Latah County Parent Project Workshop Begins In Kendrick April 13

Latah County Parent Project will present a series of Parenting Workshops at Kendrick High School beginning Monday evening April 13 and continuing through June 28. The workshops will be held each Monday evening from 6:30 to 9:30 p. m. There is no fee to sign-up for the course, but there will be a $20 cost for a workbook.

The Parent Project originated in 1987 in California. It is designed to help parents prevent and intervene with destructive adolescent behaviors. The goal of the Parent Project is to prevent and reduce drug use, high school dropout rates, and gang affiliation/violence. It also teaches parents how to identify and assist high risk youth.

The Parent Project is recommended for parents of children from grades 4-12. Some identifying factors for parents who could benefit from this program include those whose children have problems with school or school attendance, emotional or behavioral problems, possible drug and/or alcohol use; suspected criminal activity, and gang affiliation. A large portion of the program focuses on communication, affection, setting rules and tional or behavioral problems, leading a child's defiance, and not accepting challenges.

The workshop requires the purchase of a workbook that can be used as a reference manual. The facilitators of the workshop are required to attend a 40-hour training session in order to present the series.

The Latah County Parent Project is presented in conjunction with Latah County Youth Services, Department of Juvenile Corrections, Port of Hope, Idaho Department of Health & Welfare, and the local school districts. If you have any questions please contact Latah County Youth Services at 882-8580 extension 309 or toll free at 1-800-691-2012.

Forest Service Archeologist at Grange April 7

Kendrick Grange No. 413 will host a special lecture by U. S. Forest Service District Archeologist Robin Johnston Tuesday, April 7 at 7 p. m. at the Grange Hall. This slide show/lecture on aboriginal and early settler influences on plant to fish populations is one of the most informative and entertaining presentations on our area that you will ever see. Given the amount of environmental activism and pressure in this area, the show is a "must see" for any logger, rancher, farmer, naturalist, history buff, or student. Mr. Johnston's lecture is in demand from a wide variety of audiences and was most recently shown, last week, in Seattle.

Currently Mr. Johnston is working with all the ranger districts in the Clearwater region to document the cultural and economic influence on our forests, fields, streams, and wildlife from the pre-1800s to today. The degree and types of these impacts is very eye-opening and surprising to anyone who sees his show.

The lecture starts at 7 p. m. at the Grange Hall and is open to the public. A reception will follow and the Kendrick Grange warmly welcomes your attendance.

Selecting a Hearing Aid That's Right for You
 Help for those with a hearing loss is coming through loud and clear thanks to advances in hearing aids. Yet to get the most from a hearing aid, it's important to make sure it is properly fitted for both your hearing and for your lifestyle.
 "There are so many different options in hearing aids," explains Lori Aronovici, an audiologist at University of Washington Medical Center's Otolaryngology Clinic. "It's important to work with an audiologist to find a balance between your hearing difficulties and listening needs so you will get the hearing aid that works best for you."
 Hearing aids are designed to help amplify sounds. In the past, hearing aids only provided a "louder" mix of sound. Yet today's hearing aids can be adjusted to amplify soft sounds and keep loud sounds comfortable.
 "We want soft sounds like speech to be amplified, but we don't want loud noises like sirens or horns to be unbearably loud," Aronovici explains. "Hearing aids can't restore normal hearing, but they help make it easier for people to hear sounds again."
 Before being fitted for a hearing aid, a person should undergo a standard evaluation by an audiologist to determine the type and degree of hearing loss. In some cases, hearing loss may be related to a medical condition, such as an ear infection causing fluid to build up in the middle ear space or a bony overgrowth in the middle ear space, and will need to be treated accordingly.
 If a hearing loss cannot be treated medically or surgically, a person will then be referred for a hearing aid evaluation. Aronovici explains that through additional testing, an audiologist will be able to generate a target prescription.
 There are three types of hearing aids: conventional, programmable and digital. Conventional aids are designed for people with quiet lifestyles. Made of mechanical and electrical parts, they can be adjusted by audiologist using a screwdriver.
 Programmable hearing aids contain a computer chip that holds the settings in memory. They can be reprogrammed by an audiologist with a computer. These devices are designed for people with active lifestyles who need more complex sound control in order to hear in noisy situations. For greater flexibility, programmable hearing aids can be adjusted to have different listening programs. This will allow users to change the response of the hearing aid when their environment changes (such as from a home to a busy office).

 Digital hearing aids are the most advanced models. Digitization means that incoming sounds are converted into a stream of numbers that are analyzed by a computer chip inside the hearing aid. Digital sound has minimal distortion and is most appropriate when fit for better understanding of speech. People who lead active lifestyles and want the state-of-the-art technology and flexibility may prefer a digital model.
 Hearing aids also come in a variety of sizes from those that fit behind the ear or in the ear, to smaller devices that fit completely into the ear canal.
 "A person who lives a quiet lifestyle will need a hearing aid much different from someone who is more active," Aronovici explains. "I think it's important for every hearing impaired person to invest in the right hearing aids, so that the devices don't end up sitting in a drawer." After being fitted with a hearing aid, the patient should see an audiologist, who will perform validation testing to make sure it works as it should. This will include both asking for a patient's input and conducting objective testing. This step is very important, Aronovici says, adding that patients should be sure such testing is included.

 "In some cases, adjustments may need to be made," Aronovici says. "And later, as hearing abilities change, hearing aids should be reprogrammed accordingly."
 An ermine is only called by that name when its fur is white in the winter. In the summer, when its fur turns brown, it is called a stoat or weasel.

Curb-Side Recycling in Kendrick each Thursday morning

In cooperation with the City of Kendrick, Dave Dean of Davey's Recycling, will be in Kendrick each Thursday morning to pick up recyclible items if placed at the curbside.

Here is what is being accepted at this time:

- Newsprint
- Magazines
- Cardboard (corrugated & uncorrugated)
- Clear Glass
- Tin Cans
- Aluminum Can
- Plastics No. 1, No. 2 & Milk Jugs

THE FOLLOWING IS SUGGESTED:

- Please don't use plastic bags for recyclibles.
- Please have items out by 7:30 a. m. Thursdays
- It would help if you would rinse all cans and make sure they are empty. You do not have to take the labels off.
- Cardboard must be flattened. It would be very space saving if everything else was also flattened.

THANK YOU VERY MUCH

Park News

By Joe Smith

We had a fourt-inch of snow on the blooming daffodils Monday, so now spring can really come.

Stella and Monica Burnett were in Lewiston Sunday, March 15, for a visit with Stella's sister and brother-in-law, Starla and Jim Teal and son Jesse. She reported that her father-in-law, Marvin Burnett, recently returned from a month-long stay in New Zealand where he and others of Steve Henderson's logging crew worked to build roads and otherwise prepare his property for future logging. Sunday, March 22, Mike Burnett, his son son Randy and Floyd Medlock journeyed to Toucan, Washington for a 3-D bow shoot. Stella and Monica went to Spokane and Deer Lake for a visit with friend Sarah McVey. On their weekly trip to Lewiston Tuesday, Jerry and Jody Smith paid brief calls on Cheryl Sutton and Betty's mother Betty Stone. Wednesday visitors at the Smith place were Maury Heier, Kendrick, Stella Burnett, Randy and Monica Park, and Tom Foster, daughter Naphtali, and her cousin William Eilers of Deary. Friday evening Jim Smith and his fiancée Robin Lenz, brought his son Scott to Park from Hayden Lake to spend the week of his spring break from school with his grandparents Jerry and Jody Smith. Clinton and Ethel Smith joined the group for supper.

Saturday Jerry and Scott went to the livestock sale in Lewiston. That evening Judy went to Deary where she was joined by Mickey Duross for a trip to Princeton where they enjoyed the ham dinner and fancy-work auction presented by the Princeton Women's group. Sunday afternoon the Smiths enjoyed the hog roast dinner at the Troy-Deary gun club.

Clinton and Ethel Smith went to Moscow Saturday evening where Don and Eniss Smith hosted a pinochle party. Eighteen players enjoyed the evening with Victor Haag winning high for the men and Harley Gunther taking low. Anna Hunter won ladies' high and Ethel Harriek took low. Shirley Gunther won pinochle.
