Porter Family Reunion In Lewiston June 26-27

The descendants of Dennis and Hulda Nelson Porter gathered together for the first time at HellsGate State Park on June 26 and 27.

Over 131 relatives were accounted for; some coming from as far as North Carolina and Guadalupe, Mexico. The days were spent visiting and reminiscing with relatives, new and old. Some took advantage of the beautiful weather, spending time on the beach, swimming and boating. Others decided they liked the shade of the park's many trees instead. Everyone liked the potluck feast held both days.

On Sunday, many hugs and kisses were exchanged as people packed their belongings for the trip home. The reunion was such a success that the general consensus was to have another next year—same time, same place.

Troy Farmer's Market Begins Saturday, July 10

A farmer's market will begin in Troy on Saturday, July 10 and each Saturday thereafter it was announced this week.

Coordinators of the market are seeking vendors and would like to hear from gardeners, handicrafters, artists, etc. Anyone interested in a spot at the market or more information should call Sharon Parkins at 835-3582 in Troy.

The United States has about 5,000 state parks and 48 national parks.

Anyone Interested In A Farmer's Market?

A committee from the Kendrick-Juliaetta Community Development Assoc. is anxious and ready to establish a farmer's market for this community but it needs to know one thing before proceeding any further: is there anyone out there interested in taking part in such a project?

Over the past several years, at meetings and in surveys the setting up of a farmer's market has been mentioned, but when an article appeared in the Gazette two months ago there was no response. Setting up such a project requires advanced preparation and planning, securing the proper licenses, etc. The committee is prepared to do this without any effort on the part of those who would use the facilities, but before the committee goes to the trouble and expense they need to know if anyone would bring produce to sell.

A farmer's market would be a place where gardeners and small farmers could bring their produce, probably in small amounts and, once each week, on Saturday probably, sell produce or fruit at a central location in town. A small fee would be charged for a booth or space.

During melon season there would be space for trucks, if needed.

This is sort of a "last chance" plea to obtain response from the community growers. If you are interested, call Christine Clayton at 278-7455, or call the Gazette (289-5731) and we'll see the word is passed along.

Annual Staff Salutes Red Cross Pharmacy and The Chicken Co-Op

RED CROSS PHARMACY
By Dave Tate

Doug Clayton, owner and main employee of Red Cross Pharmacy, was recently interviewed by the annual staff.

The business was founded in 1904 when the town had to be rebuilt because of the disastrous fire. It was originally White Drug Store. David Clayton purchased the firm in 1970 after managing it for many years. Wanting to slow down, Mr. Clayton sold the business to his son Doug last fall. The store retains the name it has had: even before the National Red Cross was formed.

The store offers a wide variety of medicines and health care products, and veterinarian supplies, school items, cosmetics, card and gift items, such as mylar balloons, watches and jewelry. Doug hopes to expand the gift item section. He has three others working with him: Marianne Chase, and his mother and father, Barbara and David Cayton.

He says that one of the hardest parts of the job is reading doctor's signatures. He calls taking typing instead of Agriculture in high school. Doug is a graduate of KHS. This helped him with his computer skills.

Doug is proud of offering convenient service and is equally proud of the drug store's reputation for good, trust-worthy service. Speaking of his elevated prescription department, he said, "It like being up so high, so I can see when people need help."

The Claytons have long been very excellent supporters of Kendrick High School and its students.

THE CHICKEN CO-OP

By Tyler Ogle

The Chicken Co-Op, located on Main Street in Juliaetta, began in 1985 as a co-op owned by 5 people. In 1989, Salley Browning bought out the interests of the others and begin to operate it. The Chicken Co-Op offers a gift and variety-type store as well as floral section which people in this area patronize frequently. The firms also has a copy service and a fax machine available.

Employees include Iris Eckroth (a full-time manager), Syrnia Groseclose (a part-time helper), and Sally Browning (owner and supervisor), and Glynna Salonen (part-time help).

Mrs. Browning uses her book-keeping skills learned in high school in her everyday job. Sally is proud to be the only store to provide a floral and gift service—something new that every community should have, she states.

Sally says, "a lot of great people helped establish our store. Students are especially helpful with their business and part-time help."

The Chicken Co-Op is another great supporter of the High School and KHS annual. We say: "go to the Chicken Co-Op for your floral and gift-service needs!"

Water Safety is More Than Kid's Stuff—It's for Everyone

Drowning doesn't just happen to children. In the Northwest more adults than children drown. Water safety practices are just as important for adults as they are for children, especially during summer months when the weather invites an increase in recreational water activity.

In this region, most adult drownings occur in open water, such as lakes and rivers while fishing, boating, wading, or simply walking along a dock. Because this area is so water oriented, Northwesters are exposed to the danger of drowning much more often than in most parts of the country. In Washington alone, 136 people drown each year. In Alaska, drowning is the number one cause of death. Boating accidents are by far the most common cause of drowning in the Northwest. Such accidents tend to occur on small boats under 16 feet in length.

"In most cases adult and pediatric victims never intended to get in the water and were not prepared when they had the accident. That's why it's important to wear a life vest when you're in and on the water, even if you don't plan to get wet," points out Dr. Linda Quan, director of emergency services at Children's Hospital and Medical Center and associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Washington School of Medicine.

In the Northwest, whatever the cause of the accident life vests may prevent tragedy. "In these colder waters a victim won't last longer than 20 minutes because of hypothermia," says Quan. Hypothermia prevents clear thinking and even the healthiest individual loses mobility in the limbs, making it impossible to hold onto floating objects. If a life vest or personal flotation device is already on the adult victim, he or she will be kept afloat until rescued. Quan goes on to say, "Many of these incidents are due to unanticipated mishaps such as slipping or falling while doing another activity. Deep-sea fishermen are a high risk group, as are stream and river fishermen. However, nearly 50 percent of adult drownings are linked to alcohol."

Alcohol predisposes a person to lose coordination, body heat, and judgement. Surprisingly, it also increases the likelihood of cardiac arrest when combined with the shock of cold water. Arrhythmia—and erratic heart rhythm—causes the heart to stop or falter upon contact with the water. The loud thrashing one would expect from a drowning adult can be a myth. An adult with arrhythmia simply sinks silently within seconds of submersion, much like a small child.

Prevention is the best remedy. Follow these guidelines to prevent drowning:

- * Don't combine alcohol with water activities.
- * Put on a life vest before you go on or near the water for boating and fishing—life vests are not for just children only.
- * Set a good example for children by wearing life vests and practicing common sense around water.

ASC Greenstock Hearing Postponed

An appeal by Dennis "Skip" Chilberg who was fined more than $30,000 for environmental damage done to his property during a rock music festival has been postponed until July 19, it was learned late last week.

Chilberg, the owner of the land was scheduled to appear before the Latah County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee Tuesday, July 6. Chilberg asked to reschedule the hearing because of time conflicts due to his duties as a Spokane County commissioner, an ASC director said.

A three-member committee ruled in June that Chilberg broke his erosion-control contract with the government by allowing Greenstock, a rock music festival, to take place in April on his land east of Kendrick.

Under the contract, Chilberg was not allowed to use the land for commercial activity, camping, parking grazing and other uses.

The three-day, 35-band concert ended prematurely when heavy rain created ankle-deep mud, leaving hundreds of vehicles stuck for days at the remote site.

The appeal filed by Chilberg's attorney argues that the ASC committee erred by calling the festival a commercial activity, and that any violations of Chilberg's contract were temporary. Chilberg has repaid the $4.9 acres.

The federal government's Conservation Reserve Program pays landowners to prevent erosion by leaving agricultural land fallow and planting grass.

Chilberg was fined $31,000—the amount of subsidies he received over seven years through the program.

Park News

by Jody Smith

Rain, just enough to keep haying stalled, seems to have tapered off as of Monday. A few bales have been wrapped but most hay is still uncut. No one has to guess as to the topic of conversation when neighbors meet this year!

(Last week's column was so long I omitted a few items.)

A recent shopping trip to the Moscow malls occasioned a chance meeting between friends Karl and Wanda Enger and Bob and Myrna Roskam of Deary with the visiting carried on to a joint dinner at Bonanza. Visiting the Engers last Saturday were Karl's aunt, May Currier of Lewiston and her daughter and son-in-law, Norma and Vernon Christensen of Hermiston, Oregon. They were in the area for the Park Reunion picnic.

A side note to the reunion picnic: A large Tupperware seal was inadvertently carried home by the wrong party after the picnic. If anyone knows of its whereabouts, please contact either Jody Smith or Marge Torgerson.

Anna Hunter was a Sunday overnight visitor in Park after the reunion picnic last week. She and the Clinton Smiths shared supper with brother and sister-in-law Jerry and Jody Smith and she stayed on until Sunday evening with Clinton's family.

Jerry Smith made a business trip to Lewiston Saturday, missing a visit from his son and daughter-in-law, Jim and Brenda Smith, Sarah, Kristin, Scott and Alissa from Hayden Lake. Jody entertained the family at home as well as Mrs. Judy Thompson and her granddaughter Tina of Clatskanie, Oregon. Scott Smith is spending a few weeks with his grandparents while Sarah is visiting Clinton, Ethel and Leah for a week or so.

Sunday morning visitor with the Jerry Smith's was her mother Betty Stone of Lewiston. This group, with many others, gathered at the home of Clinton and Ethel Smith and Leah for the annual Fourth of July picnic. Forty-three people enjoyed a bountiful potluck dinner, a rousing game of softball, and dessert time with home-made ice cream and pastries. The oldest visitor for the day was Uncle Lloyd Slatter, while the youngest was grandson Nathan Stout both of Lewiston.

Those traveling the furthest were Clinton's cousins, Arthur and Myrtle Smith of Meaford, Ontario, Canada, who have been visiting for several days.

While the travelers were in the area they joined Clinton and Ethel for the Saturday celebration of the birthdays of Gordon and Frances Peters. Monday's plans include a visit to Clinton's sister, Beatrice Reed and family in Clarkston, calling on Ruthie Wilson on Bear Ridge enroute.

Homemakers Club July 14—

The Happy Homemakers Club will meet at the club house Wednesday, July 14 at 1:30.

Jeanette Arbrogast and Erin Turden of Corvallis, Oregon, and Richard Weber of Lewiston were week-end visitors of Eddie and Elaine Galway. Elaine attended the birthday reception for Gordon and Frances Peters Saturday.

For special flavor put a piece of chocolate or a vanilla bean in the coffee filter before you add the coffee.

In the Arctic, flowerless plants called lichens keep the frozen ground from melting and prevent erosion.

Brooks Robinson, Baltimore Orioles' third baseman, played in four World Series.

Seat Belt Use Reaches New High in Idaho

Boise—Seat belt use in Idaho has reached 56 percent, according to a recent survey, another high in the state's continuing upward push toward the national 70 percent goal. Idahoans are buckling up at a 56.3 percent rate, up more than three percentage points from the record high of 53.2 percent recorded just six months ago, the Idaho Transportation Department's Office of Highway Safety reported. The national seat belt use rate at the end of 1992 was 62 percent.

The survey shows a 40 percentage point increase in use in Idaho since the seat belt law was enacted in June of 1986.

In the survey of 21 cities across the state, the southcentral and north-central regions led the way, with rates of 65.5 and 63.7 percent, respectively. Twin Falls, a National Highway Traffic Safety award winner for seat belt use, achieved an 82 percent compliance rate, the highest of any survey city. The city was also recently honored by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus for sustaining a seat belt use rate of more than 70 percent.

Lewiston and Moscow continued to close in on the 70 percent goal, each with rates above 65 percent. Idaho Falls also topped 60 percent.

Rexburg and Post Falls recorded dramatic increases with jumps of 20 percentage points, to 47.3 percent, and 18.2 percentage points, to 52.6 percent, respectively.

Soda Springs, Salmon and Preston showed the least compliance, all under 27 percent. However, each posted an increase over the last survey, and Blackfoot, at the bottom of the heap last quarter, vaulted almost 10 percentage points.

Statistics prove that not wearing a seat belt is very dangerous. Approximately 40,000 people die each year in automobile crashes, and hundreds of thousands are injured. If all front-seat occupants wore safety belts, 14,413 lives might have been saved in 1991 alone. From 1983 thru 1991, an estimated 29,568 lives were saved by seat belts.

Idaho's safety belt law requires all drivers and front seat passengers cars, pickups, and vans to wear safety belts. Currently, 45 states have seat belt laws.

The child restraint law requires parents or guardians to properly restrain children under the age of four or forty pounds in an approved car seat.

In 1992, child restraint use was 52

Sandra Burger a former Kendrick-Julietta area resident, died July 2 in a fatal automobile accident in Mt. Silverton, Kentucky. A memorial service was held in Mt. Silverton Monday, July 5.

IDAHO UNEMPLOYMENT DOWN SLIGHTLY IN JUNE

The Idaho Department of Employment this week announced the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate forecast for June 1993 at 6.4 percent, a decrease of four-tenths of a percentage point from the May 1993 rate of 6.9 percent.

The number of employed workers in Idaho increased from May 1993 by 4,200 to 488,300 in June 1993. The number of unemployed workers in Idaho decreased by 2,700 to 33,400 in June 1993.

All industries in Idaho experienced growth in employment during June. The warm, dry weather facilitated all outdoor work. Employment continued to grow in construction, lumber, lawn and garden centers, agriculture, food processing, real estate, and temporary employment agencies. The tourist-related activities were beginning the summer season in great style with increased employment levels. The number employed is above the year-ago level and the outlook is for continued growth.
