Hill and Valley Garden Club will Meet Nov. 29

Hill and Valley Garden Club meets Wednesday, Nov. 29 this month rather than the 4th Wednesday because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

The program will be on the Nature Conservancy, an organization that is carrying out the preservation of endangered ecosystems through private contributions and assistance of the expertise of Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management. Idaho has 12 such areas including Thousand Springs near Hagerman and Garden Creek Reserve on Craig Mountain.

At this November meeting the club will also be preparing for the Christmas workshops. This includes covering the floors and getting out materials for wreath making. The Christmas sale will be December 7 at the Grange Hall with the ladies of the Grange serving the lunch as usual. The ladies promise a new item on the menu this year.

Recycling Program Off to Good Start

Kendrick and Juliaetta's curb-side recycling program is off to a good start with 44 homes in Kendrick using the service last Thursday, reported Kendrick city clerk Lynne Bruce. Hog Wild Recycling will be in the two towns picking up recyclable plastics and payers each Thursday morning. The company distributed large green plastic collection boxes last week. The company said collections next week will be made on Saturday, Nov. 25, because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Both towns have urged participation in the program because it reduces the amount of garbage that must be collected by Latah Sanitation and for which the city is billed $65 per ton.

Hog Wild Recycling returns half of the money it receives from the sale of recyclables to the town it collects them from.

Residents are not charged for this local service.

He suffered second and third degree burns on both legs and his left hand and has been receiving care in St. Joseph Regional Medical Center. Skin grafts have been performed and he hopes to be home by Thanksgiving.

He is recovering well and has appreciated all the calls, cards and visits which have encouraged and brightened his recovery time.

Laughter is a tranquilizer with no side effects.

Fleming Truck & Equip. Joins with 'Toys for Tots' Project for Christmas

Wayne Harris, owner and manager of Fleming Truck & Equipment Co. in Kendrick has joined the Marine Corps—well, Okay, he hasn't exactly joined the Marines—but he and his business have joined the Marines to help collect "Toys for Tots" this Christmas season. Fleming's is a locally owned Parts Plus autostore which has teamed up with the Marine Corps Reserve to collect toys for children. The Marine "Toys for Tots" program is almost 50 years old and has supplied many a merry Christmas to needy children. Over 1,000 Parts Plus autostores in 30 states will collect toys from November 1 to December 10. Each store will display posters, handbills, easels, and a collection box to make collection efforts as smooth as possible for everyone involved and insure that the Marines meet their goal of collecting over 8 million toys.

Monetary donations can be mailed to the Marine Toys for Tots foundation:

Marine Toys for Tots Foundation,
P. O. Box 1947
Quantico, Virginia 22134

While the stores will accept cash donations, it will make it easier on all involved—and speed up the process—if consumers make monetary donations directly to the foundation.

Parts Plus, of which Fleming's is a member, is an association of warehouse distributors of auto parts. The warehouse distributors supply marketing and merchandise program, as well as merchandise to the locally owned Parts Plus autostores. Parts, Incorporated, the largest and founding member of the association, began working with the Marines in September. This may be the largest example of independent auto parts stores joining together behind this worthy cause. The possibility of making a child smile excites everyone in these organizations.

Heavy October Rains Sent Charlie Bower Checking Old Weather Records

The heavy rainfall in October made Bear Ridge resident Charlie Bower wonder just how 1995 compared to other Octobers in the past. Looking back in his record book which gives the rainfall on Big Bear Ridge since 1900 have been 1940 with 4.51 inches; 1991 with 4.22 inches and 1995 with 4.4 inches reported by Frank Dammarell for this year. Incidentally, Charles measured the rainfall at his place last month as a whopping 5.6 inches!

The record for October since 1900 (as far back as the figures go), was set in 1911 with 10.98.

Thanks for sharing the information, Charlie!

Local Mealsite Commended For Its Friendly Attitude

Kendrick's senior mealsite has been commended as one of the friendliest operations, according to Pearl Brouhard, regional director.

All those participating have appreciated the gold mums and autumn table decorations the past few weeks. Margorie Cobb substituted for LenaBelle Morgan at the piano on November 1, as each session opens with piano solos.

David Bellemere of Lewiston explained the variety of services available to assist seniors and help them to continue independent living lifestyles. The Idaho Commission for the Blind and visually impaired is located at Lewiston, and welcomes calls from those needing more information, he reminded the group.

Volunteers and cook-manager Louise Pea received applause for the delicious meals they continue to serve. Mildred Johnson's lucky number was drawn by secretary Viola Johns.

New Members Join Lions Club

Two new members were inducted into the Kendrick Lions Club at the November 8 meeting at the Kendrick Firehall. Alan Chillberg and James Brocke received membership pins from sponsors Becky Britton and Darrel Brocke, while President Dennis Lukecart presented "welcome packets."

Wally Butler was program chairman for the evening and showed explicit slides of the work accomplished at the Hatwai reclamation project.

Names of the original charter members of Kendrick Lions Club were read and a review of that festive evening in 1953 was presented by Richard Benjamin. Wayne Harris and Don Chrystal reminded the Club of the many accomplishments of the local Lions Club as they spoke of their memories of membership. Lion President Dennis Lukecart displayed one of the original charter programs.

Next meeting will be December 13.

Leaf Dumpster Available in Kendrick for 2 Weeks

A leaf dumpster is available for use by Kendrick residents, reports city maintenance man Steve Howerton. The dumpster has been placed east of city hall on Railroad Street.

The dumpster will be available for two weeks only, so please take advantage of the service.

Local Girl Scouts Need Used Postage Stamps

The Girl Scouts of Service Unit No. 602 (the Juliaetta-Kendrick area), are collecting used postage stamps again this year. Last year our area collected more than any other area in our council, thanks to the support from our community.

They will continue to collect them until mid-January. Please save the postage stamps from letters, bills, etc. Please leave at least a quarter inch of envelope around the stamp if possible. The stamps may be given to any member of Brownie Troop 370, Junior Troop 379, or Cadette Troop 362. If more convenient, they may be left in the boxes at the Juliaetta Post Office, the Kendrick Senior Center, or the Potlatch Telephone Co., or call Cynthia Nye at 276-3121.

The used stamps will be sent to the Council office in Spokane. Then they will go to Our Cabana, the International Girl Scout Center in Mexico, where they will be prepared and sold to raise money for traveling to Girl Scout activities around the world. Girls from our council have traveled to Japan. This summer another group traveled to England, Germany and Switzerland.

This is a good opportunity to help girls, at no cost to yourself, by recycling something that otherwise would be thrown out.

Saturday Arlie and Priscilla Armitage attended the reception at the First Church of the Nazarene in Lewiston honoring Rollin Armitage on his 80th birthday. They gathered with family at Rona and Duane Meske's for a potluck dinner and family visiting following the reception.

Sunday the Armitages joined friends at a farewell potluck dinner for Helen and Walt Zelinsky at the Cameron Lutheran Church.

Later Sunday afternoon Priscilla and Arlie enjoyed cake and ice cream at the home of Nancy Van Houten in Genesee to celebrate the early birthday of Bob Callison. Bob and Judy were dinner guests of the Van Houtens. Jack and Molly Benscoter of Pullman joined the group and all attended the evening worship at the Genesee Community Church. Priscilla shared some of her Christian poetry that she has written. It was a good family time.

About an inch of snow Tuesday evening had rained off by Wednesday morning, adding to the run-off into area creeks. Heavy rains have made the bright leaves fall, but real autumn color can still be seen as the Tamarack trees dot the evergreen ridges with gold. Tuesday's sun made many consider a photo safari.

Ethel Smith arrived home Thursday from a few days in Lewiston helping daughter and son-in-law Kay and Doug Stout and Nathan get settled in with new baby Nicholas.

Wednesday evening Clinton Smith had supper with Jerry and Jody Smith. Thursday Jerry and Jody met their daughter Barbara Kinzer from Pullman, at Charlie Bower's on Bear Ridge, to help load her newest prize possession, an antique buggy. The buggy was the transportation Charlie's parents had used up until they bought a Model T Ford car, and Barbara and her folks were honored when Charlie decided she should be the one to take care of this family heirloom.

The Jerry Smiths continued on to Moscow on business and stopped in at Gritman Hospital for a brief visit with George Hatley who had had an accident with his pickup near Potlatch. Friday the Smiths were in Lewiston on business and enjoyed supper with her mother Betty Stone. On their return they visited Duane and Cindy Brown, Angela and Cory in Deary.

Saturday Clinton and Ethel Smith and Jerry Smith enjoyed renewing acquaintances at Rollin Armitage's 80th birthday celebration in Lewiston. That evening Jody joined the group to attend Zimmerman's 50th wedding anniversary dance. Sunday evening saw Jerry and Jody at the harvest dinner at the Deary Community Church.

Vickie Enger came from Lewiston to visit her parents, Karl and Wanda Enger on Wednesday. Thursday morning Wanda made a business trip to Lewiston, calling on Ruthie Wilson on Bear Ridge on her return and calling briefly on Jake Should You be Taking Antibiotics?

Antibiotics have earned their reputations as miracle drugs. Before penicillin was introduced in the 1940s, bacterial infections that are commonly cured today—pneumonia, strep throat and gonorrhea, to name just a few—could be crippling and even fatal. Hundreds of antibiotics have been developed in the last half century.

But in recent months, newspapers and magazines have been filled with headlines crying that the overuse of antibiotics is creating "superbugs"—strains of disease that resist standard drug treatments.

What's a good medical consumer to do? If you get sick, should you avoid these miracle drugs? Aren't antibiotics suppose to be life savers? "They are life savers," says Dr. Marilyn Roberts, professor of pathology at the University of Washington's School of Public Health and Community Medicine. For example, Roberts says, before antibiotics were available, a highly contagious bacterial infection like strep throat could lead to a deadly case of scarlet fever. "Now kids are back in school the next day. With antibiotics, they are non-infectious in 24 hours."

Over the years, however, antibiotics glowing reputation has led to their overuse. Doctors have sometimes prescribed them to treat infections that aren't even caused by bacteria—colds and flus, for instance, which are viral infections.

This overuse has come at a cost. While antibiotics kill most bacteria, some microorganism have acquired traits that allow them to resist treatment. The genes for resistance are easily passed from one bacterium to another. Roberts' research, for instance, has demonstrated that normal oral bacteria can pass resistance genes onto other bacteria. As infection-causing bacteria acquire resistance traits and reproduce, antibiotics used to fight them become less effective.

"Until recently, if one drug became useless, there was always another we could turn to," says Roberts. "The problem is, the endless supply of new drugs has essentially stopped. There are very few new classes of antibiotics being developed. As a consequence, we have some diseases now for which no treatment is 100 percent effective."

Increasingly, doctors are encountering infectious diseases that can't be cured. For example, there are strains of multidrug resistant tuberculosis that are now virtually untreatable, Roberts says. Other infections are coming perilously close to invulnerability. "With multidrug resistant Staphylococcus aureus we're left with one drug, vancomycin," she says. "If that goes, we have nothing left. If nothing is done, we'll end up with more diseases that are not treatable."

The federal Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recently created guidelines for hospitals to follow in the use of antibiotics. Roberts offers medical consumers the following advice:

- Don't ask your physician for antibiotics.
- If your doctor gives you a prescription for antibiotics, ask why.
- Don't stop taking prescribed antibiotics until you've completed the regimen, even if you feel better. Not only do you risk relapse, but failing to finish a prescription could allow the resistant bacteria to survive and then reproduce.

• If you have an artificial implant in your body, be sure your dentist knows. A simple teeth cleaning can release bacteria from your mouth into your body; the microorganisms can lodge on the implant and cause infection.

Antibiotics are a double-edged sword," Roberts observes. Although they spare lives once lost to bacterial infection, she says, we must overcome the more-is-better mentality that has guided our use of the drugs. "There has to be rational use of antibiotics. It's the abuse part we're trying to reduce."
