

Letter from George Jones brings Both good and bad news

A letter from a former Kendrick couple, George and Maxine Jones of Kennewick, Wash., brings both good and bad news. The unfortunate news is that George's brother, Donald, who has been in failing health for some time, was diagnosed earlier this month as having inoperable malignant tumors in the brain, lungs, liver and adrenal glands. It is a very fast growing type and he decided not to go through chemotherapy, but to let nature take its course. On Feb. 10 the family moved him into the new Tri-Cities Hospice House at 2103 W. Entiat, Kennewick, WA 99335. George said it was a beautiful facility. He added that Don would enjoy hearing from his old friends.

On the happier side, George enclosed a clipping from the Tri-City

Herald, a Kennewick newspaper that honored and featured a story on the Jones and their many years of service to the community.

Both George and Maxine were raised in the Kendrick area. George's father was E. H. Jones, who farmed on Bear Ridge for many years. Maxine's parents were Wade and Eva Keene. Wade was the manager of Lewiston Grain Growers elevator in Kendrick for many years.

The Jones both attended grade school and high school together, graduating in 1934. They married in 1939, and in 1940, they borrowed $10,000 from Maxine's father and bought a drug store in Uniontown, Wash. "We paid back every cent," Maxine said proudly.

By 1947, the couple had heard about the Tri-Cities being "the promised land" of growth with Hartford in the post-war years.

They sold their drug store and settled in Kennewick with their two young daughters, George-Anne and Penny.

Once in Kennewick, George and Maxine built a new 1,700 frozen food locker facility, complete with three apartments above the business where the family made a home.

The couple's shop also had a small grocery run independently by someone else, while they maintained their lockers and built a thriving meat business.

In 1948 a flood in Kennewick put the Jones into the fresh-cut meat business and the business was the mainstay of the family for 25 years.

George and Maxine, both 80, retired in 1975. Though retired for more than 20 years, the couple remain active in the community through volunteer work.

Jones, honored as Kennewick Man of the Year in 1978 for his contributions to the community, continues to be active in the Columbia Basin Shrine Club and its programs to help children get medical services. He has been a Port of Kennewick commissioner for 12 years, is on the Tri-City Cancer Center Foundation board, and has 29 years perfect attendance in the Kennewick Kiwanis. These are just a few of his volunteer projects and activities.

He told the newspaper that "This community has been so darn good to me, I decided to give back by being a volunteer."

Incidentally, it must be noted that the Jones haven't forgotten their "old home town." They have missed few of Kendrick's Locust Blossom Festivals. That motor home usually parked by the bank on festival weekend, belongs to George and Maxine. We hope it's there this May, too.

Urban Forestry Meeting In Kendrick March 3

Urban Forestry will be the topic of a public meeting Monday, March 3, at 7 p. m. in the Kendrick Grange Hall.

The community, with its valuable and historic trees, needs to care for this resource by using proper procedures in their grooming and nutrition, and to discuss future replacements and additions.

The Department of Lands Urban Forestry program is available to help the city in the preservation and care of the trees in the community.

Mary Nedoma of the Department of Lands in Orofino will be the guest speaker.

Anyone interested in the care and future of the city's trees is welcome. Public support is needed.

A SPECIAL HEART-FELT THANK YOU

I want to sincerely thank Bob Curry for his generosity, kindness, understanding, for his laughter, sense of humor and patience. I want to thank Lori Curry for her never ending devotion to a friendship, for her ability to look beyond selfishness and for her gracious acknowledgement of our accomplishments.

With sincere thank to both of you for all you have done.

Lizzie

CONGRATULATIONS TO WENDY

Kampers to Meet Feb. 24

The Kendrick Campers Klub will have its monthly meeting Monday, February 24th at the Kendrick Senior Center. The potluck will begin at 8 p. m.

The membership is encouraged to attend as the campout sites for the summer will be discussed. Card bingo will follow.

Parents, Teachers Working Together Is Vital for the Students

The national organization, Parent-Teachers Association is celebrating 50 years of working with public schools this year.

While there is no P. T. A. in the local school system, there is a Parent-Teacher organization which is entirely local.

All parents are welcome and encouraged to become involved with the education of their child. The Juliaetta Elementary School is grateful for all the hard workers and commitment that the community has given in the past and look forward to continued support and encouragement.

Martha—A Dear Friend

By Rosalie Blankenship

George and Martha Wilken and family lived about one-quarter of a mile up the hill from where my parents, Gus and Martha Kruger lived (all about a mile west of Cameron). Their eldest child, Kenneth, and I were near the same age, and we both had two younger sisters who often played together. When I was about thirteen, Martha asked my mother if I could help her out during some very busy times in the summer, (at about 50c per day), a fair wage in those days.

Martha was, and still is, a sweet, gentle person, and it was pleasant working for her. (We sometimes learn more from someone else than from our own mothers.) We pay attention.

We picked and canned corn, washed the cream separator, churned butter, cooked and baked, did laundry in the gas powered washer, ironed clothes with a gas iron, (remember, we as yet had no electricity), and put three meals on the tables. Martha was never pushy, and she had a sense of humor. She often complained of being so tired, (doubtless caused by her heart condition). I would arrive at 8 in the morning and we seldom finished up the supper dishes before 9 at night. This was the worst part of my whole day—walking home after dark. My feet fairly flew down the road.

After I had been there awhile she said, "You have been such good help that from now on I'll pay you 75c a day." I felt rich, and poured over the old Sears-Roebuck catalog. One could order dresses for 98c, anklets for 19c, shoes—$1.49—a coat for $6.98, dress fabric—19c per yard, etc.

One day we decided to wallpaper a closet. Try matching blue flowers in a slant-ceiling, crooked closet! But we were quite proud of our finished project—and laughed about it many times later on.

One time when the 24-party telephone was down, my dad and George needed to discuss some farm business. In the quiet summer evening they hollered to each other from their own yards—and got the problem solved.

The Wilkens frequently attended the Saturday night movie at the Schupfer Theatre in Kendrick. I was sometimes invited to go along. Those were good, clean, family-oriented movies. George tried to keep a hired girl for Martha during the busiest season. Some were good workers, and some were almost more of a nuisance.

I enjoyed Martha's company, and would frequently run up the hill to pay her a visit. She always had time to listen to someone else's problems. When at 16, I had a goiter operation, my recovery was difficult and slow. (She had gone through this some surgery early in her marriage) and she bolstered my morale a lot by assuring me I would get well soon—of course she was right. Martha did not believe in shortcuts. She was a very particular, neat housekeeper. Her floors shone!

How wonderful that she has reached 100 years of age with a clear mind and fairly good health.

I wish for her more years of happy, healthy living.

V. F. W. Card Party Saturday, Feb. 22

The V. F. W. will host another card party at the Hall on School House Hill Saturday evening, Feb. 22, beginning at 7 o'clock. The cost is $2 per person. Prizes will be awarded and snacks are provided.

Auxiliary ladies are reminded to bring finger foods.

EMT Sausage Feed Will be Way to Break the Winter Blues

Are the winter blues beginning to get you down? Is cabin fever starting to set in? How would you like to have an evening out for you and your family that is close to home, guarantees fun for all, and supports our local EMT unit?

Coming Saturday, March 15, the Juliaetta-Kendrick EMT unit will once again be hosting its delicious sausage dinner, carnival and auction. The money taken in on this evening of entertainment will be used to maintain this community's ambulance service for the entire area.

To make this evening a success depends on each and everyone of us lending a helping hand. You can do this by helping serve in the kitchen, waiting on tables, donating pies for the dinner, or donating items for the auction. If you have any desire in wanting to help, please call Shary Silflow at 289-3931 and let her know what you can do.

City Seeking Instructors, Guards for Swim Pool

The City of Kendrick is seeking certified water safety instructors and life guards as well as aerobic and other water-related activity leaders or instructors for the Kendrick War Memorial Swimming Pool this summer, council members Lillian Howerton said this week.

Pool activities will be scheduled with the 1997 Summer Recreation Program and the city needs to have a staff put together by March for advertising and scheduling.

Kendrick wages for the various positions are competitive with the surrounding recreation programs. Meeting the cost of qualification requirements are negotiable.

Classes for qualification requirements will be available at the U of I early this spring and in Lewiston before the swim season begins.

Anyone interested in being a part of the swim program should contact Kendrick City Hall, Phone 208-289-5157. P. O. Box 195, Kendrick, ID 83537 or Lillian Howerton, Phone 208 276-3401 (office), or 208 289-4567 (home).

Nezperce Drops Tigers In First Round of District Hoop Play

The Nez Perce Indians rallied in the second half Monday night and defeated Kendrick 56-46 in the opening round of the District II Class A-4 basketball tournament Monday night in Lewiston.

Monday game and ran up a 12-5 Monday game and ran up a 12-5 lead in the first quarter and built it up to 28-20 at the half. Nez Perce rallied to outscore Kendrick 36-18 in the second half, the key being a six-point play by Baune that tied the game at 35-35 with 2:15 left in the third quarter.

Nezperce trailed 35-29 when Baune nailed a 3-pointer. While the shot was in the air, Kendrick's Tony Howerton was called for a pushing foul, which gave the Indians the ball as well as the 3-pointer. Baune then hit another 3-pointer to tie the game.

Kendrick scoring:
Nick Silflow 4 0-0 9, Cam Wallace 3 0-2 6, Tim Fischer 5 1-2 12, Tony Howerton 2 1-2 6, Tony Cappa 0 0-0 0, Matt Teft 1 1-2 3, Richie Hitchcock 3 0-1 9, Bryan Carter 1 0-0 2, Alfonso Sahagun 0 0-0 0, Josh Fletcher 0 0-0 0.

Kendrick 12 16 9 9-46
Nezperce 5 15 17 19-50

Optional forms of County Government Meeting at Courthouse February 24

The Latah County Optional Forms of County Government Commission will hold a public meeting Monday, February 24 at 7:00 p. m. in room 2B in the basement of the Latah County Courthouse in Moscow. The Study Commission was appointed in June of 1996 by the Latah County Commissioners to analyze the current structure of county government and make recommendations to the Commissioners for changes as provided by state statute. The legislation which outlines the available options was brought about by a constitutional amendment passed by Idaho voters in 1994.

From statehood in 1890 to the present day, county government in Idaho has been composed of nine elected officials... three Commissioners, Clerk, Treasurer, Assessor, Sheriff, Prosecutor, and Coroner. The optional forms statute permits the presentation of many options, including changing all or some of the elected officers (except the Commissioners) to appointed (hired) positions; combining two or more offices in one position; hiring a County Manager or electing a County Executive; and/or increasing the size of the County Commission to five or seven Commissioners. Any recommendations of the Study Commission would be presented to the County Commissioners who would then determine whether to accept or amend it for placement on the ballot at the next general election or reject it altogether.

The current Study Commission is composed of former speaker of the Idaho House of Representatives Tom Boyd, who serves as chair; Moscow Chamber of Commerce President Jerry Schultz, Vice-Chair; former Latah County Clerk Ellen Johnston, Secretary; former Latah County Commissioners Jay Nelson, Gary Morris, and Dana Magnuson; long-time Moscow physician, Dr. Donald "Doc" Adams; University of Idaho Law professor Kenneth Gallant; former Latah County Deputy Sheriff Tom Idol; and Elizabeth Dahle, Moscow, alternate and recording secretary. Their charge is to present a set of options to the Latah County Commissioners by June of this year.

If the County Commissioners decide to proceed with these options, the choices would be placed on the general ballot in November of 1998 for action by the electorate.

Whatever the outcome of the Study Commission's efforts, the most important element of any ballot issue will be level of interest of the general public in studying the issue, considering the options, and participating in the discussion both before and after the recommendations are presented to the County Commissioners.

The public is urged to familiarize themselves with the current form of county government, its strengths and its weaknesses, and with the optional forms made available by the Idaho legislature in order to make an informed decision and vote it and when the issue reaches the ballot. A good place to start would be by attending the public meeting at the Latah County Courthouse on Monday, February 24.

Lois Johnston, 81, Lenore, Passes Feb. 9

Lois K. Johnston, 81, a longtime Lenore area farmer, died Sunday, Feb. 9 at the Lewiston Rehabilitation and Care Center of complications of a stroke.

She was the daughter of Clarence and Frances Vaughn Fry, born Dec. 26, 1915, at Gold Hill, east of Kendrick.

She attended grade school there and high school at Kendrick.

Following high school, she attended Lewiston Normal School for a year.

She married Don Johnston Nov. 1, 1935, at Moscow.

The couple farmed in the Lenore and Agatha area.

She also was a substitute rural mail carrier for the Lenore area for many years.

She was a member of the Stony Point Friendship Club and the Willing Workers Club of Lenore.

She was known in the community for her cooking and for helping with anything that was asked of her.

She enjoyed sewing, playing cards, and spending time with her family, especially her grandchildren. She was an avid gardener and liked flowers.

She is survived by her husband at the couple's Lenore home a son, Kenneth Johnston of Orofino; a daughter, Rhoda Fry of Winchester; a brother, Don Fry of Juliaetta, two sisters, Nellie Millard and Jean Wegner, both of Kendrick; one granddaughter; and two great-grandchildren.

Four brothers and one sister preceded her in death.

Cremation has taken place and a memorial service will be held at a later date at Lenore Community Center.

Malcom's Brower-Wann Funeral Home at Lewiston was in charge of arrangements.

Local Arts Committee Receives State Grant

The Kendrick-Julietta Arts Committee has recently been selected to receive the Arts in Rural Towns (A. R. T. s) grant. The local committee was the only organization in Idaho which received that grant in 1996 from the Idaho Commission on the Arts (ICA).

The ICA selects a maximum of three organizations yearly to receive the ARTs grant. Those organizations must meet fairly extensive criteria to be considered for a grant. They must have a qualified 501(c)(3) organization to administer the funds. In addition, there must be available volunteers, board members, and potential staff willing to devote the needed time and money to the program and there must also be evidence of public interest and acceptable facilities available for the events.

Those criteria, given as examples, must first be met for an organization to be considered for a grant. In addition, the community must have a population of less than 5,000 and its arts organization must apply for that grant. The three-year grant then provides fee support based on informal applications made by the funded organization throughout the year. However, each event funded must be approved by the ICA Community Development director.

The three-year funding is allocated as follows: 1st year—up to $1,500, 2nd year—up to $1,200, and 3rd year—up to $1,000. While the first year receives 100% funding for those events, in the following years the funding is progressively shifted toward matching funds by the local arts organization.

Complaints of Dogs Running at Large Brings Reminder from City

The City of Kendrick is receiving numerous complaints about dogs running at large inside city limits.

Pet owners are reminded that the city does have a leash law and dogs need to be tied up or in a kennel.

Dogs that are picked up by the city will be taken to the Troy Vet Clinic. To reclaim your animal, you will be charged a boarding fee plus additional charges.

When you are planning a house, make the angle of the roof noticeably more or noticeably less than a right angle, otherwise, the appearance is unattractive.

Local News Of Juliaetta

Recent visitors of Adaline Jassman have been Shawni Stewart and daughter Kimberley of Orofino, Dixie Porter and Edna Magee of Lewiston, Margaret Craig of Moscow, Ray Heimgartner, and Ron and Sonja Lohman.

Juanita Craig accompanied Marge and Elmo Eldridge to Moscow on Sunday. They called on Merrill and Ruby Horney. They also were among those attending the birthday celebration for Martha Wilken. Maxine Fry was a Sunday evening visitor. Juanita called on Mildred Johnson Monday morning.

Alice and Greg Broemeling spent the weekend at Alaaca Bible Camp near Harpster at the Couples Retreat with members of their family. Those also attending included Kim and Steve Roth of Missoula, Mont., Karla and Dan Lambert, Kari and Lance St. Onge of Lapwai, and Alice's nephew and wife, Ron and Kelly Bruce of Stevensville, Mont. It was a rich family time and many new friends were made.

Buddy and Alice Henson, Chelsie and Bryce attended the wedding of Jim Woods and Wendy Allen at the First Methodist Church in Lewiston Saturday.

Milton and Marie Grant went to Lewiston on Thursday on business. They had lunch out. Sunday evening they attended the service at the Assembly of God church where Morris Conhill, a Missionary to Portugal spoke. A fellowship hour followed.

Jack and Sandy Mabbott of Medical Lake, Wash visited with Millie Stockard and Dick Mabbott on Saturday. They were overnight guests with Millie. On Sunday they all went to Lewiston and had lunch out, a treat from Sandy and Jack.

Maxine Fry spent three days last week in Lewiston on business and visiting with her sister and other relatives. Sunday Boyd and Norma Harrison of Clarkston stopped by on their way home from the Fry Cabin to share time and have a pizza with Maxine.

Marilyn and Verlin Benjamin went to McCall Saturday where they joined Lori and Duane Bogar and sons Kristopher and Kyle for the weekend. They had a fun family outing and returned home Tuesday.

Recent visitors of Viola Johns have been Esther Nye and Maxine Fry. A number of friends have popped in to say hello to Viola and wish her well as she recovers from her surgery. Those visits brighten her days.

A belated Happy Birthday to Ron Jones.

Ron and Kathy Jones attended their church's Valentine dinner Friday night in Clarkston.

Weekend visitors at the Jones home included Joan, Kathy's sister, and her husband Kris Townsend, Amanda and Jonathan of Vancouver, Wash., Heidi, J. C., Autrey and Cole of Cottonwood, Mary and Austin Straw of Spokane, Justin and Kristen and son Jordan of Spokane and Kathy's parents, Leroy and Norma Sorenson of Lewiston.

Sunday afternoon there was a family dinner at Kathy's parents home. The dinner was hosted by Karen Evans of Lewiston. Kathy's brother Jim and wife Jamie of Lewiston also attended.

Last week Ron and Kathy had dinner at Betty and Ben Chisholm's to celebrate Ron's birthday.

Weekend guests at Maycelle Emmett's included Angie Draun and sons Chase and Blake, granddaughter Wendy Erman, and Norma and Richard Abrams.

Ruth Slind went to Lewiston on Tuesday to celebrate Missy's birthday. Pastor John Blom was a Friday dinner guest. Ruth was pleased to attend the birthday party for her friend Martha Wilken in Moscow on Sunday.

Park News

Partial sunshine and warmer temperatures have loosened winter's grip on Park. Run-off water from the melting snowbanks was across the road in a couple of places but so far nothing like the magnitude we saw last year.

Clinton Smith was a Lewiston business visitor Monday.

Jim Smith, Sarah, Kristen and Scott traveled from their Hayden Lake home to spend Saturday afternoon with parents, Jerry and Jody Smith. Jerry and Jody and Clinton and Ethel had plans to go to Lewiston that evening for a family pinhole party, so the young people joined them. Twenty-three people gathered at Aunti Paulina White's home with the resulting winners: Nancy Blasko, ladies' high and Ennis Smith, low; Scott Smith men's high, and

The Seeds of Happy Marriage are Planted During Childhood

By Jill Fay
of Cline/Fay Institute, Golden, Colo.

There I was, doing one of my favorite things—hanging out in the supermarket watching kids and their parents. I get some of my best stories when I observe kids "putting their moves" on parents who are at high frustration levels trying to shop, stay within their budgets and keep track of their kids.

Chris was systematically wearing his mother down. He was pushing a toy in her face, begging her to buy it; giving it his scatter-gun technique; trying anything that would make her feel guilty.

"But I really need this. Come on, Mom! It's only $7.95! You spent more than that on Carla last week. Why can't I have something for a change?" I don't know why she always gets things and I don't. You like her better 'cause she's a girl. I never get anything. Please?"

Chris' mom finally lost the battle as well as her self-control. She was now screaming at him.

"Oh, all right! Put it in the cart! This is the last time you're going shopping with me. I don't know what's wrong with you. Why can't you leave me alone? Why do you always have to be so selfish? You don't need another toy. You never take care of the ones you have. All you can think of is more, more, more. You've got too much already."

At this point, I stopped listening. It hurt too much to hear the two of them going at each other, especially in light of my guess that this same scene will be played out almost every time the two of them go to the store together.

My heart goes out to Chris and his mom. I know that neither of them can be happy living out the interaction pattern they have developed together. Mom does not know how to set limits for Chris so she screams insults at her son, reminding him of his flaws every time she gets frustrated. Chris is learning that criticizing and manipulating is the way to get what you want in life. As he grows older and looks for a mate, his selections are going to be limited. The emotionally healthy women won't be very interested in him so he will have to choose from a pool of women who will play into his game.

Unfortunately, they will be like his mom, who screams and criticizes when things go wrong. He won't like that much and will probably end up with a low opinion of women. Of course, the emotionally healthy women he meets will tire of his game and drop him.

The first rule of Love and Logic is "Take care of Yourself in a Very Loving Way." Love and Logic parents say this is several different ways:

1. Set firm limits through enforceable statements.
2. Tell your kids how you will take care of yourself instead of issuing orders.
3. Never tell kids how to run their lives. Tell them how you are going to run yours. It is amazing what far-reaching implications are found in this rule. There are implications that apply to Chris and his mother in this rule.

A Better Life for Chris
Think how much different Chris might be in the future and think how much different his eventual marriage might be if his mom practiced the rule of "Take Care of Yourself." Let's run the tape backward and observe mom taking care of herself instead of criticizing.

Chris: "Mom. I need this."
Mom: "Do you have the money to buy it?"

Chris: "No, you buy it for me! It's not fair! Carla always gets stuff. I never get anything. She always gets her way 'cause you like her better. You're stupid!"

Mom: "Chris, that is really a bad decision. I'm going to have to do something about that, but not here in public. I don't want to embarrass you in front of other people. I'll tell you at home. Try not to worry about it in the meantime."

"And, Sweetie, if it would help to throw a fit, feel free to do it on the sidewalk in front of the store. Come back in when you are sweet."

How is mom taking care of herself?

1. She is not buying the toy
2. She is not giving in to the manipulation and guilt.
3. She is not throwing an adult temper tantrum.

4. She is not trying to think up a consequence for Chris' misbehavior while trying to shop.

5. She is giving herself time to design an effective consequence.

6. She is giving herself time to get help from her friends, if necessary.

7. She is giving herself time to rehearse how she will deliver Chris' impending consequence.

8. She is not going to listen to Chris' temper tantrum.

9. She is allowing Chris' problem to remain his problem in a very loving way. (Rule No 2 of Love and Logic)

She is allowing Chris to learn that neither manipulation nor complaining are good ways to get what you want.

This Love and Logic mother will probably call Mabel, the baby sitter that Chris hates. She'll ask Mabel to be Chris' sitter tomorrow morning. The next morning, mom will say to Chris, "I'm going shopping this morning. It's going to be a great day, because you won't be there and I won't have to listen to begging and complaining. You will be hiring Mabel to take care of you. Ask her how much she is going to charge you. See you later, Sweetie."

How is mom taking care of herself?

1. Chris is paying for the sitter.
2. Mom is not lecturing or threatening.

Mom will have a great time shopping on her own.

Mom is teaching Chris that her word is good. She will have fewer problems in the future.

5. Mom is finding out how easy it is to take care of herself compared to threatening, lecturing, screaming and criticizing.

6. Mom is finding that a person can say, "Here is what I'm going to do" in a very soft voice and make it stick.

If Chris grows up in a home where mom takes care of herself in a loving way, he will become conditioned to look for that kind of wife when he starts thinking of marriage. He will have learned a healthier way of interacting with women because of the good modeling his mother provided for him.

He will have a higher opinion of women and will probably treat them with more respect. The emotionally healthy women will be attracted to him and the odds go up for better relationships.

Unless Chris studies psychology, he may never know why he gets along so well in his marriage. It may not dawn on him that the seeds for his good relationships were planted during his early years by a mother who knew the importance of taking care of herself in a very loving way.
