What Did You Say? Treat Your Voice Right To Minimize Hoarseness

A clear, strong voice is important not only for singers, actors and politicians but for teachers, secretaries, salespersons and many others who rely every day on verbal communication. So when sickness, overuse or other causes make your voice come out in raspy, gravelly tones, it's important to know what you can do to sound like yourself again.

"Hoarseness is very common in most people, but the frequency and duration of it can be influenced by a variety of factors," says Dr. Allen Hillel, associate professor of otolaryngology/head and neck surgery at the University of Washington Medical Center.

Most abnormal voice changes are related to problems with the vocal folds, a part of the voice box responsible for producing sound. When a person speaks, the vocal folds come together and vibrate. When the folds develop swelling or bumps (called nodules) it keeps them from joining LaDau of Moscow. Stacy was lucky enough to bag a 4-point buck deer.

Clinton and Ethel Smith entertained her brother and sister-in-law Jerry and Jody Smith for supper Monday. Sunday afternoon Jerry and Jody went to Juliaetta on business and stopped to visit Bud Holt on the return trip. Bud has been taking it easy since he fell on the ice last week.

together as they should, causing the voice to sound abnormal.

In most cases, people develop hoarseness from laryngitis, due to swelling of the vocal folds from a common cold, respiratory infection or isolated instances of yelling or talking.

The best way to recover from laryngitis is to stop using the voice so swelling can subside. Yet, since most people don't follow such advice, Hillel says there are other things you can do to limit recovery time.

"Don't whisper or clear your throat if you have laryngitis—it will just make it worse," he says. "Though many people think whispering is the right thing to do, it actually puts more stress on the vocal cords."

Instead of whispering, Hillel recommends that people speak in a normal voice at a lower volume and not try to compete with other people ground noises, such as other people talking. People who place great strain on their voices, such as singing or lecturing, and should drink a lot of water to keep the body hydrated. It should be sure to have periods of hoarseness is related to a cold, be rest to cut down on the likelihood of cold medications which that hoarseness or vocal cord fitting can dry the throat.

A very special Thank You as we enter the holiday season--

Two years ago, because of the strong customer support of this community, we at Phil's Family Foods made the decision to put our money and efforts into making your small town super market one of the finest around. During the re-modeling our customers had to shop around plumbers, electricians, carpenters, and cement finishers. We were grateful our customers endured this with patience and good grace. After the completion of our project, we were selected as one of the top one hundred independent groceries in the United States by Progressive Grocers magazine. We were just becoming comfortable with our added space, more selection for our customers and fine new bakerydeli, then the Main Street Project began—another inconvenience for our customers—having to wait for flaggers, parking on back streets and maneuvering over torn up sidewalks and streets as these were removed and replaced. These were trying times for both we and our customers.

A few days ago we received a gift and a card from a young family that made all of us at Phil's realize what a special community we live in. We would like to share this card with you.

Dear Phil, Donna and all the staffs

We have moved several times to small communities. I just want to let you know how nice it is to have all of you to make life easier. You are all so friendly and helpful with everything.

The store has such a wide variety I don't have to go elsewhere. Makes it very convenient for those of us with busy lives.

You did a wonderful job on my daughter's birthday cake, all the rolls I ordered for special dinners and everything else I have ordered from you.

There is special caring here. Carrying groceries to the car is a lost art at most places. Saying "Hi" everytime and asking "how you are" is a lost art.

The time I didn't have time to make the cupcakes for Brittani's Halloween party, you made what you had special with little spiders, etc.

Jack said they went over well at the party and Brittani agreed.

That is called going the extra mile and really caring!
You didn't have to add the decorations for the kids, but you did.

Everyone in the store is special!

You should all be proud.

I just wanted you to know you are appreciated by us.

It also takes special people like Phil and Donna to start it and keep all the special people there.

Thanks again!

Love,

Jack, Lori and Brittani
