Mideast Crisis Sends Shock Waves Through Pacific Northwest Economy

Moscow, Idaho—There were few bright spots in a generally bleak economic outlook report issued by agricultural college faculty members at the University of Idaho, Washington State University and Oregon State University.

"Swift and peaceful" resolution to the Kuwait crisis would ease the current U. S. economic downturn, the Pacific Northwest educators said. In their "best case" scenario, the forecasters said a full-fledged economic recession in early 1991 will end by mid-year if peace returns to the Middle East. A shooting war would prolong the U. S. recession and cause serious dislocations in our oil-dependent economy, they said.

Recent increases in oil prices have cut the profit margins in Pacific Northwest farmers. "Agricultural fuel prices were 10 percent higher in 1990 than in 1989. Prices of agricultural chemicals are expected to rise in 1991 as a result of higher crude prices," the economic forecasters said.

If war breaks out in the Middle East, oil prices may spiral to $60 per barrel, the educators said in their year-end report. "In this event, we should expect to experience a pronounced and protracted recession in 1991," the report said.

With careful fine-tuning of monetary controls, the Federal Reserve system can "avert a deep and protracted recession," the report said.

Noting that Federal Reserve monetary regulators must perform a difficult balancing act, the report said the Fed is trying to stimulate the economy without building up inflationary pressures.

The report said consumer confidence is waning, unemployment is rising and the construction industry remains in a deep slump. Sales of automobiles and other durable consumer goods will be at low levels during 1991, the report added.

Farmers will show a high degree of sales resistance, the report said. "The overall demand for farm machinery in the Pacific Northwest will decrease while the price of new equipment will rise approximately five percent in 1991."

The tri-state report is issued annually. The new "Pacific Northwest Agricultural Situation and Outlook" reports foresees these developments in 1991:

—Production costs in agriculture and other industries are rising as a result of the hike in oil prices.

—The 1991 net income of Pacific Northwest farmers and ranches will fall below the 1990 level.

—Agricultural exports will remain at a fairly high level during 1991. Total tonnage of farm products shipped overseas may exceed the 1990 volume. However, the total dollar value of these products probably will drop in 1991.

—Prices could soften in some major commodity markets. The commodities that are vulnerable to possible downward price movements include potatoes, livestock and dry beans.

—Farm real estate increased in value about seven percent in 1990 in the Pacific Northwest, and an additional increase of four to five percent is expected during 1991. Market prices will be quite low for older apple orchards and farmland used for wheat and barley production.

—The U. S. unemployment rate will be about seven percent by mid-year. The rate will inch down slightly after June.

—The U. S. government will continue to have budget troubles in 1991. Tax revenues will drop and federal spending will increase, registering a record-high deficit for the 1991 fiscal year.

—Electricity rates should remain relatively constant for the next few years. In the Pacific Northwest, a small rate increase could occur in late 1991.

—Farm production costs will rise in 1991. Supplies of gasoline and diesel fuel should remain adequate, although new price increases are likely. Fertilizer prices will be higher, with nitrogen fertilizer showing the biggest price jump. Prices for agricultural chemicals will rise, probably more than 20 percent.

The year-end economic report was prepared by 54 faculty members of the UI, WSU, and OSU. Seven leaders of the agricultural industry also participated in the 1991 Outlook Task Force. Neil Rimbey, UI agricultural economist, coordinated the report's preparation, and Bill Stellman, UI agricultural editor, edited the report. Copies of the 1991 Agricultural Situation and Outlook report will be available in mid-January at county Extension System offices.

In a commodity-by-commodity review of Pacific Northwest agriculture, the economic forecasters reported the following trends and developments:

—LIVESTOCK. Meat prices will not show big increases since there is vigorous price competition at the retail level among all meats, poultry and fish. Beef prices should drop during a prolonged recession. Fed beef is expected to average between $75 and $79 per hundredweight during the first quarter of 1991. Later, prices should strengthen, reaching a peak of $77 to $81 in the spring, and falling to $74 to $80 during the third quarter.

Hog prices should average in the low $50s in the first quarter of 1991, then show small gains in the second quarter and drop to the low $40 during the fourth quarter.

Lamb production rose in 1990, resulting in lower prices. Price gains in 1991 will be modest. Australia's over-supply of lambs adds pressure to U. S. lamb prices.

—DAIRY. Dairy farming will be less profitable in 1991 than in 1990. Feed prices are expected to remain near 1990 levels, but on-farm milk prices will be lower—probably dropping $2 to $3 below the 1990 average of $14 per hundredweight. While grain supplies are plentiful alfalfa hay may be in somewhat short supply.

—POTATOES. The large 1990 crop of potatoes has driven down the general price level for potatoes. In 1991, weakened economic conditions will also affect prices. If the crisis in the Middle East worsens and oil prices escalate further, Pacific Northwest growers may have to accept lower prices in order to compensate for increased transportation costs.

—WHEAT. Worldwide acreage of 1991 wheat crops is expected to be 12 percent below 1990. A drop of 19 percent in total U. S. wheat production is likely. However, U. S. white wheat production will decline only nine percent. As production drops off wheat prices should show some recovery in 1991. For white wheat, the season's average Portland price should be $3.40, about 40 cents higher than the 1990 average.

—FEED GRAINS. Demand for feed grains remains high, and price strength should continue in 1991. Total 1991 feed grain production in the U. S. will decline about five percent as corn plantings are reduced. Pacific Northwest barley prices should remain at current levels or move slightly higher.

—DRY BEANS. For bean prices to improve, exports must accelerate and production will have to drop. Bean prices in the first quarter of 1991 will remain unchanged or decline slightly. U. S. production rose 33 percent in 1990. Idaho's production increased by 3.4 percent and Washington's by 5.5 percent.

—DRY PEAS & LENTILS. Food aid purchases will continue to influence prices of dry peas and lentils. Since North American stocks of dry peas are low, the 1991 market should be fairly strong. North American stocks of lentils have risen about 29 percent. U. S. food aid purchases of lentils are expected to decline in 1991.

—POULTRY. Prices of poultry and eggs should remain near 1990 levels or move slightly lower. If fuel prices increase in 1991, poultry producers may reduce the size of their operations. With less production, prices of broilers, turkeys and eggs would increase during the second half of 1991.

—HAY. Demand for high-quality hay will continue to be strong. Hay will command high prices this winter, but prices will move lower next summer. During the 1991-92 production year, most hay prices will be in the range of $60 to 100 per ton. Hay acreage in the Pacific Northwest will increase to 31 million acres in 1991.

—GRASS SEED. Producers of grass seed are troubled by rising production costs. Another worry is the field-burning question. The Idaho legislature may examine this issue in 1991. Also worrisome to producers is the prospect of weakening demand and lower prices. Due to the economic downturn, the demand for many grass seed types appears likely to decline.

Christmas guests of Marvin and Margie were Joan, Randy and Leslie Tiede from Winchester, Dorothy Schnable from Moscow; Dale, Patti, Brian and Janel Silflow; Rick Marianne, Jeremy and Cindy Chase. Thel Meyer; Horst, Loeda and Heidi Reil, and Betty Watts.

New Year's Eve guests of Thelma and Hermy Meyer to celebrate Hermy's birthday were Dorothy Schnable of Moscow; Ted, Marlene and Jack Meyer; Horst Leoda and Heidi Reil; Dale, Patti, Brian and Janel Silflow, Karen Larson from Lewiston, Cindy Chase, Carolyn and Matthew LeFebvre from Roseville, Mn. New Year's Day the family gathered to celebrate Matthew LeFebvre's 1st birthday with cake and ice cream.

Jean Wegner and Don Fry returned home last Thursday, the 27th, leaving here on the 18th. Don had spent a week visiting with his brother, Bob Fry at Emmet while Jean spent the week with her son and his family, Reggie and Betty Wegner and boys at their new home outside of Boise. They had a good time and the Reggie Wegners send their greetings to all for a prosperous and Happy New Year!

New Year's Eve was spent at home playing cards.

Rick and Joanne Gertje enjoyed a movie and dinner in Lewiston on Friday evening. The girls spent the night with grandparents Wayne and Kaye Harris. Their New Year's Eve was spent with Bob and Gerlene Parks and family. New Year's Day was spent in Juliaetta with Ed and Shari Pea and children.

Roy and Doris Silflow and Emma Silflow had overnight guests on New Year's Eve. They were Tiffany and Jessica, their granddaughters. New Year's Day they helped Doug Silflow celebrate his birthday. Those present were Richard and John, Mike and Karen and children and Doug and Laina and family.

The Vern Wegner family have just returned home from a Christmas visit in Phoenix, Arizona where they were guests of their daughter and Ruth Ann's mother, who was also visiting there.

They spent some time in Tucson also visiting friends there. Ruth Ann said the weather was very enjoyable even though they had a little skiff of snow.

Sandi Flowers and Gayle Marek drove to New Meadows to pick up Tom Flowers who was home on Christmas leave from the Navy. He left the 29th for San Diego, Calif., to return to duty.

Christmas was spent in the home of Bill and Sandi Flowers. Gathering there were Tom Flowers, Tom and Gayle Marek and boys, Bud Adamson and Daisy Stage.

A luncheon guest on the 26th in the Marek home were Emil Beyer, Joyce Noble and Melissa and Jo. Gayle was the lucky winner of a 19" color television set from the Albersson grocery store in Lewiston.

Pat Grim returned home on Tuesday after spending the holidays with her daughter and family, Bill and Nancy Phillips and children of Sandpoint.

Cedar Ridge 4-H Club Plans Jan. 6 Sledding Party

Cedar Ridge 4-H Club is having a sledding party for members, families and friends on Sunday, Jan. 6 at 1:30 at the home of Fred and Judy Foster.

Bring your own sled, food and drink.

Development Assoc. Met with Seniors

Friday at noon members of the Kendrick-Juliaetta Community Development Association met at the Kendrick Senior Center with seniors of the Kendrick Nutritional Meal Site. At the last meeting of the J/K Development Assoc. members voted to begin meeting twice each month and have the second meeting of the month on Friday at the Meal Site. It was hoped that by doing this, attendance and interest in both groups would be increased.

Meal Site Coordinator Ruth A. White welcomed everyone to the dinner, and after an excellent chicken friend steak lunch, the meeting was turned over to Development President Harry Burmeister of Juliaetta.

Following the reading and approval of the minutes of the previous meeting by secretary Leasel Abrams, Donna Heinen, one of the chairmen of the Christmas decorating committee, introduced Ruth Ann Merril, and thanked her for the Christmas decorations she had created for the towns of Juliaetta and Kendrick this season. These large plywood cut-outs, painted by Mrs. Merril without charge, added greatly to the spirit of the season. Both Mrs. Heinen and Barbara Clayton, another member of the committee expressed gratitude for the response the community gave to home and business decorations this year. A vote of thanks was also extended to the judges of the decorating contest.

In other reports given that day, Mrs. Clayton reported that the sales of the association-sponsored Centennial History Book are going well and the "break even" financial mark is just about reached.

Wally Butler, chairman of the River Crossing Golf group, reported that even though this hasn't been golfing weather, the group is still very active in its planning to build a nine-hole golf course east of Kendrick and welcomed and encouraged support.

Bob Hassoldt reported that there are plans to hold a "Triathlon" in the area later this year, if enough support and interest develops. This is an athletic event involving running, biking and canoeing or kayaking. This type of event is becoming more popular and might be a good means to publicize the community.

Nail-Larson Wedding Vows Exchanged Christmas Eve

Tom Nail of Lewiston and Steffanie Larson exchanged wedding vows Monday evening, Christmas Eve, at the home of Larry and Jan Crawford in Juliaetta.

Mr. Jerry Brown, mayor of Kendrick, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. John Nail was the best man for his son, and Jeanie Converse was matron of honor for her sister.

Guests included Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Larson of Kendrick, parents of the bride, Rich Larson, Spokane, a brother of the bride; John and Debra Nail, Lewiston, Tom's father, Mrs. Bessie Bahnsack, Tom's grandmother, Lewiston; Kathleen Grey, Tom's sister from San Francisco, Calif.; Mrs. Jeanie Converse and sons Todd and Tyler of Weippe, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Rawson, Clarkston, and Tony and Jeanie Adams of Lewiston.

The couple are making their home in Lewiston where Tom is a full-time student at LCSC, and employed part time by AAA Transmission at Lewiston.

A reception will be held in June.

A Special Thank You . . .

to Ed Ulrich, Emil Silflow, Elizabeth Mickelson and the Kendrick Good Samaritan Food Bank for emergency help and timely visits on Thanksgiving and Christmas. Also thanks to the Juliaetta Volunteer Fire Dept. and Santa for all making the holidays more fulfilling and sweeter.

Your generous dedication and hard work exemplify the spirit of the season and you all are a credit to the community.

Best Wishes for the New Year.
The Residents and Management of Johnson Manor

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank all of our friends and neighbors for all of their wonderful help since Bob's surgery. Special thanks to David Wilken, Fritz Lohman, Pastor George and Arlie Armitage. Everyone's concern and prayers are greatly appreciated. We are very fortunate to live in such a caring and loving community.

Thank you all. We want to wish everyone a very Happy New Year! Bob and Judy White

KHS to Participate in National/Idaho Citizen Bee Competition

Kendrick High School students will have the opportunity to participate in a unique social studies academic competition which could lead to a scholarship and a study trip to Washington, D. C. in June 1991. The school has registered to participate in the Close Up Foundation Citizen Bee.

The Citizens Bee is an academic competition that focuses on social studies and progresses through school, regional, and state events. Three Kendrick students will advance to regional competitions with top students there going to the state finals.

This is the first year that schools from across the state have participated in the competition.

State winners earn a trip to Washington to participate in the Foundation's government studies program and the national competition. Winners of the national event receive college scholarships totaling $48,000 presented by the American Honda Foundation. The national Citizen Bee has been funded by Burger King Corporation, KPMG Peat Marwick, and Kraft General Foods.

Clarke Bradley, a teacher at KHS, will be coordinating the Citizen Bee at the school.

Jean Brammer Wins Final Football Forecast

Kendrick's Weekly Football Forecast is history for another year and Mrs. Jean Brammer went out a winner, predicting all but one of the weekend NFL professional football contests correctly. There was just a few entries in this week's contest, less than fifty, probably because of all the other activities.

What entries did come in were good ones. Jean beat out Wayne Harris, Ken Wilson and Wally Butler, who each just missed two.

With the regular season now over, Jeff Smith can no longer embarrass himself with his weekly "out-on-the-limb" predictions. Seriously, this would be a good time to thank Jeff for the time and trouble he goes to during the season to collect the entries—they usually average close to 100 a week, sort through them and keep track of who wins and who doesn't. This a popular little game in the community and Jeff makes it possible. Thanks also to the business firms who sponsor the contest, and thanks to all the sport fans who take the time to sit down, guess what's going to happen and turn in the slips.

A "Thank You" from Helen

Helen Cowger called the Gazette office Monday morning wishing to say "Thank You" to the friends and neighbors for their help when she fell and broke her hip at her home recently. She also wanted to say thanks to the ambulance crew who took her to the hospital and to everyone for the cards, calls, prayers and visits while she was at St. Joseph. She added "I wasn't throwing snow balls this time!"

Mrs. Cowger is staying at the home of her daughter, Pat, in Craigmont while she mends up a little. She is having her mail sent to Earl Trautman, Rt. 1, Box 37, Craigmont, Id 83523.

She also adds, "Happy New Year To You All!"

Accounting Firm To Open New Office in Kendrick

Hayden, Ross and Co. is celebrating not only the new year, but a new office in Kendrick. Renovations have been underway for several months preparing for the Jan. 10th grand opening. Greg Mann, a Certified Public Accountant with Hayden, Ross and Co. in Moscow for eight years, will be managing the Kendrick office.

The office is located on Main St. between Snyder's Home Center and Farm Bureau Insurance and will be open every Tuesday and Thursday from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m., and Saturday from 8 a. m. to 12noon.

Hayden, Ross and Co. was founded in 1938 in Moscow by John F. Hayden, CPA, who was joined by Patton A. Ross in 1950. The firm was incorporated in 1988 and now includes Patton A. Ross, James R. Pilcher, David E. Jones, and Jon P. Anderson as principal owners.

On January 1, 1990, Hayden, Ross and Co. expanded by establishing a second office in Pullman, Washington, managed by Jon Anderson.

Hayden, Ross and Co. remains a regional firm dedicated to providing accounting services that make use of the most advanced techniques available in the profession.

Hayden, Ross and Co. is proud to be one of the most progressive accounting firms in northern Idaho and eastern Washington. They offer a full range of tax, audit, compilation and review, accounting and management advisory services.

An open house is scheduled for Thursday, January 10, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m. All in the community are most welcome to attend.

Ruby Nelson, 73, Passes December 26

Ruby Lavelle Nelson, 73, a Deary homemaker, died of complications of cancer at St. Joseph Regional Medical Center at Lewiston Wednesday, December 26, 1990.

She was born June 16, 1917, at Kendrick to William and Edith Fairfield Hecht. She grew up on Big Bear Ridge and graduated from Kendrick High School.

She married Norman (Fuzzy) Nelson May 3, 1941, at Coeur d'Alene. He died Sept. 8, 1989.

She enjoyed camping, traveling and sewing. She was a lifetime member of the Morning Star Rebekah Lodge No. 68 at Deary and a member of the Bovill Presbyterian Church.

Survivors include a daughter, Dell-ree Warner of Deary; two sisters, Velma Benjamin of Kendrick and Vena Weber of Kelso, Wash.; and four grandchildren.

Cremation has taken place. A memorial service was held Sunday at Short's Funeral Home at Moscow with the Rev. Steve Hammond officiating.

The family suggests any memorials be sent to the Deary Ambulance Fund of the Bovill Presbyterian Church.

about communities, schools, people, and places

Over two years of planning and research have gone into this project. The result is a limited-edition, hard-bound publication filled with photographs and stories of the people, schools, places, and events that shaped the Kendrick-Juliaetta area during the past 100 years. This book is alive with history and is certain to become a treasured family heirloom.

Junior Girl Scouts Take Field Trip

On Tuesday, December 11th, Junior Girl Scout Troop 379 took a trip to the home of Elizabeth Zinser, the president of the University of Idaho. Upon arriving, Ms. Zinser served the girls a snack of home-made apple cider and Christmas cookies. Then she taught the girls how to make Christmas ornaments. They finished the trip off by having dinner at McDonalds.

The girls attending were Randi Grant, Tiffany Silflow, Kelsey Heustis, Darbi Kechter, Anna Magnuson, and Mercedes Eichner. The girls would like to thank Ellen Magnuson, Dorothy Grant, and Danette Heinen, for making this trip possible.

Fisheries Plan for 1991-'95 Approved

Providing more trophy fishing waters, maintaining a high-quality angling experience, better utilizing hatchery trout—these are a few of the plans Idaho fisheries managers have for the next five years.

The 1991-95 resident fish management plan, developed with input from a 1988 angling survey, was approved by the Fish and Game Commission at its Dec. 6 meeting in Boise.

The plan calls for the Department of Fish and Game to become more involved in protecting and enhancing stream habitats for wild trout and other fish. To help maintain wild trout populations, designated wild trout streams will be managed under a two-fish bag limit. Streams with year-round seasons and designated put-and-take streams will be managed under the current six-trout limit.

The department will make more efficient use of catchables (8"-10" trout) by stocking streams where anglers catch at least 40 percent of those released; concentrating catchable releases in easily-accessible, heavily-fished waters; timing releases to coincide with fishing pressure peaks and publicizing the locations of releases.

Hatchery production for lakes and reservoirs will shift to subcatchables (5"-7" trout) for a put-grow-and-take fishery. This will allow production of greater numbers of trout at a lower cost.

Quality and trophy bass and trout waters will be increased to satisfy angler demand. Special regulations to maintain these waters will vary.

In general, however, anglers in quality bass waters would have to release all bass before July 1. After that, they may keep only bass less than 12 inches or greater than 10 inches. In trophy bass waters, anglers may only keep bass longer than 20 inches. A minimum size limit or 14 inches or slot limits will be placed on quality trout waters. Trophy trout waters will have a minimum size limit of 20 inches or slot limits. Catch-and-release restrictions may also be used in some areas.

To provide more family fishing opportunities, the department will try to develop or obtain access to new fishing lakes or ponds, especially near heavily populated areas. It will also provide more information on available fishing opportunities.
