steigers, and others—all scattered to the winds! We miss them all, but know they have their own lives to live.

The weather has moderated — (knock - knock). On the river regions, even mud has settled! But winter could return, with a vengeance.

Many contacted who feel "news-less".

Barbara Heimgartner reported on Sunday dinner guests who were Mr. and Mrs. Steve Boyer and family of Lapwai.

Patti Steven's mother, Edna Green doing OK.

Thanks to each and all who are so cooperative! It is appreciated! Janet Ranta says all family "OK" and busy, after many bouts with Flu, etc., earlier.

News from the Meal Site—

December 30th was our birthday dinner.

The attendance was small due to the cold, stormy weather. Only 4 birthdays were observed—Ida Flushman, Muriel Schoeffler, Theresa Thompson and Harold Horn.

The total was 300 years. Due to the cold and slick roads J. Bencoter, Olive Fabian and Wyotta Simmon who all had January birthdays were unable to attend, but ordered their meals on home delivery.

They joined many others at the Johnson Manor and had a party of their own. I understand there were 17 dinners delivered to the Johnson Manor that day.

They enjoyed the delicious ham, birthday cake and ice cream plus other goodies but missed out on the entertainment by Ray Heimgartner playing his guitar and singing a comedy selection he had written—"Christmas at Our House." We all agreed Christmas must be real lively around his home. Thank you Ray.

On January 4 we had a contest to see who could guess how many meals were served in 1983. Irene Christenson won with 5,800 meals just 20 short of the total 5,880.

It was an amazing total. Lots of good food plus fun and fellowship for all.

Bid Fairfield was low but we won't talk about that.
