Aware of this history in the most general terms, the Grange was startled to have a member recall the advice of one-time Juliaetta mayor Harold Freeman who had stressed the importance of keeping the railroad in operation, if for no other reason than that it would continue to maintain the dike along the Potlatch. What other entity had both the long term vested interest and from floods for the towns of Kendrick and Juliaetta and the inhabitants in the rural areas adjoining the Potlatch?

What were the facts concernthe city governments of Kendrick and Juliaetta aware of the threatening condition of the dike? And if ing about it?

Grange Master Bob Hassoldt proposed taking the matter up with the The Juliaetta Elementary School cities. He also proposed that the issue be one addressed by the candi-County. Hassoldt is scheduling a candidates night for 7:00 p. m., on Monday evening, Oct. 28. It appears that there is a need to explore the issue of public safety along the full length of the Potlatch River Valley.

Since last week's meeting, this Saturday, Oct. 12 Grange reporter has learned that the railroaod was sold to Watco, out of Kensas, a business specializing in short line railroads. #### Cathy Rouyer F O RCOUNTY COMMISSIONER

As a candidate for Latah County Commissioner I have been asked, "What are we going to do about all the growth we see happening here?"

I believe that what we shoul do with growth is, "Rope it, tie it and make it work for us . . . the residents of Latah County." We have to take control of growth and not just let it happen. Some growth is for the good but some growth like increased crime and over development will destoy our way of life.

If you elect me county commissioner I will look out for all of the residents of Latah County and for our quality of life.

Pd for by the Committee to Elect Cathy Rouyer for County Commissioner, Scott Dockins, Treas.
