This year's spring run is larger than expected, with downstream dam counts much higher than last year, but runs of wild spring chinook have been "seriously depressed" for several years and need all possible protection, he added. Other hatchery-supported runs into Idaho are in a depressed or rebuilding situation. Fishing is not anticipated on chinook returning to the new Sawtooth Hatchery, Idaho Power Company's Pahsimeroi faciliy, or U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service hatcheries at Dworshak and Koo-

Idaho youth gather at U. of Idaho for 4-H congress, FFA contests

Terry Lawhead Editorial Associate

Moscow-High school students from throughout the state will meet at the University of Idaho this coming week for the Idaho 4-H Congress and the State Future Farmers of America Judging Contest.

Over 250 4-H members will attend their annual congress and participate in workshops and discussions and elect new officers, said Corinne Rowe, state 4-H program coordinator. The congress will be from June 10-14, and is sponsored by county 4-H agencies, the UI, and the United State Department of Agriculture. The State FFA Judging Contest begins June 11 and will include judging of livestock, dairy products, agricultural mechanics, crops, dairy cattle, meats and poultry. The contest is coordinated by vocational education instructors throughout the state, high-school members, and the UI Agriculture Extension and Education Department. Over 600 members will attend the contest which runs through June 14. Laura Hobbs of Meridian is the current Idaho FFA president. Both events will take place on the UI campus, and students will reside in supervised dormitory housing. #### Heat Stress in Animals

Looks like we may get some sumis heat stress.

The most common cause of heat stress is leaving an animal in a parked car on a warm day. Outside temperatures don't have to be very high in order to make the temperature inside a car intolerable. A parked car in direct sunlight with the windows cracked can have inside temperatures well over 100 degrees in a matter of minutes— even when outside temperatures are in the 60's and 70's.

Temperatures inside a car can become dangerous even if the car on temperature and humidity. The safety approach is to leave your pet at home when the weather is hot.

Signs of heat stress may range from vomiting to glazed eyes. Common signs of heat stress include exhuberant panting rapid pulse, purplish gums, prostration, and muscular tremors.

Heat Stress in Animals

Looks like we may get some summer weather after all. Hot weath- Ore. and Ruth Dammon of Grangeer can promote many problems in ville were Wednesday visitors of animals, the most obvious of which Mrs. Dora Baumgartner and Joe and is heat stress.

The most common cause of heat stress is leaving an animal in a parked car on a warm day. Outside temperatures don't have to be very high in order to make the temperature inside a car intolerable. A parked car in direct sunlight with the windows cracked can have inside temperatures well over 100 degrees in a matter of minutes-- even when outside temperatures are in the 60's and 70's.

.Temperatures inside a car can become dangerous even if the car is parked in the shade, depending on temperature and humidity. The safety approach is to leave your pet at home when the weather is hot.

Signs of heat stress may range from vomiting to glazed eyes. Common signs of heat stress include exhuberant panting rapid pulse, purplish gums, prostration, and muscular tremors.

Emergency treatment for heatstroke is to first get the animal out of the car and into a shaded area. Apply something cold to the chest weather. #### Visitors from Virginia.—

Ruth Heimgartner rejoiced over the visit of Bill Kimball, a nephew she had never seen before, distant sister's son!

He arrived at Stonypoint on Tuesday with his grandmother Hunter, having come to her Lewiston home on Monday, June 3, where a family dinner was held in his honor. On Thursday morning, the 6th, he departed by plane. A most enjoyable time for all concerned, his visit. On Friday Lily McCall and Bill and Laverne Harri were dinner guests in the home of Wayne and Ruth Heimgartner.

Kelly Pettit visited Jim Steiger at Cherrylane on Sunday evening.

Mildred's News---

Mildred Heath's daughter Flora and husband "Frosty" Gibbs, of Spokane, spent from Wednesday until Saturday visiting with her at Hubbard Gulch. On Thursday the group drove to Winchester, spending the day with old friend Rachel Sampson Wilsey.

Son Gordon and his were Sunday folks, gathering up cattle to take to the timber.

Leslie and Delores Heimgartner, Walter Zumhofe and Betty Cowger as a group, called on "grandma' Lena Zumhofe in Lewiston one evening this past week. Grandma sent greetings'! We love her dearly!
