

Floyd Heimgartner Honored by Grange As Community "Citizen of the Year"

Given the resurgence of patriotism across the land, it was fitting that a World War II Navy pilot was honored as the Community "Citizen of the Year" for 1991. Floyd Heimgartner, retired Juliaetta Postmaster, his wife Betty, brothers and sisters, daughter-in-law Julie and her two sons, Andrew and Brian, all enjoyed the festive occasion at the Grange Hall on April 23 as the Grange hosted a special supper in his honor.

A patriotic red, white and blue theme brought the hall and memories alive for Floyd and his special guests. The supper was under the direction of the Chairman of the Women's Activities Committee, Betty Cowger, who was assisted in decorating the tables by Elsie Onstott, Betty Stone, Grange Lecturer, was the master of ceremonies, assisted by Sally Browning, Harry Burnmeister, Art Foster, and others who shared some memories with the crowd.

During World War II, Floyd flew a Gruman Avenger torpedo bomber, the same kind of plane that President George Bush flew. Appointed Postmaster of Juliaetta in 1957, Floyd racked up a record number of years in that position, retiring in 1983. He was instrumental in getting a new post office built in Juliaetta in 1974. He also served as city clerk of Juliaetta through the 60's and early 70's and on the school district board of trustees (remembered as a big job). A member of the fire department, he was one of the original group that formed the J-K Ambulance Service.

A Past Master of Kendrick Lodge No. 26, AF&AM, Floyd also supervised the remodeling of the Rebekah Lodge Hall for use as a library. He also spent many hours helping remodel and repair the Juliaetta Community Church.

Betty Stone presented Floyd with a certificate of recognition as Citizen of the Year and a marble paperweight bearing the logo of the Grange, both as expressions of appreciation from the Grange and the community for his many years of service.

The Lecturer also presented fifty-year pins to Mabel Glenn and Opal Draper in recognition of their years of service. Margaret Olson of Deary received her sixty-year seal, which is placed on her fifty-year certificate. She also presented Virginia Jacobson — substituting for ailing husband Frank—the trophy for first place in the talent contest held at this year's Jamboree at Princeton Grange Hall on April 13.

Kendrick Grange took first place thanks to the patriotic presentation conceived and directed by Lecturer Betty Stone, assisted by readers Margaret Olson, Ruth White, Nell Heimgartner, Ross Armitage, and Frank Jacobson. The winning act concluded with all the Kendrick Grangers joining in behind Inez Armitage to sing Lee Greenwood's "God Bless the U. S. A." Though the song was pitched a tad too high, the Grangers persevered, gave it their all and came out on top!

Second place in the talent competition was taken by a group of young singers from the community around Mountain Home Grange, an ecumenical group of Sunday School children who delighted the crowd with their competence and spirit. Third place was taken by Imogene Rush of Moscow Grange, who unfortunately lost one of the members of her little troupe during the performance. If you see Ross Armitage scratching himself, caution him not to do harm to one of her pet fleas!

An annual Pomona Grange activity, the Jamboree also gives Women's Activities Committee an opportunity to raise some funds for their projects. Thanks to enthusiastic bidders and hungry cake-walkers, that group took in a couple of slices less than $150—a lot of bread, as one would say!

Special visitors from the Idaho State Grange that afternoon included State Master Don Johnson and his wife Mary; Faye Moore, state secretary, and her husband; Lecturer Opal Vieselmeyer, CWA Mary Lou Wagner and husband Howard; Sally Hoock, from the membership/leadership team; and Avery and Ruth Bright, Deputies for District III.

Pomona Grange will next meet on May 11 at Troy Grange, beginning at 10:00 a. m., with a break for a potluck dinner at noon.

Juliaetta Elementary School Helps Celebrate National Grange Week

In support of the Local Roads and Bridges program being conducted by the National Grange and just in time to celebrate Grange Week across the whole country beginning April 21, Juliaetta Elementary School students are awaiting the results of the judging in the poster contest sponsored by Kendrick Grange.

The over-all theme of the contest is simply this: "If we don't take care of our local roads and bridges, we're not going anywhere." Judges Leasel Abrams, Barbara Clayton, and Marilyn Eichner met on Monday morning to pick the top three posters in two divisions—grades K through 3 and grades 4 through 6. Three winners to be named in each division will receive ribbons and a $3.00 prize for first place, $2.00 for second, and $1.00 for third. In addition, the Master of the Grange will pick the Best of Show prize and award that student with an extra special ribbon and a $7.00 prize.

Look for the posters in the Grange Hall windows and in businesses in the community of Kendrick/Juliaetta. Copies of some of the posters will be sent on to our representatives in the Congress in an attempt to include local roads and bridges as a part of the national highway network. The current law expires this year and new legislation will have to be written beginning September of this year.

The National, State, and local Grange all want to encourage Congress to appropriate money from the Highway Trust Fund to enable state and local governments to select, build and maintain the local roads and bridges that are in fact an integral part of the national system. As space permits, here are some facts to consider:

- * "Local Roads & Bridges", which carry people and products, are a vital part of the nation's highway system but are not presently considered to be a part of the national highway network.
- * "Local Roads & Bridges" are important not only to rural communities and the agricultural sector but to the manufacturing, construction, mining, forestry, trucking, tourism, and retail industries as well.
- * Nearly half of the county-maintained roads are made of earth, gravel or loose aggregate. Only 4% of them are paved.
- * 82% of the nation's roads are in rural communities.
- * Residents of counties, towns, and townships are responsible for 50.3% of the nation's highway mileage.
- * Rural residents pay more per capita into the Highway Trust Fund than city residents, averaging $9.16 more per capita.
- * 75% of the nation's bridges are on local roads, half of which are currently substandard.

A "Thank You" from Martha—

I want to thank everyone who helped at the party in my honor last Wednesday at the Senior Citizen Center. The beautiful cake, the lovely floral arrangements and my corsage were truly appreciated. I was also so happy and honored by the presence of so many friends and I was so happy and proud to have my family there that day.

I have truly enjoyed my 15 years of service and have enjoyed working with all the friendly people.

Thank you all,

Martha Wilken

KHS Annual Staff Salutes M Dee Photography, R. E. Magnuson Agency

At the age of 10, Milt Patterson received his first camera. Since then his interest in photograph has resulted in his business, M Dee Photography. Milt takes pictures of weddings, Young Woman of the Year and other school and community activities. Mr. Patterson also does portrait work, although he prefers weddings and other special events because he works better under that "one chance" kind of pressure. When doing senior pictures, Milt believes he can compete in quality with area studios on outdoor shots. He does these as a community service at very reasonable rates.

Milt also develops his own black and white photos in a converted dark room in his home. He enjoys black and white because it is so versatile. Color developing is too expensive for home processing, so he sends this film to area labs. In addition to the darkroom work, Milt does a lot of copy work. Eventually he would like to get into restoring old pictures.

Milt is mostly interested in stock photography and wants to pursue a career in that. In stock photography, pictures of everything imaginable are set up in an album or portfolio by the photographer. Poster, card, and textbook companies can view, select and purchase certain pictures. Getting published helps companies to know your name and make specific requests.

Milt has already sold some of his pictures to companies who produce calendars, Idaho magazine, and to Beautiful America, among others. He won Kodak's KINSA award a few years ago with a shot of the now famous K-J sewage pond swan.

The KHS Annual Staff is pleased to recognize Milt Patterson as a sponsor. He has become well-known in our community, not only for his friendliness, but for his reliable and quality photographic work.

The R. E. Magnuson Agency

Recently the Arts and Sciences class here at KHS was host to Dana Magnuson of the R. E. Magnuson Agency of Kendrick.

When Mr. Magnuson visited us, he explained the beginnings of his agency clear back in the 1940s. At that time, it was simply a desk, set aside in Marvin Long's grocery store where Phil's Food City is today. Then in the early 1950s, the Magnuson family moved here and R. E. Magnuson bought the books from Mr. Long in 1952 after obtaining an insurance license. From then until the mid-1970s, Robert Magnuson operated the agency and then asked his son Dana to take the helm, which he did in 1978 after getting his insurance license and purchasing the agency from his father. Now, the agency is independent and sells for approximately ten companies.

At the R. E. Magnuson Agency one can take out all types of policies, ranging from commercial and life insurance to farm, home, and auto insurances. With its independence, the Agency can shop around for the exact policy you want, whereas with captive agent companies the customer has to play strictly by the rules. Dana can tailor the coverage and price to the customer's needs. The price breaks are especially important for businesses because insurance is such a large percentage of their overhead.

When asked about a simple definition for insurance, Mr. Magnuson explained, "It's accepting risk for a price." Insurance premiums are now so high because companies must pay not only for damage incurred, but also for legal considerations. Also, we learned that teen-aged drivers must pay higher premiums because more teens, on an average, are involved in accidents.

We would like to thank Dana for visiting with us and also for making The R. E. Magnuson Agency an annual sponsor.

What Maxine Thinks—

You know, I think it is a shame this "speed way" out here in Foster-ville has to be left to the racing cars. I guess some child or an older person is going to have to be killed or injured before something is done.

We also look at two big piles of rough old rocks that's been there for three years.

We would really appreciate it if something were done.

Thank you,

Maxine Foster

P. S.—Either slow up the cars or fix the road!

Potlatch Telephone Project Nearing Completion

Final construction activity to complete the $2,657,000 expansion and modernization program to Potlatch Telephone Company is proceeding on schedule according to local manager, Jerry Brown.

Brown announced that construction is expected to be completed by May 31st in Kendrick and by August 31st in Juliaetta. When complete, the company will provide each customer with single-party service, touch-tone service, and custom calling capabilities. In addition, improved transmission, fewer maintenance problems and aesthetic enhancement will be additional benefits enjoyed by the community as a result of the construction program.

Customer service technicians are currently visiting each home to assure that inside wire facilities are adequate to connect to the new cable facilities.

Brown said that the company has recently filed with the Idaho Public Utilities Commission to change rates. Under the company's proposal, the rates would be consistent with those charged by Troy Telephone Company. The Idaho Public Utilities Commission is currently studying the proposal. Brown pointed out that rates would not change before Commission approval is granted and before customers are connected to the new facilities.

Although additional information about the proposed rates will be sent to each customer with their next telephone bill, Brown invited any customer with questions or comments to call the Potlatch Telephone Company at 289-5701, or stop by the business office in Kendrick.

Martha Wilken Honored For Service to Kendrick Meal Site

The honored Senior's table was decorated with beautiful spring flowers of daffodils and red tulips donated and arranged by Erna Nelson. A special decorated cake was made and donated by Kathryn Morey.

Relatives and friends seated at Martha's table were Marlene Meyer, Marjorie and Kenneth Wilken, Eva Kirkland and Krista, Joanie and Tracy Wilken and Rose Ann Holt.

THE Kendrick - Juliaetta Community Development Association presents its INFRASTRUCTURE IMPROVEMENT PLAN

INTRODUCTION: What's This All About?

As the reader may recall, the Kendrick-Juliaetta Community Development Association decided back in the fall of 1989 to participate in the Gem Community program. Prior to that time, the association, in anticipation of centennial celebrations in both towns, had done much to stir up the spirit of community by promoting the design and sale of centennial coins and the writing and publishing of a history of the area. Both ventures flourished, generating funds needed to underwrite the association's efforts to improve the community of Kendrick-Juliaetta. The success of Kendrick's Centennial Day Celebration last October can be largely attributed to the leadership provided by the association.

In the fall of 1989, a community assessment process, involving various groups within the community, identified the strengths, weaknesses, and needs of the community. Groups involved included the churches, high school, service clubs, the Senior Center, the Grange, groups representing geographical areas, and the association itself. The results of their work were then consolidated into a single assessment report, which became the source of many of the ideas concerning the improvement of the community.

Even while the assessment process was still going on, representatives of the association began attending workshops sponsored by the Idaho State Department of Commerce, which oversees the Gem Community program. There they learned many things: the various meanings of the term infrastructure, a little economic theory as it relates to the small town, the various ways to retain and possibly even expand existing businesses, and the importance of diversifying the local economy—that is, finding new ways to bring dollars into the community. And as they learned about these things, they were also becoming familiar with what it takes to be identified by the Idaho Department of Commerce as a Gem Community.

By late spring of 1990, an ad hoc planning committee of the association began to identify plans for improving the infrastructure, for retaining and expanding existing businesses, and for diversifying the economy. All of this to meet one of the requirements for certification of a Gem Community—namely, to include in the application a statement of the long-term goals (3-5 years) and a statement of the first year goals for community improvement. It is this portion of the application for certification that is printed here for your study and reaction.

The association welcomes your comments and suggestions. They may be addressed to its board of directors (George Brocke, President; Wally Butler, Vice President; Leasel Abrams, Secretary/Treasurer; and Harry Burmeister, Bob Hassoldt, Lil Howerston, Frank Jacobson) or to any member. The association's leaders stand ready to meet with individuals or groups to discuss the plans. Please use the space provided here to make notes concerning your reactions to these proposed plans.

Notes:

FOLLOW-UP: What Next?

All of the other parts of the application for certification are now also in final draft form. Following final editing, the application will be submitted to the Idaho State Department of Commerce. Included in that application will be a request for what is called a mock site-visit. The Department of Commerce will select a team to visit the Kendrick-Juliaetta area for the purpose of seeing just how well the community has prepared to promote one of its proposals. The association, with the agreement of River Crossing, Inc., will propose that the visitors come as though they were considering investing in the development of River Crossing, Inc. This will provide the association and River Crossing, Inc. good hands-on experience. And in the long run, that's what development has to mean: solid, feet-on-the-ground dealing with reality.

While the application is being processed and the site visit planned, the association will concentrate on getting its new organizational structure in place and a constitution and by-laws written. Having operated in a somewhat informal manner up to this point, the association now sees that the volume of work to be done and coordinated is so great that no single volunteer leader can be expected to oversee it all. For that reason, the association will henceforth operate under the general management of a seven member board of directors, who—except for this first year—will elect from among themselves the president, the vice president, and the secretary/treasurer. (Those already elected as officers of the association for this year were automatically named to serve on the new board of directors; the four additional members were elected at a meeting on April 11.)

The board of directors in turn appoints three permanent committee chairmen—one for infrastructure, one for business expansion/retention, and one for economic diversification. The president and the three permanent committee chairmen in turn constitute the Executive Committee, responsible for overseeing the day-to-day operation of the association.

The reader is invited to see where he or she can play a part in this structure as the association continues its efforts to improve the community of Kendrick-Juliaetta. Everyone is welcome, the young, the old, and the in-between. Everyone. No matter what your occupation, there's a place for you. Please consider volunteering to become part of this ongoing effort to improve our community.

We have a motto that's brief and to the point: Seek the welfare of the community where you live, for in its welfare you will find your welfare.

Infrastructure Improvement Plan

1. Develop a strategy to consolidate certain of the public services provided in both towns, including water, sewer, fire protection, police protection, and emergency medical and health care.

In recent years both Juliaetta and Kendrick have had to impose seasonal water rationing for one or more of the following reasons: inadequate source, inadequate storage, inadequate delivery system. In addition, the repair and maintenance of older portions of both systems have been interruptive of service and costly. Furthermore, future growth of the area and adequate fire protection both demand that there be an adequate water system. The financing of projects to mitigate these ongoing problems and meet future needs can be better and more economically achieved by the two towns acting in concert.

Changing environmental protection standards, both Federal and state, increasingly require changes in sewage treatment and facilities. As with the water system, any prospects for future population and business growth

In demand an expansion of treatment facilities. Again, prospects of dealing with these problems both efficiently and economically would be enhanced if the towns acted together to solve them.

Related to water and sewage delivery system problems in Kendrick is the fact that State Highway funds will apparently not be made available to resurface Main Street until those systems are properly upgraded and the need to excavate thus reduced to a minimum.

Currently both towns operate separate volunteer fire departments and are unable because of inadequate manpower and equipment to provide assistance to adjacent rural areas. There are times, especially during the work week, when manpower needs of the separate departments are difficult, if not impossible, to meet. A centrally located department having adequate equipment and a staff of some paid firefighters as well as volunteer fire fighters could better protect both towns and, if supported by a taxing fire district, could also offer protection to rural residents. Once again, the financial and in-kind assistance available from Federal and state sources is enhanced when a larger unit than a single town attempts to provide better service—and at a savings that would be reflected in the insurance premiums of those to be served.

While both towns are relatively free of crime, they both have need at times actively to discourage and prevent vandalism and to preserve the peace and security of small town life. This can best be done by having a local presence immediately on the scene; this cannot be done as well given the geography, by depending on help originating in Moscow or Lewiston. The fact that a state highway bisects both towns suggests also the need for an on-the-scene presence to help enforce motor vehicle laws and thus better assure the safety of local citizens. Again, a joining together of resources and management can result in better law enforcement.

What has been said for fire and police protection can also be said for providing emergency medical and health care. While wishing to take nothing away from the history of service and unselfish dedication provided by the volunteer and self-supporting J-K Ambulance Service, it is clear that the costs of providing increasingly sophisticated service and equipment need to be borne more widely in the Juliaetta-Kendrick area. The creation of an emergency medical district, with taxing power, would assure the future of this vital service.

2. Develop a biking-and-hiking path connecting Juliaetta and Kendrick. Such a path would provide healthful recreation for young and old as well and would serve to attract visitors to our area. The presently unutilized railroad right-of-way could be easily converted to a useful scenic and recreational attraction. If the right-of-way cannot be acquired, then thought must be given to providing for such a path in another way utilizing help from Federal and state sources.

3. Proceed with plans for a nine-hole golf course east of Kendrick and encourage city government in both towns to contribute toward the costs of construction. A golf course can and will attract visitors to the area and have a positive effect on the economy of both towns. Contributions from the cities can be in-kind, including labor and the use of equipment.

4. Encourage the Canas Prairie Railroad to acquire the line from Moscow to Arrow and to restore service; and actively support their efforts in this regard. First priority should be given to restoring freight service; with the forest industry and agriculture jointly committed to working with the railroad toward a mutually advantageous use of rail facilities. Should expectations for renewing freight service fail for economic reasons, then the possibility of using the line as a tourist attraction should be explored. Rail excursions operated in connection with a railroad history museum in the Juliaetta-Kendrick area would keep the area's history alive and serve as a major visitor attraction for the area.

5. Develop a strategy to provide a recreational vehicle park in the area, including taking preliminary steps of providing RV parking in both towns and an RV dump in the area. There are currently no RV facilities of any kind in the area; even parking specifically designed for recreational vehicles is not provided for in either town. As a result, tourists passing through the towns are not encouraged to stop. Even if there were recreational and cultural activities to enjoy here, there is no place for RV owners to stay overnight, let alone park for an hour or so. There is no place to discharge sewage tanks. This lack of facilities discourages visitors from coming to the area and returning at another time.

perhaps mistaken notion that there's only one way to pay for such improvement and that by assessing the property owner so much per foot of frontage. Other options need to be explored in the interest of public safety and improved appearance in both towns.

1. Maintain an up-to-date directory of all businesses in the Juliaetta-Kendrick area and publicize new businesses, cottage industries and other businesses operating out of homes. Such a directory can serve several purposes: It can make local residents aware of those goods and services that can be bought right here at home. It can reveal opportunities of linkage that might otherwise go unidentified. It can stimulate and inspire others to undertake new businesses and offer new services; one can become aware of what's lacking or needed as he examines such a directory. It can also help the business community assess its part in the local community. Such a listing can be a measure of the business vitality of the area and provide evidence of changes and trends that will have an impact on the future.

2. Compile and periodically update an inventory of (1) existing buildings suitable for business use, (2) potential building sites, and (3) building needs. Such an inventory is essential in planning for the future, whether in attracting new businesses to the area or in expanding existing businesses. Businesses requiring space to function in, such an inventory will help planners match available buildings with business needs and where necessary modify existing structures or create new ones to serve those needs.

3. Sponsor a workshop to explore imaginatively the possibilities of starting new businesses in the area. Such a workshop, offered at minimum expense, could do much to stimulate thinking about a variety of new businesses for this area. Involving no risk of capital, such an activity would provide individuals with an opportunity to think big at no risk, a dimension seldom afforded to those who have invested dollars as well as time in a business venture. Such a workshop would also make a participant aware of a variety of factors at work in establishing and operating a successful business. This workshop could be made available to high school students as well as adults in the community.

4. Become aware of and sensitive to consumer attitudes and practices with reference to shopping in the Juliaetta-Kendrick area. There is clear evidence that the area's economic buck has a hole in it—more than one, as a matter of fact. Local residents, people need to become aware of the attitudes and practices of the local consumer. Why does he go on into Lewiston to buy what he can buy right here at home? Why are extra-curricular activities of the local high school, the same concern needs to be shown for the requirements for other occupations that exist in the area or that could be encouraged and sustained locally. There is a need to explore the whole question of employment opportunities available in the area.

14. Offer seminars on business topics for local business people and others interested, including youth. Where an individual businessman

5. With professional help, initiate a program of business visitations to determine local business plans and needs. A unified rather than piecemeal approach to meeting the needs of local businesses will help promote better, coordinated planning to promote economic growth in the area. Individual businesses as well as the community itself can profit from such cooperation.

6. Investigate the possibility of having a trade area capture analysis done for our area. While one can generalize about the failure of local residents to shop at home, no one has any specific data about which kinds of business enterprises are suffering economically and to what degree they're suffering. Such data will help planners better target those enterprises which need to plan how to recapture consumer spending that has gone elsewhere.

7. Plan for and build a golf course. Such an attraction has great potential for attracting new sources of income to the area in the form of new businesses and services. The expansion of existing businesses, facilities for RV vehicles, (see No. 5, above under Infrastructure Improvement Plan.)

9. Conduct a study of those natural resources in the area that are either underutilized or not being used at all (such as clay for example) and determine potential value-added and/or new products that might utilize such resources.

10. Encourage local businesses to devise active strategies to expand their trade capture area. Most businesses suffering from a really significant loss of trade capture seem at present unable to do more than complain. Even businesses not suffering from a significant loss of income should be encouraged to increase their trade capture area. Developing strategies in concert with other businesses has the potential for both improving the local economy and the sense of community.

11. Encourage local export businesses not so involved to expand into national and international markets. Attendance at national and international trade fairs will increase their awareness of market needs and the potential for expansion. Thought should be given to the possibility of hosting a trade fair in this general area, if for no other reason than to develop new contacts.

12. Stimulate the development of promotional projects for Juliaetta-Kendrick retail and service businesses. Promotional projects such as Kendrick's annual sales day worked in the past; similar efforts are needed today. Again, cooperation among business people is essential to the design and success of such projects and will contribute to the development of community spirit.

13. Determine job skills needed by high school graduates in the area and adjust curriculum to meet those needs. The identification and development of farming and ranching skills have been well served historically by the curriculum and by extra-curricular activities of the local high school. The same concern needs to be shown for the requirements for other occupations that exist in the area or that could be encouraged and sustained locally. There is a need to explore the whole question of employment opportunities available in the area.

14. Offer seminars on business topics for local business people and others interested, including youth. Where an individual businessman may hesitate to take action by himself to improve his business skills by means of academic study, a group of business people and others may draw strength and confidence from the group. In addition, a local group could better afford the cost of bringing the teachers here rather than having to travel to Lewiston or Moscow. And again, such ventures to help local business people improve their skills can lead to a better sense of community.

2. Thought should be given to attracting the self-employed to the area, with particular emphasis at first upon attracting artists, crafts people, writers, musicians and composers. An up-to-date directory of all businesses in the area will help identify the potential for additional groups of the self-employed being targeted; examples include investment counselors, editors, consultants, designers, etc.

3. The Community Development Association will support the Forest Service project to attract retirees to the Clearwater Valley, including the planning and implementing of a marketing plan. Retirees to be attracted should be a targeted group consisting of retirees who will not only help improve the economy of the area but who will also be compatible with the prevailing life style and value system of the area. Such retirees will come to enjoy and complement but not supplant the existing life style of small town and rural Idaho.

4. Develop additional tourist attractions in the area, including the following: (1) Scenic tourist attractions such as the balancing rock and the ice cave in the Kendrick area; (2) mill tours (Gem State Lumber and Browning Cut Stock); (3) attractions associated with the history of the railroad in the area (railroad engines, passenger and freight cars, operating in-place dining cars; rail road equipment; a refurbished depot in Kendrick; a railroad museum, scenic tours, etc.); and (4) an elder hostel program.

5. As the area improves in appearance and attractions, work toward having the state highway designated a Scenic Highway. Such a designation will itself serve to attract tourists to the area.

6. As existing attractions are improved and new ones provided, tourism brochure for the area. Such a brochure need not be elaborate. It should contain chiefly a map, numerous pictures of attractions, and enough text to suggest the variety and desirability of attractions. The here and (2) support services for brochure could be financed in part by the Community Development Association and by the businesses.

7. Provide special training for the local work force to enhance skills needed to serve tourists so that they will want to come back to the area. Such training could be provided by the local high school or by LCSC using local school facilities. Skills taught would include not only the technical but those related to communication and social skills, by-gone, etc.

8. Work toward the goal of having (1) tourist attractions account for 80% of the tourist dollars spent and desirability of attractions. The here and (2) support services for brochure could be financed in part by the Community Development Association and by the businesses.

9. Encourage and support the establishment of two new businesses in the area—for example, an RV storage facility, a day-care center.

10. As a first step toward attracting self-employed artists, crafts people, writers, musicians and composers to the area, identify those already here and encourage them to identify themselves and their work by means of guilds or other forms of association and identification.

11. Assist in the Forest Service project to attract retirees to the Clearwater Valley by participating in the community assessment process and helping design a marketing plan to attract targeted groups of retirees to the area.

12. Stimulate the development of promotional projects for Juliaetta-Kendrick retail and service businesses. By Stonypoint Friendship Club

Nine members of the Stony Point Friendship Club met at the home of Mabel Steigers on April 18 where quilters worked on a baby quilt. There were several visitors present. The next meeting will be held at the home of Ruth Heimgartner May 2.

Many members of the area attended the dinner meeting honoring Floyd Heimgartner as "Citizen of the Year" at the Kendrick Grange Hall on Tuesday, April 16. Those from the Stony Point area attending were Eldon and Gertrude Heimgartner and Wayne and Leslie and Delores Heimgartner, and Wilbur Heimgartner and Alvin and Mabel Steigers, Lawrence and Nellie Heimgartner of Juliaetta and also Floyd's youngest sister Bernice Foss and her husband Robert.

Callers at the home of Nellie and Ernest Steigers were Bill and Mary Steigers of Lewiston with their four dogs and a box full of new puppies. Linda, Ken and Brant Steigers were also dinner guests. The ladies prepared and brought a lovely dinner.

John and Melanie Gibbs of Culdesac were Saturday afternoon callers of Marjorie and Glen Stevens and Effie Powell.

On Monday Gertrude Heimgartner and Crystal Gruell spent the day in Lewiston. Visitors in the home of Gert and Eldon from Friday to Monday were Eugene Heimgartner and his wife Betty from Post Falls.

Kylie Heimgartner, granddaughter of Ruth and Wayne Heimgartner danced in a contest held in Lewiston a week ago Sunday. Kylie won two first places and a second.

Ruth Spent Wednesday at Gert's putting a quilt in the frame and quilting.

Dick Brandon, the minister of the Cottonwood Creek Church and his wife Anita, were dinner guests of Ruth and Wayne on Friday.

Lawrence and Nellie Heimgartner enjoyed a visit and lunch at a local cafe with their grandson and his family, Clint and Heidi Johnson and sons Bryan and Michael of Kent, Wash., on Friday.

On Saturday, Lawrence and Nell enjoyed a birthday celebration with ten of their grandchildren and ten great-grandchildren, and daughter Joanne and husband David of Lewiston and Mildred Johnson of Kendrick. All went out to a Lewiston Cafe for dinner and returned to the Johnson's home for the birthday party. Honorees were Michael Johnson who was three years old this week, and Joanne Johnson and Mildred Johnson (who aren't telling!) A good time was had by all.

It was rodeo time at the home of Ken and Linda Steigers when their young bull's foot became entangled in wire and he stood stationary for several hours. When he was discovered and released, he was most unappreciative and chased everyone! There was lots of excitement before he was corralled and his foot treated. Ken and Linda attended the premier of the movie "One Thousand Pieces of Gold" in Lewiston.

All the farmers are busy in the fields trying hard to get the fields reseeded and the spring work done. One even said he wished it would rain because the ground is getting so hard and it is so dusty.
