Mystery Dinner Theater Free Child Care Service Well Attended. Much Enjoyed

The second annual Myster Dinner Theater, sponsored and produced by the Kendrick-Juliaetta Arts Conmittee, played to a full house last Saturday night at the Kendrick Senior Center. In addition to revealing how local businessman Harry Sharronson, planned to spend his recent ly acquired lottery winnings, various other mysteries were unveiled. The wild, mysterious female gatecrasher was revealed to be Mr. Sharronson's first wife, Ivana Duja. Although Sharronson could not recall their brief marriage, Ivana refresh ed his memory not only on that but also introduced their love-child, gangster Harry, Jr.

Throughout the evening, various people besides Ivana and Harry, Jr. laid claim to Sharronson's newly acquired wealth. Those claimants included Internal Revenue Agent Mr. Magnavox, for Harry's back taxes, and K-I Arts Committee Bresident and K-J Arts Committee President Ellen Magnuson for the bulk of Harry's winnings, which he had promised to the Arts Committee. However, before the actual giveaway could occur, Sharronson fell victim At Library Exhibit could occur, Sharronson fell victim to a murder plot. That in turn led to the most startling revelation: Ellen Magnuson, respected arts committee president, was the killer. The evening's enjoyable entertainment was performed by the following: Harry Sharronson, as played by Sharon Harris; Carol Sharronson, Harry's wife, was played by Jael Carroll; Harriet Sharronson, Harry's computer nerd daughter, was playby Rhonda Berg; Ivana Duja, Harry's first wife, was played by Kari Galloway; Harry Duja-Sharronson, Jr., played by Robert Magnuson; Ellen Magnuson, who played a deadlier verson of herself. Ken Gallant of Viola as lawyer/detective; and Dana Magnuson, who played Mr. Magnvox, IRS agent. The entertainment was greatly enhanced by organ music, strategically interposed throughout the performance by Lucille Magnuson.

Following Harry Sharronson's murder, the audience was invited to write down the person each though was the murderer. Two winners were drawn by the recently deceased Sharron from those guessing correctly. Bruce Hicks, Weippe, won 1996-97 Hartung Theater Season plays at the University of Idaho. Bill Reid, Juliaetta, won second prize, a therapeutic massage from local masseuse Carol Bradford.

Continue Recycling Program

At its last council meeting, the City of Juliaetta decided NOT to continue with a recycling program at this time. Because of the low ris reminds postal customers to keep participation in the last program the city decided it wouldn't be cost effective to continue.

For those who would like to continue to re-cycle, the bulky waste site is available for this. It is located at the bottom of 3rd St. by the Lewiston Grain Growers. Any questions? Contact city hall at 276-7791.

A THANK YOU AT THANKSGIVING!

This Thanksgiving one of the blessings we at Phil's Family Foods are most grateful for is patience and understanding of our customers and friends who have endured a long, difficult summer while the Main St. was being reconstructed. You have endured the dirt and the dust, torn up sidewalks, trying to find a parking place and sometimes even a way to get into the store. But through it all you stayed with us with good humor and understanding. It is difficult to find the right words to express our most sincere gratitude.

We wish you good health, much happiness and a very satisfying holiday season for your family. You truly have given our family a precious Thanksgiving blessing—your friendship and support. We will never forget it. Thank you.
