KHS Track and Field Team Preparing for District Meet

Kendrick High School's track team has been working and training hard for district competition May 9 and 10 and according to Coach Bill Anderson, the team has a few bright prospects to qualify for the state meet in Boise.

Seth Parks should be a top contender for the long jump and will be competitive in the 100 and 200 meter dash.

Jennie Fischer has performed well in the sprints and the long jump. She took a third place medal in the 100 meter dash at the C. V. and Kamiah Invitational.

Jamie Harris has been a consistent performer in both the 100 and 200 dash and has an excellent chance to claim a state berth in the 200 dash. Tiffany Fischer has been improving steadily. With experience she will be a force in the White Pine League. She competes in the long jump, triple jump, and middle distances.

Steve Fuller is an extremely hard worker. He competes in the 400 relay and the 400 dash.

Heath Fuller runs in the 300 intermediate hurdles and the 400 relay. Heath works hard and is improving weekly.

Jeff Arnett specializes in the high jump. With a personal best of 5'4", Jeff has a good chance of earning a state berth.

Daniel Bunch competes in the 400 relay and the triple jump. Daniel's triple jumping abilities as well as his positive attitude makes him a valuable member of the team.

Coach Anderson stated, "I'm very proud of the way these athletes represent themselves and the community."

The season culminates with the state track meet in Boise, May 14-16.

Doris Ellis Attending National Leadership Conference in Kansas City

Idaho's Senior Vice-President Doris Ellis of Kendrick, a member of Baker-Lind Auxiliary No. 3913, joins other incoming state presidents, secretaries, and national leaders of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States at a national leadership training conference beginning April 24 at the Westin Crown Center in Kansas City, Missouri.

Ellis, who will assume the state presidency in June, will tour the National Headquarters and Museums of the Auxiliary and VFW, learn leadership techniques, and review the methods for administering the organization's 12 community service programs.

Highlighting the conference will be a Programs Fair where the participants can talk one-on-one with the new National Directors, and the Banquet Keynote Address delivered by incoming Commander-in-Chief Thomas A. Pouliot of Helena, Mont., on the key issues concerning veterans and their dependents.

Incoming National President Jane Bingham of Bridport, Vermont, will present a check to the incoming commander for the organizations' joint programs and will preside over the conference, which will be attended by approximately 130 members.

The 744,818 members of the Ladies Auxiliaries throughout the United States as well as in Germany and Guam, volunteer in our nation's hospitals, assist homeless veterans, raise $3 million each year to fight cancer, provide scholarships for young people, and provide prepaid telephone cards to hospitalized veterans and active duty military personnel serving overseas.

Region II Rural Partners to Consider Variety of Topics at LCSC on May 11

By Frank Jacobson

At their second regularly scheduled meeting this year on May 11 at Lewis-Clark State College, Rural Partners will hear progress reports on community development efforts in the region and will consider possible future projects. Dan Pierce, coordinator of the Clearwater Resource Conservation and Development Area, will chair the meeting, which is scheduled to begin at 9:30 a. m. in the Clearwater Room of the Williams Conference Center at LCSC—with registration and refreshments available at 9:00.

Following the welcome, agenda review, and introductions, Rural Partners from the five county area will share information concerning community projects. Dr. Mary Emery of LCSC's Institute for Community Development will then focus on celebrations, citing Rural Partners' recent successes. Among those sure to be celebrated is the inclusion of the communities of Weippe, Pierce, and Bovill in the Idaho cluster chosen by the Kellogg Foundation to participate in the MIRA project.

How These Things Came to be Chosen

The reader may remember that back in early February the cluster comprised of Kendrick-Juliaetta, Bovill, Weippe, Pierce Troy and the NP Tribe were disappointed to learn they hadn't made it to the site visit stage in the MIRA competition. Instead, a cluster represented by community development specialist Jim Birdsall—and with only the minimum number of communities required to apply for the grant—won the nod: The communities were Priest River to the north of us and Cascade and Council to the south. Because the cluster would have to have at least six communities to continue in competition, Birdsall began looking for additional cluster participants.

Following a telephone conference with representatives of the winning cluster, first Weippe and Pierce were invited to join them and then Bovill. Subsequently an Idaho cluster consisting of Council, Cascade, Priest River, Plummer, Pierce, Weippe and Bovill was chosen from among nationwide groups to participate in the first round of annual MIRA projects. Certainly something to celebrate!

So What Makes a Winner?

Successful proposals, according to Kellogg officials included but were not limited to the following characteristics: They put people first, technology second. They were dominated and driven by citizen action and had more than one youth representative on community teams and steering committee. They demonstrated outreach to players not normally included in community development activities. They had an innovative and entrepreneurial response to the opportunity that MIRA presents. And—perhaps most importantly—they reflected an attitude of bias for action, a desire to pursue MIRA goals regardless of funding. (Emphasis added.) MIRA—correctly read as: Managing Information with Rural America (Kellogg's own language)—a project to promote the development of community capacity through the use of telecommunications and electronic media.

So What Happens Next?

At a planning meet facilitated by Vicky Luther of the Heartland Center on Apr. 20, the Idaho cluster chose Lewiston as the site for the six workshops at which each community will learn to manage information and build community capacity. Subject for the first workshop, one from a list of required topics, will be Living with Change. Elaine Johnson of Council heads the steering committee. Jim Birdsall is a contact person for the project.

While electronic media may well be at the cutting edge of the future in community development, we're not there yet. And for now, at least, we and other farm communities in our five county region will depend on rural newspapers to keep us up to date on local issues. Butch Alford's startling revelation that the Kendrick Gazette may be looking for a new owner-publisher immediately gives us pause to consider whether, for example, a Latah County-wide weekly can ever take its place! For this reason, your reporter has asked that the agenda include space and time to discuss community newspapers, how we use them and how we support them. And remember, there's one thing the electronic media can never have: a human face. Think about it!

Other Items on the Rural Partners Agenda

At the May 11 meeting there will also be updates of projects underway, those concerning oral history, the Bicentennial, tourism, and the Alliance for Youth. Pearl Bouchard of LCSC will be discussing the senior citizens nutrition programs in Region 2. Roundtable discussion topics will also include education and business support, as well as community newspapers. The meeting will conclude with a workshop on Planning for Using Technology. Cost of the meeting: $10.00, includes box lunch and breaks. RSVP to Cheryl Grim, 799-2460 or cgrim@lscs.edu.

LOCAL CANCER CRUSADE BEGINS IN MAY

The American Cancer Society will be having a community crusade the month of May. Local volunteers will be coming to your door giving out literature and seeking contributions. Part of your contribution stays in local offices to help cancer patients. Your support and generous donations are appreciated.

Kaye Harris
Crusade Captain

Letters to the Editor . . .

Editor:

There are some rumors circulating around Kendrick and Juliaetta that I'm having a party for the seniors and that I'm allowing alcohol there. Let's just nip this in the bud now! I am not nor have I ever entertained the thought of doing this. I am however the parent coordinator for the senior non-alcoholic party. This means I'm out there with the students fund raising, coordinating with them, and their parents, the lists of activities and basic structure of the party. I am also a chaperone for the entire night. To the people who started this rumor, I must say you must have pretty dull lives that you would jeopardize the kid's fund raising all for a vicious lie! If you people would have called and asked me if this was true, rather than spreading the word, you may have found out some facts, something I'm sure would have left you a better person than the one who spreads gossip! I have put a lot of time into the non-alcohol party, and will continue to do so. It's something I believe in and am proud of, and I simply refuse to let you ruin this for the kids, simply out of spite. You know nothing about me, you do not know what kind of Mom I am, what kind of wife I am, or what kind of person I am, mainly because you've never asked, or simply because you don't care, because the rumors are so much more fun.

I will say this to you, "I suggest you clean up your own back yards, before you jump the fence and try to clean mine, you may find a big dog that bites hard." And if your lives are so boring, you have to make things up about me, then take dance lessons! Or better yet we still need volunteer chaperones for the night of the senior party, that should give you something to talk about, something true that is!

I also want it on record that I love living in Kendrick, it's a beautiful place, it's serene and peaceful, and I like most of the people here. I feel they are good, decent, hard working people, most of which wouldn't hurt anyone if they could help it, and would be there if need be. The sorry few who think that dishing dirt is fun, you not only hurt the person who's your victim at the moment, but you hurt the dignity of the community!

To the person or persons who took it upon themselves to come so freely into our yard and steal the set of 7 by 8 elk horns:

You didn't just steal a set of worthless horns! Those were gotten from hours of long walking, treks up and down steep draws. Not to mention the money for a hunting license and the ammo that goes with it!

They were a son and father's first hunt reward! As far as I'm concerned you poached!!! You took a part of an animal that you did not legally earn!

I can't believe a person would or could stoop so low as to steal from someone's yard! If you needed the

Strong Winds Damaged Lohman Machine Shed

A strong wind storm last week in the Southwick area blew down a large machinery shed near the Ron Lohman residence.

Sonja reported the storm struck between 3:30 and 3:45 in the afternoon flattening the 80'x30' metal shed that was sheltering two combines and some plows. The extent of damage to the machinery had not yet been determined.

money why not just ask. We would of helped you out. If you think you are going to get away with this hideous crime you are wrong! What goes around comes around. One day we are all going to be held accountable for our actions. You might not get caught right away, but you will one day! You ought to try and accomplish the feat of hating for such a prize on your own sometime, then you'll understand the reason we are so angered!

Well, whatever the reason you had for STEALING, I hope it was well worth it! You're the one that has to look at yourself in the mirror each day! I hope it bothers you just a little bit, that you could do such a thing! You have also managed to crush our 8-year-old boy who was so proud of him and his Dad's great accomplishment!

Thank you! I pray that God will forgive you! You know who you are! Sickened beyond Definition!

Dear Editor:

Although our family no longer has elementary school age children attending JES, I am particularly alarmed to learn about unattended disabled vehicles "up on blocks" in close proximity to the grade school. This is very disturbing that the school district has not yet filed a complaint with the Latah County Sheriff's Department and the City of Juliaetta. If even one youngster were injured, this would be one child too many, surely the City of Juliaetta must act swiftly on behalf of the school children.

The school also ought to instruct the children not to play on or about parked vehicles, so they will remain safe.

The Latah County Sheriff's Department still has some responsibility to enforce laws in Juliaetta and citing junk vehicles that pose a clear and present danger to young grade school students, is their job!

Kendrick just adopted a vehicle and parking ordinance that will even provide for handicap parking zones, well as dealing with junk and abandoned vehicles.

Sincerely,
Joyce Brocke

Boundaries and Expectations

By C. N. Partee
Principal, Kendrick High School

Last week we explored Empowerment, this week I would like to look at the important areas of setting Boundaries and Expectations.

Young people of today often try to function in a society where boundaries have not been clearly defined. Imagine, if you can, driving on a highway where the speed limit varies with the officer on duty at the time. This is often the case in homes and in our schools today. With so many of our youth being raised by multiple adults, whose rules are different, it is no wonder that they push the boundaries.

Research tells us that young people are capable of either living up to or down to the expectations that adults set for them. This is big responsibility, a responsibility we as adults cannot afford to take lightly.

Some areas of boundaries and responsibilities are:

- 1) Family boundaries—a family needs to have clear rules and consequences. Most important, families need to monitor the whereabouts and friends of young people.
  - 2) School—schools need to set clear boundaries and consequences. Schools and families need to support each other's boundaries. A boundary usurped by either party undermines the authority of both.
  - 3) Neighborhood—all community members need to be concerned about the actions of our young people.
  - 4) Adult role models—adults need to model the behavior desired.
  - 5) High expectations—adults, set high expectations for young people and they will respond.
- Next week: Constructive use of time.

Line Dance Conditioning Classes are Cancelled

The Friday night line dance conditioning class scheduled to run through May has been cancelled due to lack of interest.

If you have questions or suggestions, call Kari at 289-4888, or Ellen at 289-289-3941.

Mystery Dinner Theater May 15, 16

The Mystery Dinner Theater has been re-scheduled for May 15 and 16 at 7 p. m. in the Kendrick Grange Hall.

Tickets are $10 and may be purchased at the Red Cross Pharmacy or the Kendrick Copy Center.

Pool Mural Restoration—

Marjorie Snyder, a Lewiston artist, is directing volunteers to restore the crumbling pool mural in the Kendrick city park. If you want to help with the project call Ellen Magnuson (289-3941).

Volunteer artists so far have been Jaelyn Lohman, Lindsey Williams, Ellen Magnuson, and Shirley Richey.

Thank to the Latah County Arts and Culture Committee for partial funding of the project.

On average, every seventh wave is a big one.

Lions Club Has Busy Agenda

The Lions Club met last Wednesday evening to attack a full agenda. The Park Renovation Project is still foremost on the agenda since Locust Blossom Festival is just a month away. The Lions Club will be working in conjunction with the City to renovate the gazebo. The first work night was Tuesday evening. Lions member Dave Dudunake has been contracted by the city for the majority of the work. Work will include a new roof and repairs to the existing structure, as well as new paint. To wrap up the Renovation Project, a small bronze plaque will be placed in the park to commemorate the Lions Club efforts.

The following new officers were elected: Ron Johnson, president; Jim Brocke, vice-president; Sharon Harris, Lion Tamer; and Dave Klatt, Tail Twister.

All committees reported on progress concerning this year's May 30 festival, "A Cowboy Mardi Gras." Festival shirts, hats, and visors will soon be available for purchase.

In other business, the club pledged $1250.00 to purchase Christmas decorations for Kendrick and Juliaetta main streets.

each Thursday morning

In cooperation with the City of Kendrick, Dave Dean of Davey's Recycling, will be in Kendrick each Thursday morning to pick up recyclible items if placed at the curbside.

Here is what is being accepted at this time:

- Newsprint
- Magazines
- Cardboard (corrugated & uncorrugated)
- Clear Glass
- Tin Cans
- Aluminum Can
- Plastics No. 1, No. 2 & Milk Jugs

THE FOLLOWING IS SUGGESTED:

- Please don't use plastic bags for recyclibles.
- Please have items out by 7:30 a. m. Thursdays
- It would help if you would rinse all cans and make sure they are empty. You do not have to take the labels off.
- Cardboard must be flattened. It would be very space saving if everything else was also flattened.

Sunday evening they visited with Juanita Reece in Cavendish.

Last Thursday between 3:30 and 4:00 p.m. (during the windstorm), Ron Lohman lost his big machine shed due to the wind.

Visitors at the Ron Lohmans have been Lyle Parks of Lewiston; Ray and Stella Lohman; Cory and Lisa Cooper, Tracy and Cody, Lydia, Micah and Joe Golden; Don and Juanita Golden; Elsa Cummings, Bill Wills, and Craig and Brenda Roeticoender.

Lyle Parks of Lewiston was a Saturday and Sunday night guest of his mother Margaret Parks.

Seasonal Allergies can Plague Children

A runny nose, watery eyes and wheezing can be an unwelcome part of the spring season for some children due to seasonal allergies. While allergies can indeed be a nuisance, there are some simple things parents can do to help alleviate their child's allergy symptoms.

"Seasonal allergies generally don't pose a threat to a child's health, but they can be miserable," says Dr. Jeff Wright, medical director at University of Washington Medical Center's Pediatric Care Center. "I think it's important for parents to step back and take a look at how they can best help their children deal with allergies."

People can develop allergies at any time in life. Common inhaled allergens include pollen from trees and plants, house dust and animal danders. Wright notes that allergies can be an inherited condition and children may develop inhaled allergies as early as one year of age.

"The simplest, most effective way to reduce allergies is to reduce a child's contact with what he or she is allergic to," Wright says. "Since children spend a majority of time in their bedroom, I suggest that parents start there first."

Reducing dust, mold and other irritants in the bedroom can be done by removing plants, stuffed animals, shag carpet and other items where allergens may collect. Wright also suggests using foam pillows and covering mattresses with plastic, damp-mopping floors and washing clothes and bedding regularly in hot water.

Thorough cleaning of the entire home can also be helpful. Wright advises parents not to smoke in the home or allow guests to do so. Using air filters and air conditioners in the home can be very helpful to improve indoor air quality.

In addition to controlling the environment parents can also treat a child's allergy symptoms with the use of over-the-counter remedies. Antihistamines, available in nasal spray, eye drops and inhalers, can block allergic responses. Newer antihistamines on the market may also be less likely to cause drowsiness or dry mouth. Cromolyn, a prescription medicine, is another option. Wright notes this product does not have side effects such as drowsiness and needs to be used a few months before allergy season arrives to be effective. Inhaled steroids may also be helpful to control inflammation.

In cases where a child's allergies are severe, and environmental and other measures do not provide enough relief, allergy shots (immunotherapy) may be an option. This type of treatment requires careful testing by a qualified allergist to identify allergens. Patients then receive small, incremental doses of allergens to desensitize their bodies from future reactions. Wright notes allergy shots can be costly and may not be effective in many cases.

"Many children outgrow allergies and in some cases they aren't that bothered by allergy symptoms," Wright points out. "Parents should be sure not to limit a child's activities because of allergies. If they begin to interfere with daily life, then it's time to see a doctor."

Children Health Insurance Program Task Force Meets in Boise April 30

Health and Welfare Director Linda Caballero today appointed a 22-member task force to examine a new state-federal program that expands health care coverage for children in low-income families and recommends a long-term plan for its operation.

"I have asked this group to examine what role the private sector should play in Idaho's Children's Health Insurance Program," Caballero said. "The program has been operating for a few months now as a Medicaid program, but it may be appropriate for the private sector to play a greater role or run it entirely."

Sen. Grant Ipsen of Boise will chair the task force, which holds its first meeting Thursday, April 30 in Boise. The group includes a wide range of people from across the state, each with an interest in children's health issues—parents, health care providers, insurers and advocates.

"The decision on the role of the private sector is important," said Ipsen, who is Chairman of the Senate Health and Welfare Committee. "But there are some other areas I think we should look at too, prevention and family responsibility for example."

The task force will meet monthly in Boise. Ipsen anticipates forwarding a recommendation to Caballero by October. The April 30 meeting begins at 9 a.m. in the East Conference Room of the Hall of Mirrors, 700 W. State St. in Boise.

The Children's Health Insurance Program began operating in October 1997, the first month federal money was available. The initial state funding came from savings generated by welfare reform. The Legislature approved additional state funding for the program in March. Currently, children from families whose income is at or below 160 percent of poverty are eligible.

Horse Liniment Eases Arthritis Pain

OCALA, Fla.—An ingredient derived from hot peppers has been used to create inflammation in horses' legs, is now recognized as an effective for human use. The ingredient has been formulated into a product called ARTH-Rx that works in a strength designed for horses. Researchers are excited that the formula can relieve arthritis for millions.

Developed by the Phillips Van Heusen Corporation, ARTH-Rx is a product through in the treatment of painful disorders ranging from minor aches and pains to more serious conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, tendonitis, tendonitis, backache and more.

Although the mechanism by which ARTH-Rx works to relieve pain is not totally clear, scientists suggest that pain is relieved because ARTH-Rx intercepts the messenger substance that sends pain signals to the brain.

ARTH-Rx is available in a convenient roll-on applicator without a prescription. According to a spokesperson for the company, due to the overwhelming demand for ARTH-Rx, supplies are sometimes limited. ARTH-Rx can be ordered by calling 1-800-729-8446.

ARTH-Rx is available locally at:

Jessica Bunch is Winner of Farm Credit Services
1998 College Scholarship

Jessica Bunch of Lenore is among the winners of the 1998 Farm Credit Services Scholarship Program. Sixteen scholarships were offered to high school seniors of Farm Credit customers in Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and Washington; four winners from each of the states were awarded $1,000 scholarships. "Farm Credit is committed to rural America. Through our scholarship program, we are able to further enhance our customers' children's higher education. This is a wonderful opportunity for us to give back to our customers," explained Jay B. Penick, President and CEO of Northwest Farm Credit Services.

New this year, four additional scholarships were awarded to Farm Credit customers' sons or daughters who will be college juniors/seniors in the fall of 1998 planning on pursuing an ag-related career. "We expanded our program to include college students in 1998 as often times scholarships are not readily available to those currently enrolled in college," Penick said.

College winner Jessica Bunch is a junior at the University of Idaho and was recently accepted into the veterinary school at Washington State University where she will attend next fall. She has worked as a veterinary assistant for three years at a vet clinic. Jessica is a Sunday school teacher, 4-H vet science leader, and a member of Alpha Zeta Honor Society. Her parents are Gordon and Charlene Bunch of Lenore.

"Paint Party" Helped At Cantril Home

Last Saturday and Sunday, April 25 and 26, Eddie and Darlene Reid, Fred, Rick and Jeff Arnett, Mark Reid and Marcia Bell, Larry and Paula Arnett, Bill and Rory Reid all joined in a "paint party" at the home of Ula Cantril. Bev Rollins was also on hand to help fix dinner for the crew. It was hard work, but fun! Fred had been there on Friday and sanded. Ed and Darlene spent Saturday night with Allen Chilberg and Ed came back Sunday morning to have breakfast with his mother and worked some more. Rory Reid helped his grandma fix Sunday dinner. Larry worked Ula's garden and Darlene mowed the lawn while Marcia pulled weeds. This was a hard-working crew and Ula appreciates their effort so much. She thanks them for making the place look so beautiful.

Also dropping in on Sunday were Connie and Shandy Reid, Lloyd Arnett and Lena Hunt and Betty Arnett and Bev. Rollins.

Mark Reid and Marcia Reid took Ula to Lewiston Tuesday where they had breakfast and picked up some more paint.

Wind, Cold Faced Campers

At Hellers Bar Campout

Members of the Kendrick Campers Klub were met by cold temperatures and wind last weekend as they arrived at Hellers Bar for a campout along the Snake River. Thursday afternoon a vicious wind and rain storm blew through the area causing a few minutes of great concern for an extended awning on one of the vehicles.

Wildlife watching was a joy for all—with quail, chukers, songbirds, deer and a herd of six bighorn rams being observed. The sheep spent an entire afternoon on a hillside just above camp. There were many boats on the river, too.

Members who went to camp were Emma and Jesse Biggers, Bob and Mary Ellen Bottjer, and Fred and Alice Snyder. Jeanette and Jim Thiel and Reba Toomey and Ed Ulrich arrived for the traditional Saturday potluck, which had to be eaten in one of the RVs. Visitors one afternoon were Gaynelle and Merlin Worley. All returned to their homes Saturday afternoon.

By Jody Smith

Several sunshiny days in a row have dried up the wet spots in the fields and hatched the farm equipment out of the winter storage sheds.

A busy week for Jerry and Jody Smith included business trips to Lewiston and Moscow. They attended the memorial service for Viola Holt in Lewiston Wednesday and continued on to Bear Ridge for the interment and dinner. Jody attended two showers during the week, a bridal shower for Ashley Fadess, bride-elect of Jeff Ward, and a wedding shower for Ben Griner and Claire Lukensmeyer. Both parties were in Deary.

Barbara Kinzer and daughters Joy and Erin came from Pullman to spend Saturday with her parents. Other visitors at the Smith place were Gary Eggers and sons Doug and Darrah from Bovill; Jesse and Dorine Grott and Jessica from Elk River; Jeff Schroeder, Troy; Lonnie and Marilyn Austin and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Johnson and two children, all of Princeton.

The last pinocle party of the season was hosted by Dr. Wm. and Ann Durbon at their Moscow home Apr. 18. High man was Don Smith and low was Bill Durbon. Ladies high and pinocle went to Ethel Harrick, with Jody Smith being low.
