Few Blossoms, But It was Still Another Excellent Festival

Only the locust blossoms failed to cooperate last Saturday as Kendrick observed it's 31st annual Locust Blossom Festival. The blossoms on the trees lining the street that help make the town so distinctive were not quite ready to bloom. A few of the trees showed their fragrant buds, but it was not until this week that the blossoms appeared.

None the less, the 31st annual celebration was another success, offering entertainment, fun and excitement for the hundreds of visitors and residents who crowded the streets until well after the barbecue beef dinner had been served.

The weather did cooperate almost perfectly—a little on the cool side, but still very nice. The parade was again very good and a tribute to those who worked so hard in its planning.

The barbecue beef dinner was a great success and the number who enjoyed the meal of barbecued beef, baked beans, cole slaw and "extras" appeared to be slightly more than

The Arts and Crafts show, the bingo games and other booths all fared well.

A Fine Parade

The Festival parade seems to be better with each passing year, and this year, with the theme "Tie a Yellow Ribbon", there were many colorful and varied entries in both the kiddie and main parade ranging from decorated bicycles to beautiful floats.

Grand prize went to the Juliaetta Centennial float.
