Following the parades there will be a short lull while the committee the park. These will begin at 11:00.

No Parking on Main Street Two changes will be noticed this year. The first is that there will be no parking on Main St. between 6th and 7th Streets (from the Park Intersection to Abrams Hardware.) This worked well at the centennial and will be tried again. This parking ban comes off when the parade is over. Also there will be parking out at the high school east of town and shuttle bus transportation will be running every 15 minutes from the high school to the Potlatch Telephone office and return.

Opening in the morning after the parade will be the Arts and Crafts exhibits at the Grange Hall.

Most of the booths and concessions will be open following the parade.

Barbecue at 11:30 The highlight of the day is, of course, the serving of the famous Locust Blossom Festival barbecued men's meeting room at the V. F. W. beef dinner in the park. This begins at 11:30 and features barbecued beef, baked beans, cole slaw, pickles, bread, butter and punch or coffee. The only change to be noted is that the price will be $4.00 per serving and a festival button is admission to the serving line. Serving continues Cynthia Nye, leader of Den 2, gave a talk on camping safety since the pack is planning its overnight campout May 18. Both talks by Ellen and Cynthia were very interesting and informative.

Plans were discussed and finalized for the Pack's overnight campout at Camp Grizzly near Harvard, on May 18. Permission forms were sent home for parent's signatures. All forms should be returned to the Den Leaders or to Cubmaster Julie Heimgartner by Monday, May 13.

Other business discussed was the upcoming fund-raiser for the Pack. The Pack and Tiger Cubs will be selling "Tootsie Bunch Pops" in a couple of weeks. There are seven Tootsie Pops (five different flavors.) in a bunch for $1.

A date to remember for the Cub Scouts is Saturday, May 25. The Cub Scouts will again be marching in this year's Locust Blossom Festival

KHS Presents Academic Fair Tuesday, May 14

High school teachers and students are readying for whole week of celebrating the academic aspects of high school. A highlight which will include the community is the Academic Fair on Tuesday, May 14 from 7 to 8 p. m. During the week students will also participate in activities similar up days and daily assemblies with teachers giving academic rewards for participation.

Parents and students alike are invited to the school gymnasium to see a grand display of school work. This is an opportunity to plan for future courses or just see what happens on a daily basis in school. There will be a variety of coursework with an emphasis on special class projects and academic club activities. The English Department will have compositions, reports and those dreaded critiques to peruse. Poetry and projects on Homer's "Odyssey" will be featured. The Social Studies Dept. plans to lure you to their tables with maps, collages, and adventures from Youth Legislature and Closeip programs.

Math and Science will show and tell about design projects and labs that are especially fun. For audiotable. The library will be in charge of various vidéos including the KHS television in March. Exciting new books are worth looking over. German classes will be sharing their scrapbook from the annual trip to Leavenworth, Wash., and a collection of poems they have composed.

The Vocational Department plans to overwhelm the visitor with videos, demonstrations and projects. See what you can make with the miraculous serger. The FFA has been experiencing a resurgence of success. The walls of the shop are being redecorated with award banners. The theme for the evening is "Promoting FFA".
