Nancy Swanson, Fred and Marcie Swanson and daughters of Moscow, Arta Johns, Kathy Groseclose and Frank and Elaine Groseclose of Julianna were Sunday callers. Daisy visited her mother and other relatives while she was in Julianna.

Ed and Helen Ulrich visited with Elizabeth Mickelson Friday evening. Sunday Grace Rhodes was a caller. Tuesday Elizabeth and sister Vera Rawson of Julianna traveled to Elk River where they attended the funeral services of Jim Swearingen. On the way home they visited with Essie Morran in Bovill and Ethel Frazer on Bear Ridge.

Adaline Jassman accompanied Sonja Lohman to Moscow Wednesday to keep a doctor appointment then had dinner together at the Town and Country diner.

Melvin Marshall and daughter Ginger of Weippe were Thursday dinner and overnight guests of Adaline Jassman. Ted and Blanche Dorendorf of Deary were Monday afternoon visitors.

Wednesday visitors of Clyde and Betty Snyder were Clyde's sister Ruth Musselman and Clyde's brother and sister-in-law Jim and Lavelle Snyder all of Weippe.

Clyde and Betty Snyder were in Lewiston Thursday at the home of Harold and Joyce Buchholz for dinner to celebrate the birthday of Ruth Musselman of Weippe.

Leonard Eckman and sons of Orofino were dinner guests in the Jim Bower home Friday evening. Sun-Jim and Edna drove to Orofino and picked up their grandchildren and then fished and lunched on the lake. Lester and Betty Eckman of Clarkston were also Friday evening callers.

Monday callers in the Rudy Meyer home were Tom and Shari Thornton of Lewiston.

Elvone Wilson, Imogene Kipford and Lura Butler visited with Arlie and Mattie Allen in Lewiston. They also visited Kyle and Shannon Twitchel while there. Thursday callers in the Butler home were Howard and Peggy Wunderlich of Orofino.

Watch Out for Telephone Solicitor Schemes

Mrs. Elizabeth Havens of Julianna called this week to tell the Gazette about a possible telephone soliciting scheme that may be working in this area.

Mrs. Havens said some friends had recently received a telephone call from a vitamin sales company. The caller offered vitamins at a very inexpensive price, and in the course of the conversation also asked for the person's credit card number which the person, unwisely gave.

The person declined to order any vitamins, but later received a call from the same company informing the local couple that the company was shipping an order of nearly $500!

The person, very upset now, called his credit card company to put a stop on this payment or charge.

This incident might serve to remind folks that they should never give out a credit card number unless they are sure of whom they are dealing.

Feb. 2 Wedding Date Set

Anne Elizabeth Bullard and Rocky W. Smith, both of Lewiston, have chosen Friday, February 2, to be married at the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints Temple at Seattle, Wash.

She is the daughter of Richard and Sara Bullard of Lewiston. She attended Brigham Young University at Provo, Utah, and is employed by K-Mart at Lewiston.

He is the son of Rocky and Barbara Smith of Kendrick and is a 1988 graduate of Kendrick High School. He attended Ricks College and served a two-year mission in Denmark for the L. D. S. Church. He is employed by West's Best Freight System at Lewiston.

New USDA Loan Guarantees for Disaster Hit Rural Areas

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has a new loan guarantee program to assist rural businesses, including certain farmers, suffering from various weather-related disasters of the last two years, FmHA Idaho State Director Mike Fields said this week. The rural area definition excludes cities of 50,000 or more population and their adjacent or urbanizing areas.

The new program, Disaster Assistance for Rural Business Enterprises (DARBE), was enacted as part of the Disaster Assistance Act of 1989. It provides loan guarantees for businesses affected by drought, freeze, or excessive moisture, or related conditions, in 1988 or 1989.

"FmHA can guarantee a loan of up to $10 million made by a local lender," Fields said, "but the maximum loss covered cannot exceed the percentage of guarantee multiplied by the unpaid principal and accrued interest or $2.5 million, whichever is the lesser amount."

Thus, the amount of the loan will determine the guarantee for loans larger than $2 million. For example, a loan of $10 million would be limited to a 20 percent guarantee, and a $5 million loan would be limited to a 40 percent guarantee. For loans of $2 million or less, the maximum percentage of guarantee will be 90 percent.

The program is patterned after the U. S. Department of Agriculture agency's regular Business and Industry loan guarantee program. A major difference is that agricultural operations that are larger than family size, and thus not eligible for FmHA's regular farm loans, are eligible under the new program. Hotels, motels, and recreation facilities are also eligible under the new program.

South Latah Search & Rescue Meeting on Bear Ridge Feb. 17

A meeting of the South Latah Hasty Search and Rescue Team will be held at the Bear Ridge Community Hall Saturday, Feb. 17 from 1 to 5 p. m.

All members, old and new, and their families are urged to attend as this is a special meeting with many decisions to be made. Anyone having questions can contact Warney or Mike May, Darel Hazeltime or Chas. Bower.

Warney May Named as State Search & Rescue Officer

Darel Hazeltime, and Mike and Warney May attended the Idaho State Search and Rescue meeting in Boise January 5, 6 and 7. The session also included installation of 1990 state officers.

Warney was sworn in as Second Vice Commander. He is the first officer north of the Salmon River to be installed in the state organization.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank J-K EMT's Sharon Harris, Alaina Siffow and Jim Hoogland for their quick and efficient response when Tom was hurt last Monday. Thanks also to Buddy and Alice Henson and all the others who helped that day. A very special thanks to John and Connie Hedler for all they did for us.

We truly appreciated you all. Thanks again.
Tom and Ione Peters

CableVision Needs to Hear from Subscribers Before Service is Made

Representatives of CableVision, the Moscow-based company that now owns and operates the television system in Kendrick, needs to hear from each customer in Kendrick before they can connect that person's to the new 35-channel service. The present 12-station service will be discontinued Jan. 31.

CableVision said Tuesday afternoon that well over half of the subscribers in Kendrick had taken advantage of the temporary office the system has been operating at Abrams Hardware to sign up. This office will close Wednesday, but free hook-up can still be arranged by calling the Moscow office at 882-2832.

Lyons-Johnson Wedding Vows Exchanged Dec. 31

The congregation of Cameron Emmanuel Lutheran Church was surprised by a change in the normal worship service on Sunday, December 31. After the sermon and offering were completed Charles Lyons of Kendrick and Shirley Johnson of Troy stood before the altar and recited their wedding vows. Charles, Shirley, and Pastor Robt. Kenyon had planned the celebration to be a surprise and it, in most cases, certainly was just that.

Family members and friends had been alerted to the marriage so they had time to plan accordingly. All-in-all it was a simple, yet impressive ceremony.

The happy couple are making their home in Troy where Shirley is employed at the local cedar mill as head bookkeeper. Charles attends Lewis-Clark State College in Lewiston as a pre-nursing student and repairs televisions and appliances part-time.

Charles and Shirley would like to thank both communities for the outpouring of warmth and congratulations they have received.

Kendrick Wrestlers Lose to Kamiah In Season Opener

Coach Aaron Cummings and his Kendrick High School wrestling team opened their 1990 season last Saturday night on the KHS mats by hosting the Kamiah Kubs. Kamiah won the match 48-30 but the Tigers gave a good account of themselves.

New Year Beckons

New year days beckon everyone. Hopes are high for ventures begun. Some memories may fade away While new dreams of peace come to stay.

Strive to leave old wounds behind, To face new tasks with zest to find Appealing ways that lift our hearts, As this decade and era starts.

We know fresh courage is a must For doing our duties with trust. Life sends only what strength can bear, And gives us friends to share and care.
—Lucille Magnuson

Census Applicant Tests, Meeting Is Friday, Jan. 19

Kendrick City Clerk Donna Goff this week reminded all persons in the Kendrick/Julietta area of the employment tests to the given at the Kendrick Fire Hall this Friday morning, Jan. 19. The tests and other information will be available concerning the positions to be filled for the 1990 census which begins on April 1. Tests will be given and other information available from census bureau representatives between 9:30 and 11:30 a. m.

Persons who intend to be at the Friday meeting have been asked to please contact Mrs. Goff at the City Hall in Kendrick before Friday. This will be helpful in determining how many to plan for and make certain there is adequate supplies, etc.

Please contact Mrs. Goff at the city hall or call 289-5157 between the hours of 8:30 and 12:30.

This is for both Kendrick and Julianna area residents. Town and rural residents are included.

Mrs. Goff, who is helping coordinate the Friday session, said every adult who is interested is invited to attend the meeting. She said persons who are familiar with the area, especially rural areas and country roads are encouraged to attend the Friday meeting. Senior citizens are most welcome.

"Don't be afraid of the test," Mrs. Goff said. "It's not really a 'test', it's more to discover an applicant's aptitudes," she remarked.

Some of the types of jobs to be filled for this year's census are: Enumerators, crews leaders, and clerks for a variety of work.

The pay is $5.00 an hour for a 35 to 40 hour week for the 4 to 6 weeks the census will be conducted.

There will also be 24 cents a mile allowance for those people who have to use their own cars for official work.

Several neighbors on Stonypoint attended Adaline Pea's funeral on Thursday. Those who were unable to attend would wish to express their sympathy to Adaline's family.

Ed and Rachel Gleason from Moscow were Saturday visitors of Jim and Jeanne Black.

On Friday night Lee and Barbara Heath attended the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary reception for Barbara's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hash at the Potlatch Log Inn. Barbara's brother planned the party as a surprise for their parents. About twenty couples attended.

Mrs. Hash will be having foot surgery on Monday at Moscow. Lee and Barbara will be with her at Gritman Hospital.

Theresa and Ron Ireland and son Rex visited on Sunday with her parents, Don and Elaine Hoisington.

The hurricane-like winds that battered the area early last Monday morning tossed the new roof off Gordon and Grace Heath's home. As the roof went off all in one piece, it knocked down the power pole and made a hole in their motor home. The Heaths' were without electricity for three days. They have been cleaning up the debris and getting organized. Most of the roof can be saved.

Gene Heath reports that he has been taking strolls with his two sisters-in-law, Grace and Barbara.

Sugar Is Not the Villain It's Thought to be, Says U. of Washington Doctor

Sugar is not the behavioral villain so many have portrayed it in books, courtrooms and talk shows.

"There is really no scientific evidence that sugar has much of an impact on behavior for the vast majority of children or adults," says Dr. Steve Woods, professor of psychology and adjunct professor of medicine at the University of Washington.

"The results of studies that show little correlation between ingesting sugar and a change in behavior have been known for several years," he continues. "In fact, in one or two isolated studies, kids actually become less active when they ate sugar. The diagnosis of their mothers had been that these youngsters were 'sugar responsive,'—that their behavior was 'sensitive' to sugar and that it would therefore produce hyperactivity. The results were just the opposite of the expectations."

Woods teaches a course on the relationship between sugar and behavior. He has completed Ph.D. programs in psychology, physiology and biophysics.

"Studies do indicate there is a small subgroup of hyperactive children who might be particularly sensitive to sugar," says Woods. "That group appears to be very small. There is also the possibility that long-term exposure to sugar might cause behavior problems.

"But the actual, research-based data show virtually no correlation between eating sugar and behavioral changes," he adds.

One study indicated the need to research other ingredients that are included with many sugar products, such as flour, fats and eggs. The research itself used only sugar, without any additional ingredients. Again, after ingesting the sugar substance, the results showed no significant changes in the behavior and the children involved with the study.

Woods says that the myth of sugar influencing our conduct is so pervasive, it is nearly impossible to convince "believers" that sugar does not have a major impact on behavior.

"The fact that judges are allowing sugar-related defenses like, 'It wasn't me who killed them, it was my lunch,' is surprising, considering the scientific evidence against the psychological influence of sugar," says Woods. "But that is how far this misinformation has been carried."

He cites one survey that showed more than half of the pediatricians polled recommended decreasing a child's intake of sugar if the parent is concerned about his or her level of activity. Woods also says many feelings that people attribute to "low blood sugar" are actually not related to food or sugar intake at all. When people have complained of this sensation, and their blood has been tested, blood sugar levels were usually found to be normal. "Most people need to fast in order to decrease blood sugar levels," he says.

Myths about diabetes are nearly as prevalent because the disease affects levels of glucose. Left untreated, diabetes can reduce the glucose to the brain, causing blackouts and even comas. Many people still do not understand that diabetes have many medical tools to control the condition enough to live normal, active lives.

Some states make it harder for diabetics to get a driver's license, and some states will not allow them to get a license to drive a truck, all under the impression that the fluctuating sugar levels will negatively impact their driving capabilities. "There is no scientific evidence to show that diabetics have worse driving records or that they have more accidents than any other group in the population," he says.

Woods believes he understands why there is so much misinformation about sugar within the scientific community. "The body converts the foods we eat into sugars (glucose), because the brain basically uses only glucose to work," he explains. "So it might seem logical that the direct addition of more sugar will simply overload the brain and cause it to malfunction."

"But what really happens is that we have a great set of mechanisms in our bodies that controls just how much of that glucose gets to the brain. After the brain gets its proper dosage, the rest is converted to fat, or used by other tissues," he says.

What about products containing sugar that are well-known for their ability to alter our behavior, like alcohol? "Alcohol is different," says Woods. "It is a sugar and it's an alcohol, which means that its chemical make-up allows it to pass right through membranes throughout the body, including the brain, and that does have an impact on behavior. That cellular activity cannot be controlled."

"Other sugars don't wreak that sort of havoc on cells," he continues. "They are controlled by a system of distribution mechanisms."

Is sugar addictive? "It can be psychologically addicting, for some people," he says.

When it comes to sugar replacements, Woods says that the body physiologically prepares itself to get the "real thing" when it tastes something that is sweet. "Then," he adds, "the body's response in this situation is sufficient to help convert some of the body's own sugar into fats, just as if sugar had actually been consumed."

While Woods insists that scientific data support the notion that sugar does not influence behavior nearly as much as we have come to believe, he points out that there are still two considerations to keep in mind when we eat it: the additional calories and it still causes tooth decay.

America's first extensive hard-surface road was built in Pennsylvania. Completed in 1795, it was known as the Lancaster Turnpike and ran 62 miles.

Our driest state is Nevada. Its annual rainfall averages 8.8 inches.
