

Five Candidates Prepare for Mar. 21 Jr. Miss Program

Heather Clayton

Tiffany Silflow

Anna Magnuson

This week the Kendrick-Juliaetta Junior Miss committee is pleased to introduce the final three candidates in this year's program to be held Saturday, March 21, in the KHS gym beginning at 7:00 o'clock.

Candidate No. 3 is Heather Clayton. She is the daughter of Doug and Christine Clayton of Juliaetta. Heather will be performing a dance for her Creative and Performing Arts and will be escorted by Silas Parks.

Candidate No. 4 is Tiffany Silflow. She is the daughter of Doug and Laina Silflow of Kendrick. Tiffany will have two brothers, Nick and Brock. She will be performing a tap dance for her offering in the Creative and Performing Arts category. She will be escorted by Richie Hitchcock.

Candidate No. 5 is Anna Magnuson. She is the daughter of Dana and Ellen Magnuson of Kendrick. Anna has one brother, Robert. Anna will present a poetry recitation in the Creative and Performing Arts category and will be escorted by Tony Howerton.

The theme for this year's program is "Mardi Gras Magic." The candidates and the committee have been working and practicing diligently as the March 21 date approaches.

Charles Lyons will be the master of ceremonies for this year's program.

KHS Opens Baseball Season Saturday Morning

Coach Kevin Driskill was pleased when 25 players turned out for the 1998 baseball season. Kendrick will open against Kamiah and Pottlatch Saturday, March 14.

While there is a good turnout this year, Driskill was quick to point out that he'll be fielding a young team, some of whom haven't participated in high school ball before. Only three seniors are on the Tiger roster this year.

All the home games this year will be played at Juliaetta's Centennial Park. In the Saturday double-header Kendrick faces off with Kamiah at 10 a. m. and then comes back to meet Pottlatch at 2:00 p. m.

Kendrick will be competing in the Class A-4 this year against teams from Nezperce, Lakeside, Highland and Culesac in league and state tournament play. The District tournament is at Clearwater Valley and KHS will host the Class A-4 State tournament on the Juliaetta field.

Although the season begins Saturday, Coach Driskill said his starting line-up is still "up in the air."

Kendrick will have at least three pitchers this season—all young. Back again is sophomore Jody Brown, a 1997 workhorse, Nate Eichner, a freshman, and Andrew Heimgartner, a sophomore. Seniors on the team are Tony Howerton, who will be starting at shortstop until Richie Hitchcock fully recovers from a leg injury suffered during football last last; Jimmy Chilberg who will be either a designated hitter or first baseman, and Outfielder Josh Fletcher. Junior Bryan Carter will be bringing experience to the team and Juniors Matt Tefft and Luke Ogle are also expected to see plenty of action.

Having a good turnout this season has allowed Coach Driskill to schedule a number of Junior Varsity games this year, the first these will be against the Lewiston Fresh team at the Clearwater field in Lewiston.

Upcoming games include:

14—Kamiah (home)	10:00
14—Pottlatch (home)	2:00
17—CV (away) Kooskia	4:00
19—Prairie (home)	4:30
21—Timberline (Kamiah)	12:00
21—Kamiah (Kamiah)	2:00

Development Assoc. to Meet At High School Mar. 12

The Kendrick-Juliaetta Economic Development Assoc. will meet at Kendrick High School Thursday noon, March 12 at the lunch room.

After a short business meeting, the group will tour the new computer facilities at the school.

This should be an excellent and informational meeting and all members of the association and other interested persons are most welcome to join.

A group of cranes is known as a sedge, a group of plovers as a congregation and a gathering of crows as a murraer.

There will be a meeting of the Kendrick-Juliaetta Planning and Zoning Commission on Wednesday, March 18 at 7 p. m. in the Kendrick Fire Hall.

Betty Clack of the Nez Perce County Planning and Building Commission will be a guest.

The meeting is open to the public.

Flea Market

Vendors Wanted

To potential "Flea Market" vendors: Plan to make Kendrick-Juliaetta's second annual Flea Market part of your summer selling circuit. Saturday, June 6, the market will be at the Kendrick City Park from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. Last year's market was excellent—this one promises to be even better. Contact Phyllis Berg (289-5302) for more information.

Ideas, Suggestions, Volunteers Welcomed By Festival Committee

Dennis Lukecart, general chairman of this year's Locust Blossom Festival, reminded this week that the May 30 event is not that far off and plans need to be made now to assure another successful celebration. The theme for this year's parade is "Cowboy Mardi Gras."

The festival is sponsored by the Kendrick-Juliaetta Lions Club and Lukecart said Jerry Brown is chairman of the booth committee. Pat Rush is chairman of the Main Parade, and Joyce Clemenhagen is the chairman of the children's parade.

Even though the Lions Club is the sponsor of the festival, its success depends largely on the cooperation and support of the entire community. Lukecart said he and the Lions welcome and encourage the suggestions, ideas and help of everyone for this event. Contact Dennis at 289-5642.

Development Assoc. Action Plan Meeting Mar. 23

Vivid memories of Ireland green Make me yearn for the emerald scene.

We watched raindrops dance on Kildare Street, As dancers twirled on bouncing feet.

We sang with real Irish balladeers. In the pub we clapped amidst the cheers.

At St. Patrick's well a coin was tossed And every show was worth the cost.

Ev'ry jig and dance was full of grace And we had to grin at each smiling face.

The lovely lanes and lush countryside, The brogue we heard on sightseeing ride, Made wandering Erin a pleasure;

Our riverdance trip a great adventure.

Kendrick Tree Pruning Workday Set for Mar. 14; Volunteer Help Needed

Kendrick's Urban Forestry Committee has set a Saturday, March 14 workday to finish a spring tree pruning project begun earlier this year.

Trees will be pruned in Wallace Park, Travis Park and a large honey locust on Main near Kirby St.

Committee chairman Dennis Lukecart said the volunteers should gather at the City Park at 8:00 a. m. and please bring rakes and other tools. Because of the inherent danger of tools such as the rakes, saws, etc., plus falling limbs, parents are encouraged to exercise judgement when considering bringing younger children.

Lorraine S. Goss Passes In California Feb. 26

Lorraine (Rainee) Sophia Goss of Redding, Calif., died Feb. 26 at her home from a heart condition.

Rainee, as her friends knew her, was a homemaker and a member of the V. F. W. Auxiliary 9999 Redding and American Legion Post 720, Shasta Lake, Calif. She married Dale Goss at Redding, May 12, 1979 where they made their home.

She was born May 26, 1927 at Peshtigo, Wisconsin, the daughter of Joseph and Julia Malinowski Pristel.

Survivors include her husband at the family home; a brother, Ed Pristel of Marquette, Wis.; sisters Alice Morgan of Provo, Utah and Ann Dugopoliski of St. Petersburg, Florida; daughter and son-in-law Gail and Erick Peterson of Anderson, Col.; son and daughter-in-law Kirk and Teresa Scarborough of San Francisco, Calif., and grandson Nathan Peterson and Stacy Peterson, both of Anderson.

She was previously married.

The funeral service was held on March 3 at the Allen and Dahl Funeral Chapel with Deacon Frank Lopez of the St. Joseph Catholic Church officiating.

Rainee had many friends in the Kendrick community. She and Dale visited every fall, spending time with her sister-in-law Betty Arnett and her husband Fred.

FROM THE SULLIVANS—

We wish to thank everyone who made our 50th anniversary such a special day.

To all who came to the open house, sent cards and/or called, we will always remember you.

Our family made us proud with all their plans and work. God bless you, Dan and Gladys Sullivan

Caregivers Take Care—

In recent years, an increasing number of people, including wives, husbands, sons and daughters, have assumed a new role in life—providing long-term care for an aging relative.

While meeting the needs of a loved one is important, caregivers must be sure not to neglect their own health and well-being; both for themselves and for those who rely on their support.

"There are tremendous burdens and stress from caregiving," explains Dr. Nancy Hooymann, dean of the University of Washington School of Social Work who has conducted research on the topic of caregiving and co-authored a book for caregivers. "People caring for a relative or friend need to realize they must take time for themselves and use resources at hand."

The increasing number of older people in America, combined with decreasing family sizes, have produced a greater need for long-term care with fewer family members available to provide it.

Hooymann explains that the greatest burden of caregiving is often the emotional one. "People feel they are alone and isolated because they have little or no time for themselves," she says.

Taking advantage of respite care services and other resources in the community can help caregivers get much-needed time for themselves. Hooymann explains that many families don't realize the services that are available in their communities.

To find out about local resources, caregivers can check with local senior services or the area agency on aging, which can provide information and referral services. Adult day-care centers are another resource that may be especially helpful for caregivers who are also employed.

Accepting help from other family members is another option that caregivers should consider. Hooymann explains that allowing other relatives to assist with care can help strengthen the bond between family members.

Asking for help can be one of the biggest hurdles for caregivers to clear. Doctor Hooymann also notes that some caregivers may feel that asking for help would be admitting to a failure or weakness on their part. Others may be uneasy having someone else step into their place, feeling that they are the only ones who can provide the care their relative needs.

Sometimes caregivers need to hear from their health care provider how important it is for them to stay healthy," Hooymann relates. "Unless they take care of themselves, they may become ill and be unable to provide the care that is so essential."

Hooymann adds that depression is a major problem experienced by caregivers. Local support groups, which can be located through hospitals and community agencies, can be an important way for caregivers to discuss their feelings.

Even when caregivers are unable to find alternate care, they should be sure to find ways they can relax. Reading a book, watching a sunset or taking a nap can help caregivers be revitalized, Hooymann says. Following a proper diet and exercising regularly are also essential to staying healthy and active.

The good news is that we are seeing more and more resources out there to help families caring for loved ones," Hooymann says. "Many caregivers discover new strengths in

Mouthguards a Must For All Kinds of Athletes

Losing or injuring teeth is no fun. Yet every year millions of people suffer dental injuries, many of them sports-related. These injuries might have been easily prevented by wearing a mouthguard.

"You don't have to play hockey or football to need a mouthguard," says Dr. Bruce Rothwell, chair of Restorative Dentistry at the University of Washington School of Dentistry. "Mouthguards should be worn in any sport where contact is possible."

An estimated one in 10 people who compete in athletics suffer a mouth or face injury, reports the American Dental Association. Rothwell, who treats patients at University of Washington Medical Center's Dental Clinic, has seen a variety of sports-related dental injuries.

"We see many basketball players and cyclists who suffer trauma to their teeth," he notes. "Any active person should consider having, and using, a mouthguard."

In addition to biking and basketball, other sports where dental injuries may be more likely to occur include soccer, martial arts, rollerblading, baseball, and racquet sports. Athletes of all age and skill levels are at risk for dental injuries.

"People are concerned about injuring their ankles or knees while exercising, but they often don't think about injuring their teeth," says Rothwell, who wears a mouthguard while cycling. "Athletes should use mouthguards just as they use helmets, pads, braces and other protective gear."

Improvements in mouthguards over the years have made them less bulky and better fitting. The standard types of mouthguards include:

- ◆ Custom fit. The most unobtrusive of all mouthguards are those made by a dentist to specifically fit a patient's mouth. They are small and light and do not interfere with talking. These types of mouthguards are the most expensive, since they are made from an impression of a person's teeth. Prices can range from $25 to $100.
- ◆ Boil and bite. These mouthguards, larger in size than those custom made, are shaped by first immersing in hot water to soften and then placed into the mouth to be shaped to the form of the teeth, by biting down on the mouthguard and themselves and become closer to their siblings or other family members."

pushing with the tongue. These guards are very inexpensive and are available at most athletic stores.

◆ Stock. Stock mouthguards come in several shapes and sizes and are usually made of rubber. Since they are already formed, they can be placed right into the mouth for use. However, since these are not custom fitted, athletes may find them bulky and uncomfortable to wear.

Regardless of which type of mouthguard you choose, it's important to make sure it is comfortable and does not interfere with breathing.

"As with any protective equipment, the cost and bother of wearing a mouthguard is nothing when compared to the pain and cost of a dental injury," Rothwell notes. "Wearing a mouthguard is a small price to pay to protect your smile."

(Chair of the Senate Transportation Committee) this afternoon. He reported the bill has been amended and passed by the Committee, and was now on the Senate Floor for debate. AAA, IACI, several insurance companies and the Boise Chamber of Commerce all support the bill. Jim Dalton, U. of I. student lobbyist spoke up about the safety concerns of Highway 95. The next two weeks will tell the tale.

3. HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS TAKING COLLEGE CREDIT—This excellent bill sponsored by Rep. Wayne Meyer smooths out the laws allowing high school students to take college courses. The bill would insure that school districts maintain their funding levels for juniors and seniors who leave campus to attend college classes. The bill goes to the senate.

4. SCHOOL FACILITIES INTERIM COMMITTEE—The Senate passed a resolution calling for an interim study on school facilities. The resolution now goes to the House.

5. SCHOOL BOND CONSOLIDATION—Sen. John Sandy's bill could possibly save millions in interest on school construction bonds if the state guaranteed the bonds. This bill cleared committee and will be voted on by the Senate. If the bill becomes law every school district in the state that issues a construction bond would have a AAA bond rating—which could mean a lower interest rate. No school district has ever defaulted on a bond. This looks like an excellent bill to help school districts and it won't cost the state a cent.

6. LIMITING MINORS ACCESS TO TOBACCO—This bill is sponsored by the PTA and would make it tougher for minors to get tobacco.

The bill would require retailers to place tobacco products out of customer reach and would ban tobacco vending machines and would fine employees who sell tobacco to minors. There is strong pressure from the tobacco Lobby to amend the bill.

7. BEER AND WINE TAX BILLS—All three bills introduced which would have used taxes to fund treatment and substance abuse education programs failed.

8. HELP FOR DISABLED VETERANS—The House passed a bill and sent it to the Senate allowing veterans with at least a 40% service related disability to exclude that income from consideration for a property tax credit. This could enable an additional 3,000 veterans to qualify.

9. FUNDING FOR LOCAL EMERGENCY SERVICES—Rep. Hornbeck's bill was approved by the House. Transportation Committee The bill will hike driver's licenses by $4 to pay for ambulances and equipment of emergency medical services at the local level. This would generate about $910,000 and allow the purchase of 54 emergency vehicles and equipment. This is an excellent bill for our rural area.

10. PUBLIC TRANSPORTATION BILL—A bill which would have subsidized public transportation for basically rural areas of the state failed in the House by a 32 to 38 vote. Rep. Miller and I voted for the bill.

11. FINAL FLOOD ACCOUNTING—The final cost for highways, etc. for the floods of the past two years amounted to almost $107M. Of this the federal government payed about $96 million and the State $9 million.

Legislative Newsletter

From Rep. Tom Trail
Week March 6

Visionaries—This is the 8th legislative newsletter. Speaker Simpson is still holding to a 20th of March wrap-up for the legislature. We are debating and making decisions on 20-30 bills a day. Sometimes I feel that we need a bit more time—maybe a week to really study and discuss the impact of some of the legislation.

1. 60% SCHOOL BOND ELECTION BILL DEFEATED—This bill presented by Rep. Fred Tilman, Rep. Donna Boe, and myself was defeated in State Affairs (my guess would be on a 11-10 vote). The bill if passed as a Constitutional Amendment on the November ballot would have allowed school districts to select the primary and general election dates only if they went for the 60% target. Since 1990 there have been 143 bond elections in Idaho. A total of 98 have been unsuccessful. Since 1995 20 bond elections have failed although they all achieved higher than a 60% turnout. The latest is the Wilder School District election where they failed to get the 2/3rds vote by 3 votes. Governor Batt lent strong support to this election.

We presented this bill as one part of a number of potential solutions. We still have a great backlog of facility improvements and building to catch up on. Reps. Jim Clark and Dennis Lake estimate we have a backlog of $350,000,000 in school construction and the Department of Education estimates a total of over $700,000,000. There was excellent testimony at the hearing and we will be drafting an improved version for next year.

2. HIGHWAY 95 BILL—This bill should be looked at as an entire state transportation bill. I talked with State Senator Evan Frasure
